SUMMARY.

[The] latest telegrams from Servia state that [the] general situation is most serious.

[The] Government has removed from Prisrend to Scutari, in Albania.

[The] Servians have lost their hold on the [histo]ric Kossovo Plain, where Sultan Murat [was] defeated the Servians in 1389.

[Fight]ing, however, continues on the Kossovo Plain. The Bulgarians claim to have captured eight guns.

[The] Servian victory at Leskovatz, south of [Nis]h, was only a partial success, and did not [suff]ice to stop the enemy's advance.

[It] was followed by sanguinary battles [betw]een the Servian vanguard and the Bulgarian vanguard north of Monastir.

[Offi]cial accounts of the fighting state that [the] Servian forces remain intact.

[The] Servian morale is unaffected by reverses, and the strategic situation is not [beyo]nd redemption.

[The] Servians continue on the defensive in [the] mountain defiles in order to permit of the [con]centrating.

[The] Servian Minister for War has been interviewed at Salonica.

[The]re are still, he says, 200,000 Servian [troo]ps, 25,000 having been killed or wounded [and] 25,000 taken prisoners.

[The] War Minister added that Britain and [Fran]ce were preparing surprises in the Balkans.

[Kin]g Constantine has announced that the [Allie]s' Note would be favourably received.

[It] is generally believed that Greece will [absol]utely accept the demands.

[It] is reported that partial demobilisation [of] the Greek army is talked about in Government circles.

[It] is stated that the Greek Government has [provis]ionally consented to continue to grant [faci]lities at Salonica to the Allies.

[M.] Stavridi, the Greek Consul-General in [Londo]n, has returned from Athens, and has [been] interviewed.

[Sev]eral members of the Greek Cabinet told [him] that Greece was bound to come in with [the] Allies.

[It] was a mistake to think, he remarked, [that] King Constantine was unfriendly to England.

[Rou]mania is said to have refused an Austrian request to permit gunboats to navigate [the] Danube.

[Ger]man semi-official messages confirm the [repor]t that 200,000 Russians are concentrated [agai]nst Servia.

[It] is officially stated in Rome that the [Germa]n battle-cruiser Derfflinger has been [torpe]doed and sunk in the Baltic.

[Anot]her British submarine flotilla is at the [entra]nce to the Sound, awaiting an opportunity to slip through into the Baltic.

[It] is officially stated in Rome that the [Itali]ans have occupied the Calvario Crest, [west] of Gorizia.

[The] Italian offensive in the Carso was [mark]ed by the capture of a deep line of [trench]es on Monte San Michele.

[A] Turkish communique says there is violent [fight]ing on the right wing at Sed-dul-Bahr.

[Step]s are being taken to increase the effec[tive]ness of the British general staff by ad[ditio]ns and redistribution.

[Mr.] Asquith states there is every reason[able] hope that it will not be necessary to [resor]t to a system of compulsion to obtain sufficient recruits.

[Lord] Selborne, addressing the Institute of [Jour]nalists, said, "I believe to-day is the [hour] just before the dawn.

"It is certain as sunrise," he added, ["that] Germany will be crushed and the [Allie]s' peace secured."

[The] British forces have captured Otesiphon, [18] miles from Bagdad. Turkish counter-attacks were repulsed.

[The] London newspapers give prominence to [Aust]ralia's new recruiting scheme to raise [an a]dditional 50,000 men.

[The] new Federal recruiting scheme provides [for a] campaign by municipal and shire councils and road boards.

[Inqu]iry by letter is to be directed to all [men o]f military age as to whether they [are w]illing to enlist.

[No] males of military age will be allowed [to le]ave the Commonwealth without a passport.

[The] proposal to raise 1000 recruits from the [rifle] reserves is being taken up with considerable enthusiasm.

[The] Manly Club has guaranteed a section, [and] the Metropolitan Club has promised to [raise] a platoon of four sections.

[Brig]adier-General J. W. M'Cay has been [appo]inted Inspector-General of the Australian Imperial forces.

[As a] result of the dry spell the official estimate of the wheat yield has been reduced by [...] bushels.

[The] Queensland Minister for Lands arrived in Sydney yesterday.

[He s]ays that the drought in the northern [State] is almost as serious as that of 1902.

[Mr.] Hughes hopes in a few days to be able [to co]mplete arrangements for the shipment of [large] quantities of wheat.

[He s]tates that the prospects of the wheat [harv]est in South Africa are exceptionally [good].

[The] 113th Australian casualty list contains [the n]ames of 25 officers and 408 men.

[The] hospital ship Kanowna reached Sydney [yeste]rday with another batch of New South [Wales] and Queensland wounded on board.

[The] men were accorded a rousing recep[tion, a]nd were driven in motor cars to the [Rand]wick Hospital and the Soldiers' Club.

[The] Queenslanders were entertained at the [Soldie]rs' Club by the Red Cross Society.

[The] trouble which has been threatening in [the m]eat trade in Adelaide over the rates of [pay h]as reached a climax yesterday.

[Near]ly 1000 men in the iron trades section [of th]e Islington Government workshops ceased [work] and marched to the city.

[In] the debate in the Assembly on the Agricultural Estimates the department was criti[cised] for not standing by the producer.

[The] Legislative Council passed the Dairy [Indus]try Bill through Committee.

[The] Eight Hours Bill was debated on the [motio]n for the second reading. The debate [was a]djourned.

[In] moving the second reading of the [Liqu]or Act Amendment Bill Mr. Fitzgerald [advoc]ated a wet canteen in camps.

[The] only cure for drunkenness, he said, was [to di]spense beverages of a lower alcoholic [stren]gth.

[The] debate was adjourned till next week.

[The] Newcastle branch of the Political La[bour] League supports Mr. Gardiner, M.L.A., [in th]e stand he took in the Assembly.

[At] the Millions' Club luncheon the Attorney-[Gener]al referred in an optimistic way to Aus[tralia's] resources.

[The] trial of the three men charged with the [murde]r of a constable at the Trades Hall [Cant]een was begun yesterday.

[Evid]ence was given in support of the Crown [case], which was closed. The hearing was [adjour]ned until to-day.

[The] Customs-house departments have re[ceiv]ed notice to vacate their offices by Decem[ber 3]1 owing to rebuilding operations.

[At] the conference of the Local Government [Clerk]s' Association Mr. J. Garlick gave an ad[dress] on the law relating to town-planning.

[The] work of the Civil Ambulance and Trans[port] Corps shows a large increase over that [of 19]14.

[The] Premier stated in the Assembly last [nigh]t that the recent recruiting campaign had [been] a comparative failure.

[A] butter famine is feared. The posi[tion i]n the other States is also acute.

[A Bi]ll to create a Government bread mono[poly] will shortly be submitted to the State [Labo]r caucus.

[A fa]ir amount of business was transacted [in in]vestment stocks in the Sydney Stock Ex[chang]e yesterday, at varying values.

[The] wool sales closed yesterday, with prices [at th]e best rates of the season.

[Fore]cast.—A shower or two likely on the [Sout]h Coast; otherwise fine and warm; variable winds, equally north-easter on the [coast]; easterly inland.

THE THEATRE DINNER

EVERY FRIDAY EVENING

is appreciated by all who desire a dining-room service modelled upon the best London restaurant system.

TABLE D'HOTE, 4/6, 6.30 to 8.30.

This weekly function has its regular visitors, and it is desirable that seats be reserved by communicating direct with the Restaurant Manager.

RESTAURANT TELEPHONE, CITY 70.

OUR WASHABLE GAZELLE GLOVES, SO LONG PROMISED, HAVE ARRIVED.

These were promised us by the first of last August. Need we say how fortunate we consider ourselves to have received them even by this date.

We are making this announcement with the main object of acquainting enquirers with the fact that our Washing Gazelle Gloves have arrived and also to let other ladies know of the splendid quality and wear these gloves afford.

They are a washing glove with all the appearance of Fine Suede, with strap and dome at wrist, and can be supplied in the following lengths—

In White only—
Button length	4	6	8
Price per pair	6/6	7/6	10/6

GLOVE DEPARTMENT, CENTRAL PITT-STREET SHOP.

HOSIERY OF HONEST WORTH.

These are scarce lines and will certainly become more difficult of obtaining as time goes on, as English and European mills are finding it harder every day to obtain materials and workers.

The first is a MERCERISED LISLE HOSE with DOUBLE HEELS and TOES, and double tops for Suspenders. To be had in Black or White. 2/ PER PAIR, OR 3 PAIRS FOR 5/9. The next is another line similar to above, but in a distinctly better quality. 2/3 PER PAIR, OR 3 PAIRS FOR 6/6.

The third is a Smart Stocking Style in LADIES' LISLE HOSE with SELF VERTICAL STRIPE. This novelty at 2/9 PER PAIR in Black only, or 3 PAIRS FOR 7/11.

IN THE HOSIERY DEPARTMENT,

CENTRAL PITT-STREET SHOP.

THE LACE SECTION

INVITES YOU TO SOMETHING VERY SPECIAL.

We have lately purchased a very fine line of FANCY COTTON LACES and INSERTIONS. The designs are extremely pretty and most suitable for Underskirts, Frills, Blouses, and Dress Frontings. And the VALUE IS SOMETHING MOST UNUSUAL. Just note:—

INSERTION. 5-inch wide, 5½d per yard. 6-inch wide, 6½d per yard.

THE LACE. 5-inch, 3½d yard. 7½-inch, 5½d yard. 8½-inch, 7½d yard.

These may be inspected in the Lace Department, Central Pitt-street Shop.

WE PAY CARRIAGE on Fashion and Drapery Goods, and Travelling Requisites, but on heavy goods, such as Ironmongery, Crockery, etc., we pay carriage to the extent of 5 per cent. (1/ in the £1) on the amount of purchase.

A LESSON IN A DIALOGUE.

WHERE TO BUY PIANOS. WHERE TO BUY PIANOS.

Visitor: That's a beautiful piano, my dear—how ever did you afford the money at such a time?" Hostess: "It's a Hopkinson, a genuine British instrument—and, listen, it costs me only a little every week, and the agents are so agreeably businesslike it doesn't seem like time-payment at all. It's quite a pleasure to buy at Carnegie's."

May we make piano-buying EASY for you, too?

HAVE YOU EVER WORN LACE-COTTON UNDERWEAR?

Many men who for years kept strictly to pure wool are now showing preference for cotton garments during summer.

It is really a wise preference—the cotton being so much cooler to wear.

Moreover, there is the matter of economy. Woollen goods are already very scarce, and will soon be expensive.

For hot day wear our Lace Cotton Undergarments are ideal. One does not feel their weight, and the texture is so open that perfect ventilation is assured.

We have featured them successfully for years, and are quite confident that they are the best of all cotton undergarments.

CHAPTER XXIII.—Continued.

Jimmie turned his attention to this man. He had risen to his feet, and was standing between Mrs. Wythenshawe and the other woman, looking first at one and then at the other, as he talked to them. He was just what Mrs. Bywater had described him to be—a big, clean-shaven, good-looking Americanish man, with a square, determined chin, keen eyes, and a firmly-set mouth; a man, decided Jimmie, of character and of force. Jimmie felt attracted by him; enemy he might be, criminal he might be—but he was certainly a fellow worth fighting.

The other occupant of the box Jimmie did not know. She was a middle-aged woman, who had been pretty, and who had made determined efforts to keep so. She communicated an impression of rouge and powder, of false teeth and hair of artificiality, which was much in contrast with Mrs. Wythenshawe's vigorous style of beauty. But artificial and shallow as she looked, Jimmie was quick enough of eye and perception to see that her two companions paid her great attention, and that all their conversation was directed to her.

Jimmie waited until the curtain rose again. In the ensuing gloom he gently crept away and joined Mrs. Bywater, who had gone back to her seat. Together they went out into the saloon.

"Well?" asked Mrs. Bywater.

"I saw him," answered Jimmie. "You're no doubt that he's the man?"

"Not the least. I wish I was as certain of finding a fortune awaiting me to-night as I am of that!" asserted Mrs. Bywater. "That's the man who called himself Mr. Curtis, of New York—oh, yes!"

"All right," said Jimmie. "Leave it to me. Go back to your seat and enjoy yourself. If you should happen to see me hanging around when you leave the theatre, don't recognise me; don't even give me the quiver of an eyelash. I shall be somewhere down there, and I shall be very—busy."

Mrs. Bywater nodded knowingly, and went away, and Jimmie proceeded to find the nearest telephone. He rang up his own chauffeur and bade him bring his car round to a certain side street close to the theatre, and to be in readiness there at eleven o'clock. And that done, he went back and stood at the back of the dress circle, and alternately watched the play and the people in the second box exactly opposite.

It was just after 11 when the final curtain fell. There were loud and repeated calls for the principal actor; the audience seemed in no mind to leave until the great man had gratified them with another sight of him. But the great man, having had the curtain raised three times, refused to exhibit himself further, and there was a sudden exit to the doors. Jimmie had been prepared for this, and had stolen out as soon as he saw Mrs. Wythenshawe and her companions move, and when they came down the stairs into the entresol he was close behind them, and was able to examine them more narrowly and to overhear what they said. In the crush and confusion outside he also contrived to keep near them without attracting any attention, and presently when he went off to get his own car he was in possession of two bits of valuable information—one, that Mrs. Wythenshawe had gone straight home to Wilton-crescent in one taxi-cab, and that the somewhat faded lady and the man whom Jimmie knew as Curtis had driven away in another to Holgate Lodge, St. John's Wood.

"That's a bit of downright luck!" murmured Jimmie, as he got into his car and took the wheel from the chauffeur. "I guess I can hit that spot without much difficulty. No need to keep 'em in sight, so long as I know where they're going."

Nevertheless, when his car had got clear of the thicker mass of traffic in the immediate neighbourhood of the theatre Jimmie saw the taxi-cab ahead of him; he saw it again when he was well outside the crowded tracks, and had crossed the Marylebone-road; he followed it up the west side of Regent's Park, and along the big, black wall of Lord's Cricket Ground. And, fearful lest its occupants should think that they were being followed, he slowed up, dropped well behind, and let it get ahead. But he kept an eye on its dwindling lights, and he noted that they turned up Grove End-road. Seeing that, Jimmie purposely drove past the end of the road, went along towards the dip into Maida Vale, and suddenly wheeled round into Hamilton-terrace. He accelerated his speed then, turned to his right again at St. Mark's Church, and came back towards the top of Grove End-road from the north. And in a quiet side street he pulled up his car, dismounted, bade the chauffeur wait about for him, and strolled off.

Jimmie had a moderately intimate acquaintance with St. John's Wood. He was a habitue of Lord's during the cricket season; he knew two or three actors who had small boxes in the neighbourhood; one or two artists who lived in miniature palaces; half a dozen theatrical ladies who dwelt in little villas or cosy flats. And he had a dim notion that he had seen the name Holgate Lodge painted on some entrance gate not very far away from the point where Abbey-road begins. Anyway, he was in no doubt about quickly finding it.

The place was suddenly presented to him out of the gloom—a square, old-fashioned stuccoed house, set in a good-sized garden behind high walls. At one end of the wall which enclosed house and garden on the street side was a door, in the top panel of which a grille was set; at the other end a double-door gave admittance to a carriage-drive. And Jimmie, who had already looked stealthily about him and seen no sign of human life immediately near, tried them both, and found both fast locked or barred. Also he found that the top of the wall was liberally provided with sharp and ugly bits of glass.

But having come thus far Jimmie was not going to be denied. He walked along by the next villa—also detached and furnished with a garden—and was overjoyed to find that the wall was not only lower, but innocent of the barbarous glass. And with another look round to see that he was not observed, he swung himself up over that wall, and in another minute had climbed some substantial trellis-work and dropped down into the garden of Holgate Lodge. Yet another minute and he had skirted the lawn and hid himself behind some bushes in close proximity to the house, in the lower windows of which lights were burning. His notion was to look in at one of those windows; he wanted to know who was within. But he had scarcely taken up his position when the front door opened; a decidedly American voice said "Good-night!" and Curtis came out, walked down the path, let himself out at the door in the wall, and went away. In the prevalent quietness Jimmie heard the sound of his footsteps die off in the far distance. And as it died away another sound came—the whirr of a motor car.

The car stopped at the garden door; he heard a man jump out on the pavement. A bell rang just within the house. The garden door clicked; a man came swiftly in as it opened, and advanced just as swiftly up the path. And as the house door opened to admit him the light from the hall lamp fell full on the face—the perplexed and annoyed face—of the Marquis of Scraye.

CHAPTER XXIV.

THE LETTER FROM PARIS.

The closing of the hall door upon the newcomer roused Jimmie from a reverie born of sudden and great surprise. Here was a development of affairs which he had never anticipated! He had been surprised—but not unduly surprised—when he saw Mrs. Wythenshawe in company with Curtis, and with the lady whom he believed to be in the house outside which he was now crouching like a burglar or a sneak-thief. But that was nothing in comparison with the surprise which he felt on seeing Scraye enter the precincts of Holgate Lodge. Examining the state of his mind more closely, Jimmie realised that what caused this surprise in him was not the mere fact of Scraye's presence—there might be many reasons for his presence at this quiet house in St. John's Wood; they might be good, satisfactory reasons—ordinary, everyday reasons. No—what occasioned Jimmie so much astonished was the expression on Scraye's face as he advanced up the pathway to the door. There was a strong light within the hall; its glare had fallen full on Scraye's features, and there Jimmie had plainly read annoyance, vexation, anger. And as he stood behind the sheltering bushes he began to wonder what was going on in that house, now quiet and peaceful as any country retreat. Something, he felt sure, that was out of the usual or the commonplace.

He turned in the shadow of the shrubs and examined the building behind him. There was a large French window in the front of the house; lights shone through its blinds and curtains. A line of evergreen bushes stretched from where Jimmie stood to the angle of the house; more shrubs of the same sort were planted along the wall and underneath the window. They were of no great height, and they were sparsely planted, but Jimmie was by that time desperately inclined to run risks. He satisfied himself as far as he could that no one was watching him, then, bending low, he crept round to the window, and having hidden himself as well as he could behind a clump of laurel, peered into the lighted room at a place which he had already noticed, where the blind swayed away a little from the window sash.

He had expected to see Scraye, and he saw him. He stood in the middle of the hearthrug, talking to the somewhat fanee lady of the theatre. He was wearing his fur-lined overcoat; he held his hat in his hand.

LAW REPORT.

HIGH COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Isaacs, Mr. Justice Duffy, and Mr. Justice Rich.)

Dearman v Dearman.

Argument was concluded in this case, and the Court reserved judgment.

SUPREME COURT.

BANCO COURT.

(Before the Chief Justice and a jury of four.)

The action, Halstead v Municipality of Willoughby is still part heard.

IN EQUITY.

(Before the Chief Judge, Mr. Justice Simpson.)

Albert Gregory, Ltd., and another, v C. Niccol, Ltd., and another.

(Before Mr. Justice Street.)

ESTATE OF BERNARD BOGAN, DECEASED.

Bogan and others v Bogan and others.

This was an originating summons instituted by Edwin Bogan, Ellen Mary Jane Ziotkowski, Sarah Athile Downes, Arthur Gladstone Bogan, Parnell Bogan, and Lavinia Smith, children of Bernard Bogan, deceased, late of Laurieton and Sydney, sawmill owner, for the following, among other, orders:—That the real and personal estate of the deceased be administered under the direction of the Court; that an account be taken of what the real and personal estates consisted at the time of the testator's death, and at the present time; that an account be taken of the income of the personal estate, and the rents and profits of the real estate, which had come into the hands of the trustees of the will, or either of them; and that the defendant, Hugo Bogan, be ordered to pay into court all moneys belonging to the estate of the testator now in his hands.

Mr. Davidson, instructed by Mr. F. W. Lee, appeared for the plaintiffs; and Mr. M. A. H. Fitzhardinge for the infant defendants, Eileen Bogan and Charles Bogan. There was no appearance for the defendants, Hugo Bogan and Sarah Bogan, the son and widow respectively of the testator.

By his will, the testator, who died in March, 1905, bequeathed his estate to his widow and children, and appointed the defendant, Hugo Bogan, and William Martin Bogan, executors and trustees of his estate.

His Honor made the orders as asked.

TRUSTS OF AN INDENTURE SETTLEMENT.

Body v Campbell and others.

Mr. Wickham, instructed by Mr. E. E. Fosbery, appeared on behalf of Edmund Cuthbert Body, grazier, of Strathbogie, Emmaville, sole trustee of an indenture of settlement made by Elizabeth Campbell, on July 4, 1879, in an application for the removal of a contract of sale, made between the plaintiff and Elizabeth Campbell, as vendors, and Colin James Campbell and Catherine Body, as purchasers of Elizabeth Campbell's interest in certain station properties, which properties were the subject of the settlement made by Elizabeth Campbell in 1879. The properties were known as Ranger's Valley Station, near Glen Innes; Beefwood Station, near Moree, and Inverell Station, in the land district of Inverell, and were valued at nearly £200,000. It was explained that the application was necessitated by the fact that Catherine Body, one of the purchasers of the interest, was the wife of the trustee of the settlement.

His Honor, after hearing the affidavits, granted approval of the sale.

Mr. Clive Teece, instructed by Mr. M. A. H. Fitzhardinge, agent for Messrs. Avern and McIntyre, of Inverell, for the defendants, Elizabeth Campbell, Margaret Fraser, William Wilberforce Fraser, Peter Colin Campbell, James Campbell, Catherine Body, William Harrington Palmer, Catherine Gibson, Elizabeth Jean Gibson, and Bertha Rina Campbell.

TRANSFER OF A LEICHHARDT PROPERTY.

Hanly v Preciane.

Mr. J. A. Browne, instructed by Messrs. C. A. Coghlan and Company, appeared on behalf of Francis Hanly, in an application for an order that the Chief Clerk in Equity may be appointed to execute in the name of the defendant, William Frederick Preciane, a memorandum of transfer of certain property, situated in Balmain-road, Leichhardt, in favour of the plaintiff, which the defendant had been ordered to execute by direction of the Master in Equity on September 27 last, in pursuance of a decree made by his Honor Mr. Justice Harvey in August last, and to do all things necessary to give validity and operation to it.

There was no appearance on behalf of the defendant.

It appeared that, by an agreement made in April last, the defendant covenanted to sell certain property on Balmain-road, Leichhardt, to the plaintiff, for £725, on certain terms. Plaintiff paid £150 deposit, and applied for particulars of his title, but the defendant neglected, and refused to furnish them, and repudiated and refused to carry out the agreement. Plaintiff subsequently instituted a suit, in which he asked for a declaration that the agreement should be specifically performed by the defendant; and on August 17 his Honor made a decree ordering the defendant to carry out the agreement, and directing the Master to make certain inquiries.

His Honor granted the application as asked.

NO. 1 JURY COURT.

The case is still part heard.

NO. 2 JURY COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Sly.)

STATION ASSESSMENT APPEAL.

The appeal by Alexander Busby, grazier, against the assessment of his property at Cassilis by the Federal Land Tax Commissioner, is still part heard.

IN DIVORCE.

(Before Mr. Justice Gordon.)

POLLOCK v POLLOCK.

Ada Pollock, formerly Coxon, petitioned for a dissolution of her marriage with David Alexander Boyle Pollock, on the ground of his drunkenness and failure to support petitioner. The marriage took place on August 2, 1896, at Goulburn, according to the rites of the Presbyterian Church. Mr. Boyce, instructed by Messrs. M'Elhone and Barnes, appeared for the petitioner. His Honor granted a decree nisi, returnable in six months, respondent to pay costs.

FERGUSON v FERGUSON.

The part-heard suit instituted by John Henry Ferguson, against Margaret Peel Ferguson, formerly Morris, for restitution of conjugal rights, was decided in favour of the petitioner. His Honor directed the respondent to return to the petitioner within 21 days from the service of the order. Mr. G. Martin, instructed by Mr. E. R. Abigail, appeared for the petitioner.

HYLAND v HYLAND.

On the ground of desertion, John Joseph William Hyland petitioned for a divorce from Emerald Emma Hyland, formerly Corby. The parties were married on July 31, 1901, at Dubbo, according to the rites of the Roman Catholic Church. Mr. Boyce, instructed by Mr. C. L. Chauncey, agent for Mr. L. A. Lane, of Orange, appeared for the petitioner. His Honor granted a decree nisi, to be moved absolute in six months.

MORRIS v MORRIS.

Julia Maria Morris, formerly Shailer, applied for a dissolution of her marriage with Patrick Morris, on the ground of his desertion. The parties were married on December 2, 1901, at Forbes, according to the rites of the Church of England. Mr. Boyce, instructed by Mr. C. L. Chauncey, agent for Messrs. Ellison and Crowther, of Parkes, appeared for the petitioner. His Honor granted a decree nisi, returnable in six months, petitioner to have custody of the children, and the respondent to pay costs.

BRYANT v BRYANT.

Mabel Maude Bryant, formerly Marsh, sued for a divorce from Percy Albert Bryant, on the ground of his desertion. The marriage took place on March 26, 1912, at Canterbury, New South Wales, according to the rites of the Presbyterian Church. Mr. Boyce, instructed by Mr. C. L. Chauncey, agent for Mr. L. A. Lane, of Orange, appeared for the petitioner. His Honor granted a decree nisi to be moved absolute in six months, the petitioner to have custody of the children, and the respondent to pay costs.

ELLIS v ELLIS.

Richard Ellis petitioned for a divorce from Eveline Ellis, formerly Field, on the ground of her misconduct with Robert Knauf, who was joined as co-respondent. The parties were married on November 20, 1906, at Mount Victoria, according to the rites of the Roman Catholic Church. Mr. W. C. Moseley appeared for the petitioner, and Mr. Leslie Gannon for the respondent, who denied the allegation. His Honor granted a decree nisi, to be moved absolute in six months; part of respondent's costs to be paid by petitioner; no order for costs was made against the co-respondent.

ELLIOTT v ELLIOTT.

Lily Elliott, formerly Sigsworth, petitioned for a divorce from Percy Elliott on the ground of his alleged misconduct with a woman at Newtown in June, 1915. The parties were married on August 22, 1908, at Waterloo, according to the rites of the Congregational Church. Mr. Robert W. Fraser appeared for the petitioner. His Honor directed the case to stand over for fuller evidence.

HARRIS v HARRIS.

Irene Clara Harris, formerly Ware, petitioned for a divorce from Reginald Alfred Harris, on the ground of his alleged misconduct with Vera A. Falls at Rose Bay and at Marrickville. The parties were married on October 14, 1911, at Ashfield, according to the rites of the Church of England. Mr. H. E. Manning, instructed by Messrs. Stephen, Jaques, and Stephen, appeared for the petitioner; and Mr. Barton, instructed by Messrs. Ash and M'Lean, for the respondent in the matter of the custody of the child. The case stands part heard.

INDUSTRIAL COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Heydon.)

CLERKS' BOARD.

Mr. A. N. M'Kell, public accountant, and Mr. A. P. Wyly, secretary of the Employers' Federation, were nominated as employers' representatives on the clerks' board of the Professional and Shopworkers' group. His Honor said he would recommend these nominations.

Mr. Salenger applied for the exemption from the jurisdiction of the board of the clerical staff of the Permanent Trustee Company of New South Wales; Mr. Baxter (Burns, Philp, and Co.) and Mr. Phillips (Australian Gaslight Company) asked for like exemptions of their respective clerical staffs. His Honor granted the three applications.

STOREMEN AND PACKERS.

Mr. Curlewis, instructed by Messrs. Minter, Simpson, and Co., applied on behalf of the Sydney Wool and Produce Brokers' Association, for consent to appeal against the award of No. 3 board (Storemen and Packers in Wool Warehouses) of the Transport group. His Honor gave his consent to the application.

SHOP ASSISTANTS.

In the Professional and Shopworkers' group, the appeal lodged against the Shop Assistants' Board was still part heard.

IN BANKRUPTCY.

(Before the Registrar, Mr. F. H. Salusbury.)

MOTION FOR RELEASE.

Re Andrew Patterson. The bankrupt appeared in person. A release was granted, the same to act as a certificate of discharge.

HEARING OF CREDITOR'S PETITION.

Walter Macneil v Arthur Bryant Triggs. Mr. J. L. Campbell, K.C., and Mr. R. H. L. Innes, instructed by Mr. S. M. Stephens, appeared for the petitioning creditor; Mr. C. Minter, of Messrs. Minter, Simpson, and Company, for the respondent Triggs; and Dr. Brissenden and Mr. Wickham, instructed by Messrs. Minter, Simpson, and Company, for the trustees of the assigned estate of Arthur Bryant Triggs.

The matter remains part heard.

CENTRAL CRIMINAL COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Ferguson and jury.)

Mr. Herbert Harris, Crown Prosecutor.

FISHERMAN CHARGED WITH MURDER.

James Piper, 23, was charged with the murder of William Parcell, at Laurieton, on the Camden Haven River, on August 25, 1915. Accused was defended by Mr. J. C. Gannon, K.C., and Mr. Cecil Cohen, instructed by Mr. R. C. Jansson, of Wingham.

The Crown Prosecutor said the accused Piper, the deceased Parcell, and a youth named Abbott, 17 years of age, were in partnership on the river as fishermen. The murdered man joined the partnership some time in April, and it was admitted that the business was very successful, the youngest member of the party drawing between £4 and £5 per week. When Parcell joined the partnership he took with him a boat and a quantity of tools. It was suggested by the Crown that the motive for the crime was to secure the murdered man's assets and share of the business. Parcell disappeared on the date alleged as the date of the murder. When Piper was asked where he was, he said he was asleep in the hut, and when, later on, he did not put in an appearance, Piper said he supposed he had gone to Coopernook. It was subsequently recalled by two people that they had heard cries for help coming from the direction of Piper's hut on the river on the date mentioned, but they did not bother to go to render assistance. Sixteen days later, on September 10, a gruesome discovery was made by a rower exercising on the river. He struck the body of a man floating on the surface of the water. The body was found to be attached to an old iron anchor, weighing nearly 100lb. It was identified as the body of William Parcell, and an examination disclosed that the back of the head and side of the face had been battered in, presumably with the roller used in the boat to manipulate the fishing net. As a result of inquiries made, including the interrogation of the deceased man's partners, Piper was charged with the crime.

A fisherman, in the course of his evidence, said that he had heard the sound of a heavy stick or instrument being used on something soft, followed by snores or groans. This was followed by the sound of something being put into a boat, and the boat rowed away up the river in the direction of the ferry. The boat stopped in the stream, the oars were lifted in, and then the witness heard the sound of something like a kellick being thrown overboard.

The witness who cut the body away from the anchor said it was securely bound at the ankles, and the anchor was attached by a rope run round the waist.

At 6 o'clock the evidence for the prosecution had not been completed, and the Court rose till to-day.

QUARTER SESSIONS.

(Before Judge Docker and juries.)

GUILTY OF RECEIVING.

John Lafferty, 16, and Albert Leslie Hayes, 16, pleaded guilty to feloniously receiving a quantity of articles, including two watches and a revolver, which were said to have been stolen from the dwelling-house of George Carl Tangler von Casel, at Woollahra, on October 10. Sentences of six months were passed on both lads, who were, however, liberated as first offenders. Mr. J. W. Abigail represented the boys.

ASSAULT CASE.

John Clancy, 34, was charged with maliciously wounding William Nettleton, 60, at Waterloo, on August 5, with intent to do grievous bodily harm.

Accused pleaded not guilty, and was defended by Mr. J. W. Abigail. The assault was admitted, the defence being that Nettleton had provoked the trouble by insulting accused's wife.

The jury found a verdict of guilty of assault, without intent. Clancy was sentenced to twelve months' hard labour in Goulburn Gaol.

A PARK EPISODE.

Edward Atkin, 44, was charged with assaulting Percy M'Donald, a member of the expeditionary forces, in Belmore Park, on November 3, and robbing him of cigarettes, matches, and 2/1 in cash.

Accused pleaded not guilty, and was defended by Mr. Spear.

The jury returned a verdict of assault with intent to rob, and Atkin was sentenced to 12 months' hard labour in Bathurst Gaol.

THE TRUST OF EMPIRE.

ARCHBISHOP'S REFERENCE.

The Agent-General has forwarded to the Premier a report of the address delivered by the Archbishop of Canterbury at the memorial service in St. Paul's Cathedral on June 15 for Australians and New Zealanders who have fallen in the war.

"When," said the Archbishop, "in conditions the hardest and the most unpromising, Australia and New Zealand came successively to the birth a century ago, as a living part of the British Empire, who would have dared to fashion in remotest vision the stern, yet romantic, story of 1915? The eager manhood of the young raw Commonwealth, the product of our own time, first carried with swift safety across the successive seas, then disciplined and prepared for action under the shadow of the world-old Pyramids, and then gaining their first experience of the shock of the onset within sight and hearing of the plains of Troy—an almost inconceivable intermingling of the old world and the new. The bare story is itself a stimulus and a reminder of what the lessons of history and the trust of Empire mean."

REFERENDUM.

MR. W. E. JOHNSON'S VIEWS.

In an address to the Petersham branch of the Women's Liberal League in the local Town Hall, Mr. W. Elliot Johnson, M.P., said that the people had been relieved of the distraction of worrying over and voting upon a number of far-reaching proposals for altering the Constitution, but at what cost? All the amendments asked for—whether the people approved or not—were to be surrendered by the State Parliaments for the term of the war and for 12 months thereafter. Not because they were required for war reasons. There was nothing in the terms of surrender to limit the application of the States' transferred powers to war purposes only; they could be used for a Federal invasion of State functions in every sphere of the social, industrial, commercial, and civic life of the community.

The State Parliaments having once ceded their hitherto sovereign rights of legislative control to the Federal Parliament, it was not by any means certain that they could withdraw them at the expiration of a given period. The bargain had, however, been made, and made, too, without in any way consulting the Liberal section of either the State or Federal Parliaments. The results remained yet to develop.

THE LABOUR PARTY JUBILEE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—With reference to your epitome of Mr. George Black's book on "The Origin and Growth of the Labour Movement in New South Wales," I have not the least desire to intrude on the jubilee of the party, but for the sake of historical accuracy, I would like to correct one of the statements made by Mr. Black, to the effect, as published by you, that "Mr. Fitzgerald was sent to Great Britain by the Labour Defence Committee (of the maritime strike in 1890) to raise funds for the support of the strikers." At the time I was secretary of the Labour Defence Committee, also of the Trades and Labour Council, so I should know something of the subject. The truth is, Mr. Fitzgerald was going to England on his own account, and the Labour Defence Committee gave him credentials, through me, to place before the trade unionists of the old country the facts connected with the strike in Australia. I also, on behalf of the Trades and Labour Council, gave Mr. Fitzgerald letters of introduction to various bodies in England, and one to Mr. John Burns; but there was never any mention of raising money for the strikers; and, in fact, not even the fractional part of a penny was ever subscribed by people in Great Britain towards the support of the maritime strikers in Sydney.

"LIQUOR EXAGGERATIONS."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Archdeacon Boyce, in your issue of the 24th inst., under the above heading, comments on certain statements made by me in a letter of a previous issue, and charged me with exaggeration by inference. As to whether my statements, or Archdeacon Boyce's statements, better deserve the term of exaggeration, I am perfectly willing to leave to the judgment of your readers. One paragraph of Archdeacon Boyce's letter, however, is particularly misleading. The Archdeacon, in referring to wages paid to brewery employees, says: "Not anything, however, that the union has said, in view of the millions of the drink bill, causes me to think that they are properly paid, even with the award." This statement undoubtedly is intended to convey the impression that the Liquor Trades Defence Union had said that a sufficient wage was being paid. The Archdeacon's object is, of course, obvious to the most casual reader. The New South Wales Alliance has suddenly conceived the idea of championing the cause of the workers engaged in the liquor trade, for the apparent purpose of obtaining the support of their fellow unionists, though it is a well-known fact that the Alliance vote has been cast consistently against Labour candidates for Parliament, even when these candidates have been in sympathy with its views.

I strongly object to the Archdeacon's statement, as quoted, because in my letter in answer to the Archdeacon's reference to the strike, I expressly stated that industrial matters were entirely outside the scope of this union, and that I did not propose to make any comment on the strike. I protest against this union being brought into any industrial dispute between liquor trade employers and employees. The controversial methods of Archdeacon Boyce—to put it mildly—are somewhat peculiar. To use the Archdeacon's words:—"Is it fair and honest? Is it playing the game?"

I am, etc.,

EDWIN STOOKE, Secretary.

The Liquor Trades Defence Union of N.S.W.

BE GUIDED BY THE VOICE OF EXPERIENCE.

USE

HEAN'S ESSENCE,

THE GREAT MONEY-SAVING REMEDY FOR COUGHS, COLDS, CATARRH, AND OTHER CHEST and THROAT TROUBLES.

COSTS 2/ (by post 2/3). Makes ONE PINT Finest Quality Medicine—equal to 12/ worth of ordinary mixtures, therefore SAVES 10/.

PLEASE NOTE that HEAN is spelt with Four Letters Only, and is pronounced HEEN.

The efficacy of HEAN'S ESSENCE as a corrective of chest and throat troubles was thoroughly proved before it was decided to place it upon the market as a family remedy, combining economy with quality.

It was established beyond all doubt that there was no other medicine which would act more speedily and effectively in disinfecting, soothing, and healing inflamed mucous membrane of the throat and bronchial tubes, loosening phlegm, allaying coughs, and bracing the system to help it ward off disease.

The expectorant, disinfectant, healing and tonic properties of Hean's Essence are an ideal combination. That is why it does so much good.

Every day letters are received from all parts of Australia telling how chest and throat troubles have yielded to the healing influence of Hean's Essence after having stubbornly resisted other remedies for months, and in some cases years.

The testimony of those who have used Hean's Essence leaves no room for dispute as to the medicinal value of this excellent and economical preparation. The following are typical of over 2000 letters received in twelve months:—

Mr. M. LEVY (aged 82 years) of "Ravenscroft," Burwood, one of the oldest and best-known members of the Jewish community in Sydney: "Having been a long sufferer from bronchial and catarrh trouble, I was induced by a friend to try Hean's Essence. I obtained great relief after using one bottle, and I can with assurance recommend your remedy for the ailments specified."

Mr. W. W. GIBSON (aged 81 years), one of the best known residents of the Newtown district, and the oldest Grand Lodge officer of the Masonic Order in New South Wales: "A friend recently presented me with a bottle of Hean's Essence, assuring me it was the best remedy procurable for coughs, colds, and throat troubles. I had it made up according to directions, and am pleased to say it gave me prompt and effective benefit."

Mr. HAROLD E. LUPTON, manager of H. Lupton and Co., property salesmen, of 16 Pitt-street, Sydney, and Eastern-avenue, Kensington: "For many winters I have been subject to colds, which have always clung to me for several months, despite the use of many remedies. This year I contracted my usual cold, and decided to give Hean's Essence a trial. I took it in sips at frequent intervals during the day, and the result was truly surprising. Several of my friends have used Hean's Essence with equally gratifying results."

Mr. E. J. CARD, of the Waterloo Brickworks, known wherever firebricks are used in New South Wales, and founder of the Society of Good Bricks: "I know of no more valuable or economical remedy than Hean's Essence. It is in a class by itself as a cure for colds and chest complaints, and I always keep a bottle of it handy. The man responsible for its discovery is a real brick, and I heartily congratulate him on providing such a boon to suffering humanity."

Mr. R. C. TEAS, Engineer, of "Glen Ferrie," Double Bay: "For over 18 months I was troubled with an extremely unpleasant throat affection and huskiness of the voice. I tried many treatments without avail, but one and a half bottles of Hean's Essence has dispelled the trouble, and I am now as right as ever I was. I have great pleasure in recommending Hean's Essence as a corrective of throat disorders."

Mr. J. RICKETTS, of Wonderland City, Bondi: "For seven years I was the victim of distressing winter colds and throat troubles, which were aggravated by the fact that I live right on the ocean's edge, exposed to all the worst weather. I tried many remedies, without benefit, but I am pleased to say Hean's Essence has effected a complete cure."

Mr. FRANK M. JONES, who was for 22 years acrobat with Fitzgerald Bros.' Circus: "For years I was troubled with catarrh and a cough which started as soon as I woke of a morning, and lasted for a couple of hours. Within a week of starting to use Hean's Essence there was an appreciable improvement, and after using about four bottles my old enemy—the morning cough—has quite disappeared."

Mr. THOMAS J. CLINES, Secretary of the National Sporting Club: "My recovery from a very severe cold and distressing cough has been so wonderful that I wish to let other sufferers who may be run down as I was from the hacking cough and difficulty in breathing know what a remarkably quick relief-giver Hean's Essence is."

Mr. FRANK WALTON, J.P., Secretary of City Tattersall's Club: "I have used Hean's Essence in my household with most beneficial results, and consider it one of the finest as well as the most economical of remedies."

Mr. LINDSAY MILLARD, General Manager for R. G. Dun and Co., Brisbane: "For some time my children suffered from croup and colds due to the sudden changes in our Brisbane temperature, and, though I tried various remedies, it was not until I bought, upon the advice of a friend, a bottle of Hean's Essence that they experienced any marked relief. I am very gratified, indeed, at the prompt results obtained with your Essence, and can heartily recommend same to everyone in need of an efficacious remedy for cough or cold."

Mr. ALEXANDER SINCLAIR, J.P., care the Highland Society, 56 Hunter-street (for 15 years with Messrs. Goldsbrough, Mort, and Co.): "When five years of age I had a very severe attack of scarlet fever, which terminated in an outbreak in the throat, the scars of which I bear to this day, both externally and internally. Added to this, since I was 17 years of age, I have been a heavy smoker of pipe, cigars, and cigarettes. Of course, through the latter especially, I got a smoker's throat, and the accompanying cigarette cough. Until Hean's Essence came on the market I never found anything to stop the tickling cough, but Hean's does it every time. In my opinion, no smoker, and especially one who inhales the smoke and does the 'drawback,' as it is popularly called, should be without Hean's Essence. I have found it invaluable for all affections of the bronchials and throat, and recommend it with confidence."

TROOPER A. D. HOWES, of Redmond-street, Leichhardt, now of the 9th Battalion, Australian Light Horse: "From infancy I suffered with a chronic cough, for which I had been under no end of treatments, at a cost of hundreds of pounds. It seems extraordinary, after all these years, and after all the money spent, that relief should have come to me in a few weeks at an expenditure of a few shillings on Hean's Essence. I have now been in Liverpool Camp for about 12 months, and, despite the trying conditions, Hean's Essence has kept me free from my life-long tormentor—a chronic cough. I sincerely wish you every success."

Mrs. J. THOMAS, Strathalbyn, South Australia: "I was very ill for a fortnight, and could not get anything to give me relief. For three days I was in bed, and could not hold my head up. The following week my cough was so bad, and it made me feel so ill, that I had to sit up before a fire the whole time, and I could get no rest. Mrs. H. Allen told me of Hean's Essence, and I obtained a bottle. I used it according to directions, felt benefited almost at once, and was quite right again in a few days. I wish to thank you for the benefit derived from the use of Hean's Essence."

Mr. CHARLES WHITE, the popular Australian author and journalist, now of the "Farmer and Settler" staff: "I have much pleasure in testifying to the effectiveness of Hean's Essence as a speedy corrective of throat trouble. For a considerable time I suffered from constant [illegible] in the throat and [illegible] of the vocal chords, seriously affecting my voice. I tried various gargles, [illegible] and [illegible] of and tried [illegible] [illegible] I did not find a real relief. A friend [illegible] [illegible] Hean's Essence, [illegible] that he had derived great benefit from its use, and [illegible] I can now [illegible] [illegible] To others [illegible] [illegible] that which [illegible] annoyance and [illegible], I have no hesitation [illegible] [illegible] this simple and effective remedy. [illegible] my opinion, [illegible] [illegible] remedies for use in a household."

PRIVATE GEORGE TURNER, of Bellevue-terrace, Fremantle, W.A., wounded here from Gallipoli: "While in Egypt I had a supply of Hean's Essence sent to me [illegible], and I can assure you I found it a most acceptable gift. As is the case in a military camp, severe colds and pneumonia were very prevalent among the troops. I was among [illegible] and was very ill indeed when I started to use Hean's Essence, and it is with pleasure that I am able to tell of the prompt and effective benefit I derived. I never had anything to equal it, and if I am sufficiently recovered from my Gallipoli wounds, as I hope [illegible], to return to the fighting line in December [illegible] good care that I have a few bottles of Hean's Essence with me."

Mrs. FRANK CONNOR, of Orange-street, [illegible]: "I am writing to let you know what I [illegible] of your splendid [illegible] Essence. My two children had most [illegible] coughs, and they got very little relief from anything I gave them until I got your Essence. It was most useful in its healing effect, and before [illegible] the mixture was taken the coughs had entirely [illegible]. I have told several people about it, and I shall continue to do so when I know of people being troubled with coughs [illegible] success."

TROOPER WILLIAM H. BENTLY, of the [illegible] Light Horse, Australian Imperial Force, [illegible] Gallipoli: "I am taking the earliest opportunity after my return from the front to tell you how much I owe to Hean's Essence. While at Mena, in Egypt, I contracted a cold, which defied all the medicine prescribed for me, and so bad did my cough become that I feared I would never reach the firing line. In writing home I referred to my condition, and I received back what proved to be a veritable blessing to me. It was a parcel containing three bottles of Hean's Essence. I at once started using it, and to my great delight it promptly relieved me of the cough which had troubled me so badly for several months. So much did I think of Hean's Essence that I took it right to the front. Unfortunately I had nothing to stop the Turks' bullets, for one caught me in the hip, and that is why I am back in dear old Sydney. My advice to other boys going to the battle for the Empire is to take a bottle of Hean's Essence with them."

Mr. W. J. KELLY, the well-known football enthusiast and Annandale League delegate: "I [illegible] with considerable pleasure that I can wholeheartedly recommend Hean's Essence. Two weeks ago I contracted a very severe cold, which made it almost impossible to do anything. The [illegible] need came along, and told me to try Hean's Essence—in fact, he sent the half of the bottle which he had made up for himself. In two days I was as sound as a bell, and you can rely on me to keep impressing all my friends with the merits of the splendid remedy which you have covered."

Mrs. H. ENNIS, Montagu, Tas.: "My husband suffered for many years with a severe cough. Every morning, on getting out of bed, he would cough and retch until he was exhausted, and would have to lie down again. Since using Hean's Essence he is quite a different man. Enclosed you will find 10/, for which send me five bottles of Hean's Essence. I am recommending it all I can, because it is so good."

Mr. J. W. DOYLE, Secretary of the Eight Hour and Labour Demonstration Committee, [illegible]: "It gives me much pleasure to state that I have found Hean's Essence an exceptionally good remedy for colds. Its moderate price and rapidity of action should make an especial appeal to those with families, who are frequently in doubt as to the best means of curing coughs, colds, and throat troubles. In this respect, it seems to me Hean's Essence supplies a long-felt want in the home."

PROFESSOR R. DOVEY, the well-known instructor of Physical Culture, of North Sydney:—"I have tested your admirable Essence, and have found it efficacious in every way for easing [illegible], whether impaired from bronchial or other [illegible] chest debility. I recommend it with every confidence, and shall always have a good word for it."

Mr. J. DOHERTY, Veterinary Surgeon, of [illegible]nong, Gippsland (Vic.):—"I have found Hean's Essence very good for colds and hoarseness."

Mr. CHAS. R. HAMILTON, 16 Merton [illegible], [illegible]bert Park, Melbourne:—"My wife had a [illegible] on the chest. I sent for a bottle of Hean's Essence, and made up a pint of mixture according to directions. She had used only half the [illegible] when the cough entirely disappeared. Hean's Essence is good."

Mrs. H. STEWART, Narooma, N.S.W.:—"I received the bottle of Hean's Essence safely, and am very thankful, as it has done me a lot of good. I was nearly choked with phlegm, and I had a very sore throat. As soon as I started using the Essence the phlegm disappeared. I have used all sorts of mixtures, but found no relief in them. It was very easy to mix the remedy. I am recommending Hean's Essence to my neighbours, as I found great relief in it. I am enclosing [illegible] Nota, as I wish to have two bottles. [illegible] boy sick over 10 years, and gave him some of the mixture. He says it has cured his cold, and he feels better in every way."

If you need further evidence, let it be your own experience.

HEAN'S ESSENCE costs only 2/ (by post 2/3), and makes a pint of the finest quality medicine for chest and throat troubles. A pint of ordinary mixtures would cost at least 12/. Moral: Use Hean's Essence, save 10/, and enjoy speedy relief. If your chemist or store cannot supply the genuine HEAN'S ESSENCE, send 2/3, and you will receive a bottle per return mail from the sole manufacturer.

G. W. HEAN, Chemist,

A UNIQUE OPPORTUNITY FOR A PROFITABLE INVESTMENT IN BONDI BEACH LAND.

Only 30 minutes by Two Tram Services to Heart of the City.)

THE BAGLIN
ESTATE
BONDI BEACH.

AUCTION SALE ON THE GROUND.

THIS ESTATE HAS ITS MAIN FRONTAGE TO CURLEWIS-STREET, along which the Bellevue Hill Tram passes to Bondi Beach, and is only two stops from the Beach Terminus.

NOW IS YOUR OPPORTUNITY.

FIRST BUYERS BUY AT BEDROCK. Land such as this needs no flattering adjectives to commend it.

It is right on the Tramline, and only a few minutes' walk from the surf.

It has frontages to Curlewis-street, Wellington-street, and George-street.

It commands magnificent views of the Harbour, Ocean, Golf Links, and Surrounding District.

Few spots so near the City will sell as moderately as the reserves we have placed on each block—yet few spots are so likely to leap ahead in value during the immediate future.

A COTTAGE ON THE ESTATE will also be offered, containing 4 rooms and offices.

THE LOTS HAVE FRONTAGES OF ABOUT 40 FEET BY DEPTHS AVERAGING ABOUT 150 FEET, AND WILL BE OFFERED ON EASY TERMS. EASY TERMS.

SOLDIERS IN THE TRENCHES

Urgently Want More ZAM-BUK for their Cuts, Wounds, and Sore Feet.

Remarkable Letters from the Front.

"A pot of Zam-Buk out here is like a loaf of bread to a starving man. On the retreat from Mons we had a forced March of 37 miles and not a man who used Zam-Buk on his feet fell out."

In these graphic terms a Distinguished Conduct Medallist, Lance-Corporal J. P. Delaney, 2nd Royal Irish Regiment, expresses his warm appreciation of Zam-Buk in a letter dated Nov 24th. He adds:—"I can safely recommend Zam-Buk to everyone as being the best healer on the market. P.S.—Please excuse writing and pencil, as I am writing this from the trenches, and I cannot tell when or where the next shell is going to drop. The Germans are sky-larking again with their 'Coal Boxes.'"

"In my opinion every soldier should have a pot of Zam-Buk in his kit when 'trekking,' as Zam-Buk is the most valuable addition to his marching powers."

Thus writes another Distinguished Conduct Medallist, Private A. Mutlow, of the 2nd South Staffs Regiment. In his pencilled note, dated Dec. 5th, from "Somewhere in France," the gallant Private adds:—"I am a constant user of your Zam-Buk for chafed legs (from which I suffer on long marches). I brought a tin out here from Aldershot, and I may mention it is in great demand amongst my comrades who are likewise afflicted. Zam-Buk is also very effective in the case of galled feet and blistered heels."

"We soldiers are always glad to see a pot of Zam-Buk, for it is the best of all 'First-aids.' Zam-Buk is one of our best friends out here."

This is from another winner of the coveted Distinguished Conduct Medal, Sergeant R. Munday, of the historic 1st Royal Berkshires, who adds:—"We use it largely for sore feet when on the march. Zam-Buk is the best thing for sores, etc. In one particular case it proved very beneficial to a man in our battalion who had sores, not only on his feet, but on his shoulders as well, caused by the strap of his pack. Zam-Buk cured him in a very short time."

"I wish we had more Zam-Buk sent from home—it would be much better if Zam-Buk were sent instead of so much tobacco."

Thus Private E. Westfield, No. 9896, C Company, 3rd Worcester Regiment, which corps Sir John French singled out for special praise. In his letter, written from the trenches, on December 7th, the gallant Private adds: "We find Zam-Buk the best remedy for sore hands after trench-digging, and for frost-bite, cracks, and cold sores, because our hands get very bad out here. My chum, Private Ward (8089), had a large pot of Zam-Buk sent, and he let us share his until our friends sent us more."

KEEP Zam-Buk HANDY!
EVERY SOLDIER NEEDS A POT.

Zam-Buk is unsurpassed for cuts, bruises, scalds, burns, abrasions, scalp patches, abscesses, eczema, back pains, bad legs, festering sores, blood-poison, sore faces, inflamed patches, irritable skin, boils, sprains, itch, breakings-out, piles, stiffness, chafings, ringworm, strained muscles, ulcers, poisoned wounds, running sores, and inflamed and irritable conditions of the skin generally.

Zam-Buk is obtainable from all Chemists and Stores, for 1/6 and 3/6, or direct (post free) from C. E. Fulford (Australasia), Ltd., 39 Pitt-street, Sydney.

Ask for Zam-Buk and see that you get it—don't be put off with something else that your shopkeeper tells you is "just as good." Zam-Buk is a scientific combination of certain powerful extracts—and it acts on the skin in Nature's own way. There is nothing "just as good;" therefore, ask for Zam-Buk, and GET IT.

ON THE LAND.

FARM AND STATION.

THE WHEAT SCHEME.

Mr. Grahame's exposition of the intention of the Government respecting the disposal of the harvest has several satisfactory points about it, while others are unsatisfactory. A satisfactory point is that the Governments concerned have thought it worth while so far to interfere with the usual law of supply and demand as to charter ships specially to carry the wheat to the world's markets, and so protect the people of the Commonwealth from ruinous freight charges. These Governments have an obvious advantage over the private charterer. While there may be demur that the Federal Government should insist upon monopolising the chartering of vessels, the desire on the part of the authorities to control the unloading of Australian wheat on the London market is not altogether unreasonable. The announcement by Mr. Grahame that the liens held by the Government on this season's crops for seed and fodder supplied will not be enforced until the second dividend on the crop is ready for payment is fair, for even then many farmers in New South Wales will have a hard battle to make ends meet for a long time to come after the bad time experienced. It is also likely to be a boon to many farmers that the Government is prepared to guarantee the overdrafts of farmers, or at least those of them which are obtained on the security of the railway wheat certificates. On the other hand, it is possible that there might have been less need for these guarantees. That phase of the question is mixed up with the first payment for the wheat, and this very part of the scheme is the most objectionable piece from the wheat-growers' standpoint.

Representations have been made from all the States that the payment of 3s f.o.b. is not enough, but the authorities have made no response, or explained why they will not raise the first instalment. The farmers' contention is based on solid facts. During the sittings of the Necessary Commodities Commission on the wheat appeals a mass of evidence was taken from farmers as to the cost incurred in growing their crops, and differing estimates made in different districts ran from 21s an acre up to 35s. We may take the mean, and place it at 28s, a figure which the great majority of farmers furnished the commission. The cost of harvesting, carting, and bags are reckoned on an average yield of 14 bushels per acre. At 2s 6d a bushel, the average at country stations, the gross income for the farmer will be £1 15s an acre, or an apparent profit of 7s an acre, without taking into account interest on the cost of land, cost and depreciation of implements, living expenses of the owner, and half a hundred other incidentals. It is probably a liberal estimate to assume that the average area under wheat per farm this year is 300 acres; and that area, if the grower sells the whole of his yield, keeping nothing for seed, will give him a cash return from wheat of £105. Out of this he will have to pay the accumulated debts of last season and the season before, or part of them at least. Those who received seed and fodder from the Government have had to give liens on their crops to secure the loans.

In the case of share farmers, struggling with small plants to make a living, they have to share the costs of growing with the owner of the land, and have incurred expenses during the year which they have not, in many cases, the cash to discharge, and the owner finances them. To halve the £105 from a 300 acre crop between two men will give the share farmer £32 10s—less than a living wage, considering his responsibilities—and will place the owner in a position that he cannot finance his man until next year. The cabled price of wheat in London last Saturday was 63s per quarter, equal to 7s 10½d a bushel. The freight charge, according to the announcement of the Prime Minister, is 85s per ton, or, roughly, 2s 3d per bushel. The agents' charges at this end, according to Mr. Grahame's announcement, are all to be covered by 3½d a bushel, and the railway freight will range from about 3d a bushel to, say, 4d, according to locality; so that, supposing there are no incidentals of any kind, the actual cost of sending a bushel of wheat from New South Wales farms to London will be 2s 10d. But as the quotations appearing in last Saturday's commercial cables were for Bluestem and Walla Walla, which are high-priced wheats, we may take the previous Saturday's cabled quotations and say that the value of New South Wales wheat is 56s per quarter. This makes 7s a bushel, and, taking 2s 10d from that, leaves 4s 2d a bushel. There will, however, be other expenses at the other end, and, for argument's sake, we can place these at 3½d a bushel—the same as agents' charges at this end. There will then be 3s 10½d per bushel to the good, or 1s 4½d for the Government to pay back to the farmers at some time or other. On these values the second dividend ought to be a large one. While we consider that the wheatgrowers should, above all, remember the possibly disastrous position that might have arisen had the Governments taken no action, there is good ground for maintaining that the amount per bushel of the first cash payment should be increased.

IMPRESSIONS IN THE SOUTH.

(BY OUR SPECIAL REPORTER.)

The wheat scheme is having a mixed reception in many parts of the southern wheat districts. There is a tendency on the part of farmers to condemn it, without attempting to consider the conditions ruling at the present time. Political views are allowed to warp judgment of the matter in an impartial way. The farmer cannot be blamed for taking up a partisan attitude, because he has a profound distrust of Government interference with the products of his labour. He values its aid with regard to the supply of seed wheat, and passes motions that it shall not be unduly hard in collecting the money due under this head, but generally, however, he has no time for the wheat scheme. Meetings have been held and protests uttered in no uncertain language.

To meet the farmer individually, however, there is the impression that a fuller and more explicit statement is necessary to allay some of the ideas as to what is going to happen, if the Government continues to interfere with the producer. While the bulk of the farmers are opposed to the proposal, many admit they have not attempted to master the details, other than that they think that the management of the scheme will be too costly. That any profit that will be made will be eaten up in the expenses, which in the farmer's mind and most other peoples, are inseparable from enterprises conducted by the State. Said one farmer to the writer, "I'd sooner sell straight out at 2s 6d per bushel, rather than let the Government have any of my wheat, and if I am prevented from doing that I'll cut for hay." "This cutting for hay may yet be overdone," said another farmer standing by. "I know that there are no stock, as in other years, still, cutting for hay in a season like the present may mean that there will be a big fall in chaff, and then our position will be worse than ever."

There are farmers, however, who consider that hay, even allowing for the cost of harvesting, pays better than wheat. This season, owing to there being practically no fodder or chaff left, hay should be profitable, and with yields at from two to three tons to the acre, highly remunerative. Not only has provision to be made for this season, but for the future. Hence the Federal Government's proposal has emphasised the impression that it will pay to cut for hay if only to get even with the Government.

A large grower interested in some five or six thousand acres on the Bland, when asked to give his views, said: "The scheme suits me, the 2s 6d per bushel now, and a share of the profits, will, I think, mean about 4s 2d per bushel when the division takes place. Surely," he continued, "the Government are to be trusted; they must have the interests of the country and the farmer just as much at heart as the wheat speculator and his agent." And there is further evidence that the large grower familiar with business methods is favourable to the proposal, because he realises the difficulties we are faced with, and the possibility of a low price for wheat in the event of the Russian crop being liberated.

Other farmers take the view that had 3s or 3s 6d per bushel been fixed, there would have been little opposition. The farmers have had a troublous time, and are looking for relief in high prices. Having to wait for any profit that may be made over and above the 2s 6d per bushel advance will test their resources so much that some consider they will not be equal to it. Early wheat for immediate delivery is being bought at 4s, and there are some instances, it is stated, where 4s 3d is being paid by local millers, but there is a disinclination on the part of buyers to operate largely.

DETAILS NOT UNDERSTOOD.

Mr. J. E. A. Florance writes:—As a private soldier leaving a quantity of wheat behind me, to be disposed of, I approach the question of the Government scheme from a purely business point of view. There is, I think, a tendency to condemn the scheme in some quarters because it emanates from a Labour Government, and I would suggest to my fellow farmers that, in order to avoid self-deception, they suppose for the nonce that the scheme emanated from a Liberal or a Country party Government. The Government of the Commonwealth has secured a monopoly of the freight. This was done because it was afraid that private firms would not have been able to secure a sufficient number of ships to carry our wheat. The naval authorities, having taken over almost the whole available tonnage, our Government alone could secure the release of a sufficient number of ships. The Commonwealth Government having secured control of freights, claims to offer us prices lower than could have been expected had an insufficient number of ships been secured privately. This certainly seems feasible so far, and the mere statement by people without exact knowledge or responsibility that private firms could have done as well is not enough to convice us that the Government did wrong. It is hardly profitable for us in these serious times to enter upon an academic dispute as to the domain of private and public enterprise.

The Government has the ships, we have the wheat. We have the satisfaction of knowing that the freight will not suddenly jump up. A price has been fixed (3½d a bushel) for consigning and loading the wheat. If this charge covers the whole of the expenses in Sydney and the agents are to attend to the sale in London, and render us account sales, and we are to get the advantage of the increase in weight on the voyage, I do not think that the net return will be less than formerly. I understand that when the wheat has been loaded the Government will advance the farmer at the rate of 3s per bushel, and that for the balance he must wait until the wheat has been sold. It is not clear whether the Government will hold the owner insured, but I presume this is so. The farmer who is not in urgent need of the full price for his wheat appears to me to have nothing to complain about, unless he can show that he could be sure of placing his wheat on the London market cheaper without Government interference.

One of our great complaints formerly was that the Sydney agents operated at our expense, and also got the increase in weights. Now we get full weights, and get the London parity, less a fixed local charge. There seems to be a difficulty for the man who requires urgently the full price for his wheat. Presumably he will have to obtain privately a bigger advance, and pay fairly heavily for it, or sell his wheat locally. There is nothing to prevent anyone selling his wheat locally, or holding as long as he likes. There is a demand in certain quarters for an advance in excess of 3s a bushel, and, personally, I should like 4s, but in this case we have to consider the matter from the public standpoint. With the extraordinary war conditions prevailing, it is conceivable that 3s may even exceed the London parity at some period of the scheme, and if our soundest bankers will not exceed 3s, it is not right that a Government should take greater risks. I venture to say that fixing the advance at 3s, so far ahead of the market, is considered rather risky by some banks. In any case, I presume that there is nothing to prevent an owner and private financial institution arranging for a greater advance if they wish to do so. It may happen that those who refuse to accept the scheme will find later no freight available, a glutted local market, and the speculator revelling again in wheat gambles. I write tentatively, and as one seeking information, but I do suggest to farmers that this is not a matter where prejudice should be allowed.

IRRIGATION AREAS.

LAND FOR RETURNED SOLDIERS.

OFFER BY PRESENT SETTLERS.

The secretary of the Mirrool Murrumbidgee Irrigationists' Association, Mr. W. Rawlings, jun., Griffith, sends us a copy of the following letter, which has been forwarded to the Premier by the association:—

It has been reported to my association that a proposal is being considered by the New South Wales Government for the preparation of one thousand irrigation farms, on which it is proposed to establish soldiers returning from active service. Therefore, I have been instructed to inform you that there are a number of settlers on the Murrumbidgee irrigation area whose farms can be acquired for this purpose, and who, owing to lack of capital, will sooner or later be compelled to leave the area. Then, again, there are others similarly situated, but who do not wish to leave the area. These settlers would be willing to sell part of their farms, in order that they may obtain the financial assistance which they require.

This means that the settlers who wish to go will, if they cannot sell their farms, be compelled to leave without a penny in their pockets; also that the settlers who wish to sell part of their farms, in order that they may stay, will likewise have to quit. This unfortunate state of affairs is to a very large extent due to official misrepresentations. These settlers were informed before settling on the area that three hundred pounds (£300) was sufficient to develop an irrigation farm. Practical experience has proved this to be incorrect. Moreover, officers of the Irrigation Commission have estimated that the cost of developing the one thousand farms referred to will be one million pounds (£1,000,000). This speaks for itself. With these facts in view this association would suggest that the Government get in touch with those settlers who wish to sell the whole or part of their farms, with a view to purchasing same for the benefit of returned soldiers.

As a further support to this suggestion it may be mentioned that if the said suggestion is adopted it will mean that the returned soldiers who will be placed on these farms will have for their neighbours practical irrigationists, whose experienced advice should prove invaluable.

SHALLOW BORING.

MR. ASHFORD'S SCHEME.

The Minister for Lands states that he intends to continue, with the assistance of the Water Conservation Department, the policy of shallow boring for water, which he regards as one of the most valuable works, in the interests of settlers in the drier districts, that the Government could engage upon.

"As often as not," said Mr. Ashford, "the disastrous effects of droughts in many localities are caused as much by the absence of water facilities as the scarcity of grass. Interesting results were obtained from boring operations in the Pilliga Scrub, where it was formerly understood that no artesian water supply was likely to be struck. There, however, the sinking of several bores has resulted in an excellent flow of water being obtained. I consider that the shallow boring already carried out by the Commissioner for Water Conservation has proved of very real assistance to the smaller settler. On the average these bores have been completed at about half the cost of the contractors' ruling price, and when it is considered that the settler has five years in which to pay the cost, as against a cash payment to a contractor, the advantage of the scheme as far as the settler is concerned is apparent.

"Up till recently only two plants have been employed. With these 28 bores have been completed, and two are in progress. Some months ago I approved of the purchase of a further six plants. With these plants three bores have already been completed, and six are now in progress. For some considerable time requests have come from settlers in various parts of the State, asking that boring plants be sent to their districts, and the demand is such that I consider a considerable additional number of plants could be profitably employed under this scheme, and I have now authorised the purchase of three additional boring plants. Eventually, when the financial position is more favourable, I hope to procure at least 40 or 50 similar plants, as I think there is scope for almost unlimited expansion in this scheme for providing small settlers with water."

PRICE OF BUTTER.

FACTORIES TO DEDUCT FREIGHT.

There appears to be a considerable amount of confusion in country districts regarding the prices which should be charged for butter at factory. As a result the secretary of the Necessary Commodities Control Commission (Mr. Ovington), invites attention to the express terms of the proclamation, which are as follows:—"At factory, the above prices, less freight to Sydney."

The "above prices" refer to fixed prices for first, second, and third grade butter at Sydney, and include, when new boxes are used, a charge for boxes at the rate of 1s 6d per cwt, and a cartage allowance not exceeding 6d per cwt. When new boxes are not used the 1s 6d per cwt must be deducted.

In order to avoid infringing the proclamation country factories should ascertain the cost of sending their butter to Sydney, and the amount involved must be invariably deducted from the Sydney wholesale prices.

FOR ECONOMY AND SATISFACTION.

PAINTERS AND DECORATORS SHOULD KNOW THESE.

"GERARDIN,"
SANITARY COLDWATER PAINT.
"Gerardin" saves times and money. It is a non-poisonous powder, but a strong disinfectant. With the addition of cold water only it makes a washable paint that finishes with a beautiful surface of great durability. No matter what the substance—wood, brick, stone, iron, slate, tile, etc., Gerardin will adhere to it easily, quickly, and permanently, 22 art shades.

"UNEEDIT,"
SANITARY COLDWATER DISTEMPER.
"Uneedit" is a paste, making washable, durable distemper when mixed with cold water. It possesses great covering power, and will not scale off. Can be easily painted on or varnished over. "Uneedit" is a disinfectant and germicide, but is non-poisonous. Especially recommended for the walls and ceilings of all Public Buildings, and for City Dwellings. 24 art shades.

ENEMY FIRM.

MR. HUGHES DEFENDS HIS ACTION.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

The Prime Minister (Mr. Hughes) announced to-day that Messrs. Falk, Stadelmann, and Company, who were placed on the enemy list some time ago, had protested against their being considered an enemy firm, and had made representations to him in which they stated that they were a British firm, and that his remarks were considered as most unjust and a grave reflection on their reputation. He did not desire to say any more than to submit the ascertained facts, which spoke for themselves. These showed that Falk, Stadelmann, and Company was a company registered in the United Kingdom, and was carrying on business on a large scale in gas mantles and sundries. The shares of the company were held as follows:—Two German subjects in Germany 78,447, one German subject in England 2200, three naturalised subjects (German origin) 190,721, wife and daughter of Falk (naturalised Germans) 95,470, others 25,952. Total 392,790. The directorate was composed of four naturalised Germans, two unnaturalised Germans having resigned since the war. The company purchased inter alia the whole output of the British Incandescent Mantle Works, Ltd., Earlsfield, which was owned entirely by Germans in Berlin. The workpeople were British, but the administrative staff was German. Falk, Stadelmann, and Company, contended, in the face of these facts, that the company was not a German firm, and ought not to be placed on the enemy list.

"I am sorry," continued Mr. Hughes, "that I cannot agree with this contention. In my opinion the firm is German. The fact that it has thrown over itself the mantle of British nationality is interesting as showing by what means Germans imposed upon the generous toleration of the British people. But it does not in the least affect the true character of the firm. Falk, Stadelmann, and Company is a firm controlled by German capital, directed by German directors for the benefit of German shareholders, and the proper place for the firm is on the enemy list, from which I do not intend to remove it."

YANCO.

SETTLERS COMPLAIN.

A deputation, representing settlers on the Yanco irrigation area, yesterday waited upon the Minister for Agriculture, Mr. Grahame, with a request that he should take into his consideration the serious situation that confronted them.

The deputation made the following specific representations:—

"That the majority of the present settlers were induced to take up their farms by certain definite statements and representations of the Government in authorised publications and through accredited agents.

"That the present financial embarrassment and the unsatisfactory outlook of many of the settlers are due, in the main, to the fact that these statements were absolutely misleading with regard to the Yanco irrigation area.

"That the results of the three years' operations upon this area prove that the soil generally is not suitable for irrigated culture, as it was represented to be; that lucerne, the basic fodder crop—which was the special inducement held out by the Government to prospective settlers—does not thrive on the second-class soils, of which the bulk of the Yanco area is composed; that the present system of financing by Government Savings Bank loans is quite inadequate."

It was urged upon Mr. Grahame by the various speakers that the success of the whole settlement would be jeopardised unless the Government recognised that the present chaotic condition prevailing on the area was due to the misrepresentations of its own officials.

The Minister in reply said he would look carefully into the matters placed before him.

CASUALTIES.

FELL TWELVE FEET.

Edward Hughes, 54, an engineer, fell off a ship at Warburton's coal wharf into the water, a distance of 12 feet. He struck the side of the wharf in his descent and sustained several fractured ribs, his left shoulder being also badly hurt.

COLLIDED WITH MOTOR CAR.

Norma Brodie, 17, of Burns Bay-road, Longueville, was riding along Lane Cove-road on a bicycle yesterday afternoon when she came into collision with a motor car. She was removed to North Shore Hospital, suffering from a fractured left thigh.

ACCIDENT AT COCKATOO ISLAND.

While working on a staging at Cockatoo Island yesterday Henry Manning, a ship's painter, fell a distance of 60 feet. He was taken to the Balmain Hospital.

FATAL MOTOR ACCIDENT.

Accidental death was the verdict recorded in the case of Peter Cowen, 40 years of age, a plumber's labourer, on whom the Acting City Coroner, Mr. O. A. Edwards, conducted a magisterial inquiry. Deceased died at St. Vincent's Hospital on November 18 from the effect of injuries received through being knocked down by a motor car in Oxford-street two days before his death.

OVERSEER OF WORKS SUICIDE.

A verdict of suicide was returned by the Acting City Coroner, Mr. O. A. Edwards, at the conclusion of a magisterial inquiry on George Baxter, 59 years of age, late overseer of works in the Alexandria Council, who died at his late residence, 71 Garden-street, Alexandria on November 18. A bottle of poison was found under his bed.

INFANT BURNED.

The Acting City Coroner, Mr. O. A. Edwards, returned a verdict of accidental death to-day at a magisterial inquiry on Robert Pilgrim Snell, aged 2 years, lately living with his parents at Railway-crescent, Lakemba. The child fell into some unslaked lime on November 6, and died at the Marrickville Cottage Hospital on November 19.

DEATH FROM A FALL.

Leslie Charles Klein, aged 15 months, fell from an upstairs doorway at 146 Flinders-street, Moore Park, where he lately lived with his parents, on to the road, on November 18. He died the following day at St. Vincent's. A finding of accidental death was recorded by the Acting City Coroner.

PATRIOTIC FUNDS.

RED CROSS.

As the membership of the town and country club for Red Cross workers increases so do its benefits become apparent to the workers. Country and suburban branches are sending in their registration fees in good numbers—ten shillings covers the whole branch. The headquarters' division pays 2s 6d per annum for membership, and its members are joining in fair numbers. The generosity of members of the club committee has been shown in many ways. Electric kettles and toasters from Mrs. Denison and Miss Eadith Walker will add greatly to the comfort of the club. The hon. secretaries think that time would be saved if all subscriptions were sent direct to the hon. treasurer at the club address. In case of a branch not having joined, individual workers of such branch may become members on the same footing as town members, that is 2s 6d per annum. All Red Cross nurses who have been abroad on active service will be welcomed as hon. members of the club whenever they are in Sydney.

The Red Cross has decided to give each sick man in the home hospitals and each returned sick or wounded soldier still on the military strength a suitable Christmas gift. This is to take the form of an attractive metal box filled with chocolate, on which a fine Red Cross design will be mounted. Preparations are also being made by various groups of officers' wives and private individuals to arrange for Christmas dinners and entertainments.

Her Excellency Lady Helen Munro Ferguson has received the following cable message from Mr. Knox and Mr. Brookes, the Red Cross Commissioners in Egypt: "Please accept and convey to the divisions our thanks for the plentiful supply of goods sent here, and for the improved shipping arrangements. The Boise arrived well. Received ex Nestor 717 cases, 43 bundles, 47 bales; ex Pera, 40 bales; ex Port Lincoln, 297 cases from Sydney, 13 packages from elsewhere; ex Kyber, 61 cases, including 39 Christmas presents. The scheme of distribution is being arranged."

Parramatta knitting circle, per Miss Byrne, 50 pairs socks, 2 mufflers, 1 rug.

The concert at the Conservatorium Hall, organised by Mr. Gerald Cooper, with Mrs. Murray Campbell and Miss Gordon as hon. secretaries, resulted in a cheque being handed to the War Chest for £132.

The donations of the last few days have enabled the committee to duplicate its orders for supplementary supplies for Gallipoli, in response to Mr. Budden's recent cable message. The committee is desirous of making larger shipments, and appeals for regular subscriptions.

FRENCH-AUSTRALIAN LEAGUE.

The committee of the French Australian League of Help wishes to thank those who helped to make its pavilion such a success on Allies' Day. No money has been forwarded by the Loaf Fund for some time, but next week the committee hopes to cable at least £200 to Madame Michel, wife of the Governor of Paris, for the mothers and infant refugees in Paris needing assistance. Madame Poincare, patroness of this fund, has written to the league for help.

The hon. treasurer, 113 Pitt-street, Sydney, acknowledges receipt of the following donations:—Amount already acknowledged, £12,811/13/11. An Alsatian, 11th contribution, £5; J. S. Heron, further contribution, £2; Louis Gille and Co. (Staff Art Union), £12; Allies' Day Fund, £1000; Jefferson, £50; cost of material used on Allies' Day, £2/19/3; Mrs. Suckling, £5; F. Campbell, £2; H. Hinton, £2/2/; Bread Fund, £3/16/8; and small sums. Total, £13,905/12/7.

The Loaf Fund has now reached 91,853 loaves—a loaf costs 4d.

SOLDIERS' BAND.

The members of the 1st Battalion at Liverpool Camp want to raise £100 in order to pay off the money owing on band instruments. The band will go to the front with the troops if the money is paid, and in order to clear the debt Mr. R. L. Baker is organising an entertainment to take place at the Stadium on December 8. A big programme will be submitted, and, in addition to vaudeville items, will include boxing exhibitions by Herb. M'Coy and Fred. Delaney, the English lightweight.

MOTHERS' FUND.

£51,705 IN HAND.

The following additional subscriptions to the Mothers' Thirty Thousand Fund, in connection with the Australia Day movement, have been received by the committee:—Balgowlah, £3/8/3; Windowie, £7/2/; Curramulka, £14/5/; Parkes Convent School, £62/14/2; Blakebrook, £11/6/3; De La Salle College, Armidale, £25/0/6; Patrician Bros., Redfern, £5; Ryesung, 2/6; Crow's Nest, £140/14/10; Brookvale, £3/5/3; Mt. Gwynne, 12/6; Tweed Heads, £3/8/; Glenifer, £6/7/6; Alrunga, £2; Charlestown, £7; Urunga, 5/. Total to date, £51,705/7/1.

ALLIES' DAY.

The secretary of the Trolly, Draymen, and Carters' Union, of which the Prime Minister is president, wrote to the Allies' Day secretaries yesterday, stating that his union had decided to contribute £50 to the fund. The secretary of the union, Mr. Connington, writes: "In connection with this I am also directed to write to the Labour Council, and suggest to that body that a trade union fund be started."

Yesterday the Allies' Day secretaries received a cheque for £86 from the Lightning Ridge committee, with a detailed statement showing how the money was raised and the expenses incurred. The total receipts were £88/7/5. The total expenditure amounted to £2/7/5, and consisted of cool drinks and butter. The cool drinks, however, were purchased for sale, and realised £3/13/, while presumably the butter was utilised in refreshments, which were also disposed of. Actually the expenses of the Lightning Ridge fete were nil.

Yesterday the Allies' Day committee received £5 from the Junior House of the King's School, Parramatta, "the proceeds of a little entertainment given by us last Saturday evening." The Helensburgh Patriotic Committee forwarded £11/8/7, which was the proceeds from a street collection; and the town clerk at Drummoyne informed the Allies' Day committee that the street collections for Allies' Day had realised £81/12/.

By error a sum of £66/7/8, which was received from Mr. G. W. M'Hugh, treasurer of the Allies' Day sports and social at Merriwa, was credited to votes for Mrs. George Black, instead of being placed to the credit of the Australian Stall.

Captain J. D. S. Phillips, of the R.M.S. Makura, has handed to the patriotic funds £27/2/, collections made on the last homeward journey.

The wounded soldiers in the Randwick Military Hospital were entertained by a Coogee committee last Monday evening. At the close of the entertainment, the Mayor (Alderman F. H. Clark) announced that £50 would be handed to the hospital for the purchase of instruments and equipment. A quantity of comforts were left in charge of the matron by the committee and visitors. The concert was under the direction of Mr. Roy Allen and the hon. sec. (Mr. C. F. Williams).

EXHIBITION OF WORK.

At the Teachers' College, Blackfriars, an exhibition of work carried out by students in the applied arts, drawing, and manual classes was opened yesterday. In the art section the students, under Mr. Wright and Miss Wark, displayed, among other exhibits, happily-carried-out friezes suitable for kindergarten class rooms, illustrating nursery rhymes. In this Miss Bennett and Miss Rita Young showed great talent in their treatment of juvenile subjects. In the art needle work section Miss M'Phee embroidered a "roll of honour" of the names of all the men from the college staff who have enlisted, and Miss Slater worked a map of Gallipoli and the Aegean district in blue on a crash background.

Mrs. Maher's students in plain needlework showed many fine samples of work. There was an exhibit of mission furniture, made under Mr. Rutherford's supervision, also Montessori materials and crutches for wounded soldiers; while a most attractive section was Miss Lapish's display. Her pupils sent some pretty and useful articles in raffia work, the sets of "sea grass" furniture in miniature being excellent, and dolls' furniture, made of coloured paper, are now substituted for the rather monotonous paper-folding which the infant classes formerly learned. The exhibition will remain open this afternoon and Saturday morning.

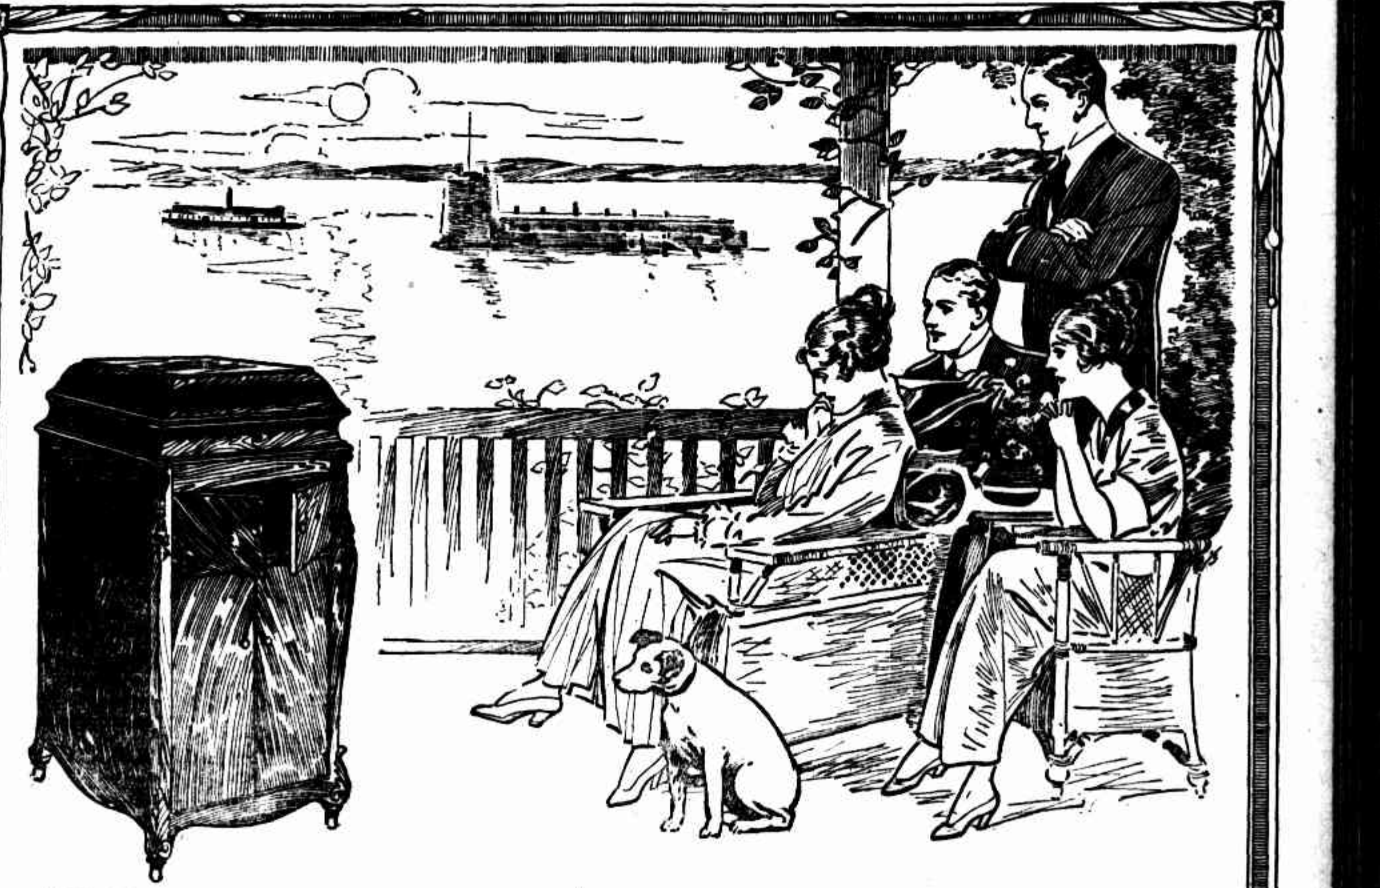

The Eccleston progress association, in the Paterson district, is agitating for a daily vehicle mail service from Allynbrook.

SMITH.—In fond and loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother, Gertrude Lavenia, who departed this life November 26, 1910, aged 66.
Dearest mother, we have laid thee
In the peaceful grave's embrace,
But thy memory will be cherished
Till we see thy heavenly face.
Inserted by her loving daughters and sons-in-law, Amy, Alice, and Will Buttenshaw, and grandchildren.

SMITH.—In loving memory of our dear mother, who parted this life November 25, 1910.
A faithful mother, so true and kind,
No friend like her in this world we find;
Five years have passed, and none can tell
The loss of our mother, we loved so well.
Inserted by her loving children, Lily, Rose, Violet, daughter-in-law, Mary, Alf., and Fred., sons-in-laws, Dave, Jack, Norman, and grandchildren.

STACK.—In sad but loving memory of our dear sister, Cecily Mary Stack, who departed this life, at Rydal, November 26, 1914. R.I.P.
One year has passed, to memory dear,
Thy loving name I breathe and shed a tear;
Time cannot alter love so deep and true,
One year brings back my grief anew.
Inserted by her loving sisters, Teresa, Bridget, and Mary.

THEARLE.—In loving memory of our dear father, who departed this life November 26th, 1914. Inserted by his loving son and daughter-in-law, Jim and Alice.

WELLING.—In devoted remembrance of our dearest friend, Florence Welling, who departed this life November 26, 1914.
There are days of bitter anguish,
When the tears begin to fall,
But the parting with you, Florrie,
Was the hardest of them all.
With tearful eyes we watched you, Florrie,
Going on your lonely way,
Although we loved you, Florrie dear,
We could not make you stay.
Never forgotten by her lonely friends, Annie and Dave Thomas.

WESSBERG.—In loving memory of my dear husband and our father, Charles John Wessberg, who departed this life November 26, 1909. Inserted by his loving wife and children, Sylvia, Eric, and Trevor.

SEA POWER.

M. Venizelos, in his account of the position of Greece, referred to the one factor in the war which is constant, and which in any superficial estimate is most likely to be ignored. British subjects may, perhaps, be readier to-day to listen to assurances of the goodwill of King Constantine than they were before Lord Kitchener's visit, and the announcement that a satisfactory agreement has been reached. Nevertheless, in spite of the words of the Greek Consul-General, they will accept the protection secured for their troops as another proof of the decisive advantage of sea power in a world war such as this. If Greece had not realised the necessity of protecting her coasts and her islands very possibly the first Balkan war would have ended in the defeat of the league. The Minister who directed her fortunes in the day of her regeneration merely draws on his individual experience when he says that Greece is in the hands of the great naval Powers to-day. It is unfortunately no longer true that the allied transports can move in the Aegean with perfect safety. The King Edward, the Southland, and the Marquette have cost the British and French many valuable lives, besides calling for displays of heroic courage and discipline from their troops. But, no doubt, when M. Venizelos declares his confidence in the ultimate victory of the Allies he relies as much on their sea power as on the revival of Russia, or the appearance of a new British army. The navy which could prevent the passage of troops from Athens to Salonica has been able to escort the immense forces of the Allies, and, if necessary, can move them to another port more suitable for operations against the German or the Turk. The same force is acting with amazing skill and intrepidity to prevent the transport of German soldiers to the other extreme of the enemy's long line of battle. If any force could counteract the advantage of interior lines it would be the combined navies operating in the Baltic, the North Sea, and the Mediterranean. The Russian navy, although not yet recovered from the disasters of the Japanese war, has done far more than was expected of it, and in the battle of Riga has shown that defensive positions were difficult to capture on sea and on land.

But the most remarkable achievements in all this type of warfare may justly be claimed by the British. They have broken down one of the charges made by the United States against the blockade by carrying it into the Baltic, so that the Scandinavian countries now suffer as much as Holland. They have so far protected themselves against the ships of the enemy by turning defence into attack. In the Baltic, as in the Sea of Marmora, the British submarines have evaded all traps for a remarkably long time. But after some experiments they appear to have evolved devices of their own which the enemy cannot escape. The charge that the army in Flanders is inferior to the enemy in ingenuity or in the faculty of adapting and improving the inventions of its opponents cannot be made against the navy. This also has produced remarkable displays of ingenuity and resource. The enemy's use of submarines has evoked new weapons of destruction, new means of protection for ships, and new displays of courage by the British authorities and by their young commanders. The submarine has not done what was expected of it by such recent writers as Sir Percy Scott. A recent report on the United States navy shows that nations will still spend enormous sums on a single battleship. It is still an accepted axiom that without battleships no great battle can be won and no coast securely defended. But the submarine has introduced a new type of warfare, and it is a triumph for the audacity, the nerve, and the adaptability of the British sailor that he has shown himself no less superior to the enemy to-day than when he owed his victories to a native seamanship.

Another consequence of the control of the sea is alluded to by Lord Inchcape in his address to the Institute of Bankers. Through being able to export, Great Britain is able to earn an income, and to acquire wealth which may be put at the service of the Allies. Through being able to import they are able to acquire munitions of war in America and import them for the use of herself, of France, and of Italy. As Mr. Lloyd George said long ago, the position is more welcome to a Secretary of War than to a Chancellor of the Exchequer. It adds enormously to the national expenditure on the war and increases the balance of trade against it. It has indirectly induced the Allies to contract a loan in America at an unheard of rate of interest, and to welcome the transaction as the best way out of a difficulty. But the Secretary of War and even the Foreign Secretary see in this control of the ocean an advantage beyond computation. They see themselves becoming possessed of material which could not be acquired in Europe, while Germany is promoting strikes and spending money for nothing. They see the uninterrupted transport of reinforcements of the finest quality. Nobody now in Great Britain supposes that the war will end through lack of food or by actual lack of money. But the reports of riots in Hamburg tell us of a people deprived of the maritime trade on which these ports have grown up, and which is the basis of a large part of the industrial strength of the country. We see in these riots another side of the same process which has prevented Herr Helfferich imposing any new taxes, and they caused him to promise a huge indemnity from England to liquidate the national debt. It is possible that the war may be prolonged, because the German merchants have been taught to look for so much from an absolute victory. In the meantime the one deficiency of sea power will be made up from another source. Japan, which is always protected by its alliance with the strongest naval power, will be able to give Russia that assistance which she has always needed, and through our failure to penetrate the Dardanelles has been denied.

MR. HOLMAN'S FINANCE.

It is all very well for Mr. Holman to discuss the financial problems of the war in terms of taxation and borrowing when his Government is squandering all the money it can lay its hands upon. His argument in the memorandum which we publish this morning is that when a citizen has to surrender to the Government £100 of his income, the spending of it is only transferred to higher hands. There is no loss to anybody. The taxpayer cannot, perhaps, buy so much champagne, or smoke so many cigars, or indulge in an equal amount of pleasure hunting; but the Government for war purposes has an increased spending power, and "there is consequently no derangement of prices, no crisis, and no subsequent reaction or collapse." Energy of production is simply diverted into other channels. It will be noticed that the Premier for the purposes of his argument associates the State with the Commonwealth in this matter. What is accepted as true of the latter must, so we are informed, be held to be truth of the former. Thus we have two fallacies exposed at once. It may be admitted that if powder and shells have to be manufactured and blown away, it is better to do the work from income as far as possible, rather than to borrow money for the purpose. War, in Mr. Holman's terms, is a luxury, and must be pursued at the expense of the luxuries of the people indulging in it. But the State has not been called upon to make powder for the Commonwealth to blow away; and if it should be thinking of manufacturing shells, it will be paid hard cash for them by the British or the Federal Government. We urge as a preliminary to any debate upon the financial problems of the war that the Premier should confine himself to the facts, and not begin by placing the State and the Commonwealth upon even terms in prosecuting this war. The central authority should be left as free as possible, and given precedence in everything leading up to the fighting line. In finance it must come first, and the State is bound to order its spending and taxation by the margin left when the Commonwealth has fairly done its duty.

But Mr. Holman's coolest assumption is that the citizen who has to surrender £100 of his income for the Government to spend is not prejudiced by the fact. Because the money is simply expended in another way no one is hurt. The Premier will, no doubt, reply that he was thinking and writing of the community—of the State—and not of the individual taxpayer. Yet even he must allow that the State, as a revenue-producing entity, is made up of individual taxpayers. If the principle is to be accepted that nothing matters with money as to who spends it, we shall have a gospel of burglary current directly and the thief will have as much right to urge the transference to his pockets of other people's property as a Labour Treasurer, intent upon getting revenue by any and every means in his power, to increase taxation. The Government represents the State, and is the taxpayer magnified. That is all right as theory; but when in practice we find the Government treating the war as an excuse for continued extravagance, and for keeping up at full strength a swollen army of State employees, the position is altered. The taxpayer is being fleeced to maintain one class in comfort at the expense of everybody else; and while he has to economise and drop from one depth of anxiety to another, the supporter of the Labour party is to be given increased wages. This is not finance; it is pure and unadulterated confiscation. We could understand Mr. Holman's theorisings if the Government of which he is head were showing any grip of a situation that grows daily more complicated. But to offer cheap platitudes such as the present memorandum contains, as a reason for increased taxation, is to add insult to injury. We are told, too, that there must be fresh borrowing as well as increased taxation, so that while Labour is in power it is to be a case of "after us the deluge."

EARLY CLOSING.

If anything forcible or original was expected of the representative of the Government in the Legislative Council last night when moving the second reading of the Liquor Bill, there must have been general disappointment. As a matter of fact, Mr. Fitzgerald did not support his own measure, nor give any reasons why its provision for closing public houses at 10 o'clock during the war should be endorsed by honourable gentlemen. His speech was consistent, however, as showing the hopelessness of getting Ministers to recognise the force of public opinion. There is no public opinion behind the bill, said the Minister to the Council in effect; and forthwith he proceeded to discuss the Continental habits of drinking and the need of wet canteens in military camps. We do not propose to follow him, or to refute his statements. It is enough for the moment to point out that France, which he quoted as an example, has been leading the way in liquor reform during this awful war; and everything he advanced otherwise may be met by the fact that the war has broken up all the old positions and upset all our statistics. To listen to Mr. Fitzgerald last night one might have thought there was no war worth the mention. But, forgetting this foolishness, the main fact now is that the bill is before the Council. What the Government thinks or offers through its spokesman is not so important as the need of a situation created by the presence of men in uniform, whom people without sense or real patriotism are continually moved to treat and make drunk.

Everywhere but in New South Wales checks have been given to the supply of liquor in a period of unexampled strain, and here, under pressure of public opinion, the Government offers to do something which is contemptible in its littleness. The Legislative Council, fortunately, is not to be moved by mere party considerations, because it does not need to placate particular interests. Its members do not forget the first voting in the Assembly, nor the happenings consequent upon what may be called a liquor appeal to the caucus. The country keeps the whole sorry business constantly in mind. Men and women in every grade of occupation and conviction have united in the demand for early closing—for genuine early closing. They pour contempt upon the Government's shameful compromise; and the Council would be quite justified in restoring 9 o'clock if it put the war in its proper place. This would probably give the Labour party a cry. The Council against the people's House would be the immediate challenge; but if that were pushed there could be little doubt as to the result. Ministers know as well as we do that a referendum on early closing would put them in a hopeless minority, and make their pretexts for delay the more ridiculous. Nobody, however, calls for a referendum. The cry is for action here and now; and an appeal to the people would only play into the hands of those whose trump card is delay. Nevertheless, 10 o'clock closing is worth something, and if nothing else is obtainable, it had better be accepted. At the same time we trust the Council will speak for the people with no uncertain voice. We are disgraced as a community by the Labour party's pandering to the publican, and no protest against it can be too strongly worded. One Chamber of our Parliament has voted the right way in a moment of sanity, and the other Chamber will help to save the situation if it emphasises the Assembly's first opinion.

COLONEL OWEN.

Colonel Owen, of Wollongong, who was recently honoured by being made a C.M.G. for services rendered at Gallipoli, will arrive in Sydney to-day by a hospital ship, and the men of the 3rd Battalion here who fought under him at the front are asked to attend at the Randwick Hospital at 9.30 a.m. and form a guard of honour for him on his arrival at the institution. There are at present about 50 men of the battalion in Sydney. It is the intention of a number of the men to entertain Colonel Owen at a dinner at a later date.

RAIN IN QUEENSLAND.

BRISBANE, Thursday.

Thunderstorms, with light rain, are reported from several drought-stricken areas on the Darling Downs and the south-western districts, and heavy rain is stated to be falling south-east of Charleville.

MACKAY, Thursday.

The droughty conditions in this district have given place to welcome rain, which will be of incalculable benefit to the sugar crops and stock. Up to 9 o'clock this morning the principal falls were:—Sarina 532 points, Koumala 300 points, Rockydam 500 points, Oxford Downs 325 points, Burrenbring 330 points. Several creeks are now running.

AUSTRALIANS.

SERVING IN FRANCE.

THE SUPPLY COLUMN.

VISIT TO THE CAMP CONCERT.

(BY H. S. GULLETT, OFFICIAL CORRESPONDENT AT BRITISH HEADQUARTERS.)

One night this week I had an interesting meeting with the Australian Supply Column in a French village not far from the front line. I had chanced with an English war correspondent on to a soldiers' concert in the open air. The little stage was of rough planking set in canvas, and was dimly lighted with electric globes covered with paper. The performers looked out on to a shadowy khaki audience; the flash of a match and the glow of cigarettes gave glimpses of a thousand soldiers' faces, brown and young and happy; and behind them the old spire of a village church showed dark against a starry sky.

At one side of the platform a score of village children, eagerly enjoying themselves, pushed closer and closer as the show advanced, and joined with pretty precision in the singing of the choruses. It mattered not to them that their fathers were at the war and that they did not know the meaning of the words they sang.

Supporting them a group of peasant women faded into the darkness, some laughing heartily at the stage play, and some with sad and dignified faces which made no response at all. At the other corner a subaltern closely surrounded by growing village girls played spirited accompaniments on a piano standing on the grass. The programme included songs and stories by soldiers drawn from the old and the new armies; there were Cockneys with light tenor voices, who six months ago were singing the same songs in the little drawing-rooms of Clapham and Cricklewood; a monologue by a young officer whom we remembered playing in "Man and Superman" at the Criterion; and then an older order of England's traditional Tommies, with verses written in France to the tunes of the London music halls, and patter with a little spice of a similar sort, one does not doubt, to that which on this very soil rejoiced the hearts of the soldiers of Caesar.

"The same old thing," complained the weary London war correspondent.

Soon afterwards came the startling announcement, "Australia's National Anthem." The lights were switched off, and out of the darkness we heard an astonishingly close and animated imitation of a laughing jackass. My weary friend pulled himself together; the children screamed and clapped with delight; the crowd insisted on more and more of it.

We had happened on to the headquarters of the Australian Supply Column, and Colonel Moon, the C.O., was the chairman at the concert. The performance lasted, as soldiers' concerts often do, for nearly four hours; half the soldiers in France seemed to have come that way with songs to sing or tales to tell. Four or five of the Australians assisted.

KEENNESS OF THE MEN.

During the evening Colonel Moon told me how well his men were working; their keenness and efficiency, he said, were beyond praise, and he was delighted with their bearing generally. This is no season for comparisons, but one must say that these men at the concert were a conspicuously fine lot physically, and it was not surprising to hear that the opinion of the British army is that the men who have come to France were specially chosen from a very large number of applicants. It was a strange experience at the end of the performance to hear an Australian officer making a speech to British soldiers of many regiments on active service.

Colonel Moon in some cheery words insisted upon the value of sports and entertainments in the battle area. There were some people, he said, who misinterpreted the British soldier's liking for every kind of innocent amusement. "But," he added, "I do not agree with them. The other day I watched from a distance an attack being made upon some enemy trenches. The cannonade was intense and deafening, no doubt some of our men were falling every minute, and yet in a field close by were a lot of British soldiers enjoying a game of football. I heard the umpire's whistle, and the shouting of the barrackers between the crashing of the artillery and the bursting of the shells. There was the Briton, whether born in England or Australia, at his best, playing with all his soul to-day, although he knew he would be in the thick of the fight again to-morrow."

Since then I have spent some time with the supply column. Its headquarters are on the outskirts of a village where Colonel Moon has a comfortable billet which earlier in the war was occupied by a German prince. The camp is arranged under two short lines of elms, opening on to a road at either end, and so is well sheltered from enemy aircraft, and at the same time convenient for work. The district contains a considerable number of other British troops, but the Australians have succeeded in establishing an atmosphere suggestive of an Australian colony. Unfortunately, it has not been found practicable to keep the men supplied with the distinctive leather caps and light grey khaki which made them conspicuous among the soldier throngs of London, and the men complain at being dressed in precisely the same clothes as the troops of the United Kingdom. "It makes us part of the mob, and a very small part," they say.

WITHIN SOUND OF THE GUNS.

The men are in the best of health and very happy in their work. Like the bulk of the soldiers of the new armies, they fretted at being kept so long in England. It seemed to them particularly unfortunate that they should not only be separated from their Australian comrades at Gallipoli, but that they should then have to accept months of idleness and gravel carting in the neighbourhood of Salisbury Plain. Then they were not at first pleased at having their Australian lorries taken from them by the War Office and replaced by new vehicles of the latest standard pattern. But now all that vexation is past; they are doing big work at last within sound of the enemy guns; they appreciate the wisdom of the War Office in changing their lorries; they have become accustomed after some fearful moments upon landing in France to driving to the right, or, as they insist, upon "the wrong side of the road," and altogether they are cheerful and comfortable.

Like every unit of the modern army, they are hardworked; their hours of driving and loading are long, and some times irregular; the lorries have to be kept in exhibition condition, and they often have much to bear from the roads and weather. Their task is to carry bread and meat and biscuits, and hay and oats, and coal, and fifty other products from railhead to the point beyond which motor transport is deemed dangerous, and from where the burden is taken up by horses and hand. The last stage of the motor journey must, as a rule, be done by night, and this means that the men load early in the day, travel part of the way, and camp and go to bed at sundown. The whole camp will often be asleep by dark. The cooks are astir at 2 o'clock; ("it is worse," they tell you, "than following a threshing machine"); and the men are out half-an-hour later. Breakfast is at 3, and before then you hear along the dark lines under the roadside trees the busy sounding of the powerful engines. Drivers are making sure that all is right for the start at half-past 3, when at a signal from an officer who leads in a motor car, a train of 50 great lorries moves off with the precision of marching infantry. They lumber on regardless of the roads, keeping their distance almost to the yard; unload, return to the railroad, and load again. Round and round, day and night, with a monotonous certainty that at any moment each car will be in its place and running perfectly.

The workshops, which are, I understand, the product of the Victorian Government workshops at Newport, are regarded with much favour by the British mechanical transport authorities, and are admitted to be ahead of those used by the home army. The Australian scheme of using the engine which drives the lorry for propelling the appliances of the workshop is followed by the Germans, and its adoption by the British War Office is not improbable. These Australian workshops are kept very busy, because it is part of the duty of the supply column to keep in repair the whole of the motor vehicles used by the division, including the staff cars and the despatch riders' motor cycles.

The men are very keen upon their drill and shooting, and upwards of a hundred of them recently asked to be allowed to go for a week, or as long as they could be spared, into the trenches. For obvious reasons their request is not likely to be entertained, but it shows their fighting spirit. One day I saw a party which had just returned from shooting practice. They had walked ten miles for it at the end of their day's work on the lorries. Their part in the war may not be as heroic as that of their fellows at Gallipoli, but, as the first Australians to come as a unit to the old battle area of Western Europe, they are making a good name for exceptional mechanical efficiency, high spirits, and good behaviour.

SHIRKERS.

COMMONWEALTH ACTION.

PASSPORT SYSTEM.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

It was announced to-day by the Minister for External Affairs (Mr. Mahon) that the Government had decided that no males of military age (18 to 45) would be allowed to leave the Commonwealth without a passport, and that no passport would be issued unless satisfactory reasons are forthcoming.

Passports, he said, had already been refused in a number of cases where good and sufficient reasons had not been supplied. Mr. Mahon explained that it was proposed to issue directions to the oversea shipping companies not to supply tickets unless the applicants produced the necessary passport. The task of carrying out the decision of the Government was to be placed in the hands of the Customs officials at the various ports from which boats for oversea destinations usually took their departure.

MOTOR CARS.

TO MEET THE WOUNDED.

A transport with sick and wounded Australians will arrive at Sydney this morning. The Red Cross Society has called up, from its register of cars, Nos. 54 to 187 inclusive, to meet the men. The cars should be at No. 1 Wharf, Woolloomooloo Bay, at 9 a.m.

IRONWORKERS.

STATE EMPLOYEES' STRIKE.

ADELAIDE, Thursday.

The trouble which has been threatening among members of the iron trades section employed at the Islington Government workshops reached a climax to-day, when nearly 1000 men in the iron trades section of the works downed tools and marched in a body from the works at Islington to the city.

At the Trades Hall this afternoon a mass meeting of the ironworkers from Islington and other departments in the Public Service was addressed by the Commissioner of Public Works and the Premier (Mr. Vaughan). In connection with the demand for increased pay to the extent of 1s a day, Mr. Jackson said his position was as he had already stated. He sympathised with the men in their request, but could not hold out any hope for an increase in wages. When the times got better, however, the Government would be pleased to consider the matter further, and he and his colleagues hoped that then it would be possible to accede to the request.

When questioned this morning concerning the dispute, Mr. Jackson said the Government intended to stick hard and fast to their position. If the men discontinued work and went out they would make arrangements to carry on the business of the State with the men at their disposal. The peculiar thing about the disturbance was, he added, that it was not the men on the lower rung of the ladder who were creating the trouble, but the men receiving shillings a day more. As far as he knew, the bulk of the men were sympathetic with the Government in the position in which it found itself. Any attempt to browbeat the Government would not help the men to get the increases to which they felt they have a right.

A PRESENTATION BUGLE.

OF THE EARLY SIXTIES.

A silver bugle was presented to the Volunteer Rifles, either the Sydney or the suburban battalion, in 1861 or thereabout. If any old volunteer of that time remembers the presentation and circumstances connected with it the director of the National Art Gallery would be pleased to receive the information.

The bugle is now to be seen at the National Art Gallery, it having been presented to the trustees by Mrs. Richardson, wife of the late General J. S. Richardson.

PERSONAL.

VICE-REGAL.

Their Excellencies the Governor-General and Lady Helen Munro Ferguson, attended by Captain Haskett-Smith, A.D.C., welcomed the soldiers on board, and were shown over the hospital ship Kanowna by the P.M.O. (Col. Brackieburst), and Matron Strickland, on its arrival at Woolloomooloo wharf, yesterday morning.

Her Excellency Lady Helen Munro Ferguson, accompanied by Miss Desailly, secretary of the Kindergarten Union of New South Wales, yesterday morning visited the Kindergarten Training College and various centres of the Union in the metropolitan area. In the afternoon her Excellency was the guest of Miss Walker, at afternoon tea, at Yaralla.

His Excellency the Governor-General, accompanied by Captain Brownlow, R.A.N., and attended by Major Kerr-Pearse, private secretary, paid a visit, by launch, to Middle Harbour, yesterday afternoon.

Captain Henderson and Mr. Consett Stephen were the guests of their Excellencies the Governor-General and Lady Helen Munro Ferguson at luncheon at Admiralty House, yesterday.

This evening, their Excellencies the Governor-General and Lady Helen Munro Ferguson will leave Sydney by the express train for Melbourne.

Archbishop Riley, of Perth, W.A., arrived in Sydney yesterday morning on a short visit to his Excellency the Governor and Lady Edeline Strickland, and was met at the station by General Finn, private secretary.

His Excellency the Governor and Miss Strickland, accompanied by Archbishop Riley, and attended by Captain Hughes, A.D.C., paid a private visit to the various Red Cross depots throughout the city yesterday morning.

His Excellency the Governor and Lady Edeline Strickland entertained the following guests to luncheon at Government House yesterday:—Archbishop Riley, Mr. Arthur and Mrs. Griffith, Mr. Campbell Carmichael, Lieut.-Colonel and Mrs. J. Crawford Robertson, and Captain Haskett-Smith.

Archbishop Wright, who contracted a severe cold at the end of last week, has been confined to his room all the week, and it will probably be some days before he will be able to resume duty. In the meantime the Bishop of Melanesia will undertake his episcopal duties.

At the last meeting of the board of directors of the Royal Prince Alfred Hospital, the following, who have been appointed additional Government representatives on the board, took their seats for the first time, and were welcomed by the chairman: Mr. Fred. Flowers, M.L.C. (President of the Legislative Council), the Lord Mayor (Alderman R. Richards), Dr. R. C. Paton (Director-General of Public Health), all of whom hold office ex-officio, Mr. C. G. Wade, M.L.A., and Mr. H. Y. Braddon. The Minister for Health (Mr. G. Black, M.L.A.) and Mr. A. C. Carmichael, M.L.A., who have also been appointed by the Government, were unable to be present. The board now numbers 22 members.

Mr. Muro H. Robertson, Deputy Auditor-General of Queensland, has been appointed Auditor-General of that State, in succession to the late Mr. T. W. Connah, I.S.O.

Mrs. McGowen, the wife of Mr. J. S. T. McGowen, M.L.A., who has been very ill for some time, was better last night.

Mr. J. Cormick, who for many years has been Chief Testing Officer of the Electric Telegraph Branch of the Sydney General Post Office, was last night presented with a travelling bag and salad service by the telegraphists, to whom he has delivered lectures.

The British Trade Commissioner in New Zealand, Mr. W. G. Wickham has been transferred to South Africa. He leaves on December 28.

THE 50,000.

MINISTER OUTLINES SCHEME.

PERSONAL APPEALS

BASED ON CENSUS.

WIDESPREAD CO-OPERATION REQUIRED.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

The scheme devised by the Federal Parliamentary War Committee to assist the Government to raise the 50,000 extra men within the next few months was disclosed to-day, when the Minister for Defence (Senator Pearce) made the following statement:—

"A meeting of the committee was held yesterday, with the Minister for Defence (Senator Pearce) in the chair. Mr. F. Clarke, of the Victorian War Council, was present by invitation, and Colonel Dodds, the Adjutant-General, and Mr Knibbs, were in attendance. The chairman announced that at a Cabinet meeting just held the Government had considered the position, and decided that an attempt should be made to raise in addition to the 9500 men per month already arranged for, a further 50,000 recruits before June, 1916. The committee, after full consideration, relying on the statement made by Mr. Knibbs, that the Commonwealth contains approximately 600,000 eligible men, considered that it would be possible to raise the desired number. It was agreed that the campaign should be conducted in the following manner:—

That an appeal should be made to every man in Australia within the military age group, 18 to 44.

That the appeal be by postal [illegible] tion, the terms of which will be [illegible] drafted and approved by this com[illegible].

The local committee to then dea[illegible] replies received and take action in [illegible] a personal appeal in cases where no [illegible] unsatisfactory reply is received.

It was decided that the questions to be put might be on the following lines:—(a) Are you prepared to enlist now? (If your answer is "yes" you will be given a fortnight's notice before being called up). (b) Are you prepared to enlist at a later date? If so, name the date. (c) If you are not prepared to enlist, state the reason why.

That the areas shall be those of municipalities or other local governing bodies as far as possible.

That the committee adopt the principle of a local quota.

That the area organisation be the municipal or Government body, with power to add such other persons as they may think desirable.

Organisers, paid by the Commonwealth Government, to be provided in respect of any area for which the State War Council considers such assistance necessary.

The local committee to report on matters of administration to their State War Council, and supply to the officers appointed by the Defence Department the names and addresses of those willing to enlist.

State War Councils to have the power of dealing with questions of discipline with regard to the paid organisers.

The local recruiting committee to be the determining body as to the adequacy of the answers given, subject to such directions as this committee may from time to time give.

That the local recruiting committee be invited to send from time to time to the Federal War Committee, through the State War Councils, a sample of the replies which they consider of an unsatisfactory nature.

That the Federal War Committee ask the State War Councils to make a special appeal to all local governing bodies to take the matter up and hold regular and frequent meetings in order to give effect to it.

State War Councils to be informed that the Federal Government is prepared to make available the services of an officer to be attached to the recruiting committee for the special work of developing this scheme.

That Mr. Knibbs and Colonel Dodds be asked to map out the areas, and Colonel Dodds be asked to submit a statement with regard to the distribution of troops and the allocation of quotas to the various recruiting areas.

That a sub-committee, consisting of Sir William Irvine and Mr. Catts, be appointed to go into the question being dealt with by Mr. Knibbs and Colonel Dodds.

It is probable that the appeal referred to in par. 1 will be sent direct from the War Census office, and the replies thereto should be sent to the local governing body of the district in which the person receiving the appeal lives.

WIDESPREAD CO-OPERATION.

Supplementing this statement Senator Pearce said:—"It will be seen from the above scheme that we propose to invite the co-operation of local governing bodies of every kind throughout Australia. We believe that through these existing organisations we will cover practically every populated portion of the Commonwealth. They will, of course, be able to accept the co-operation of every citizen or representative bodies as they deem desirable, so that the recruiting will be in their war organised on a territorial basis. The material upon which they work will be that gathered in the war census, and the war census office will make such material available. It is recognised that a considerable amount of work will be called for, and, therefore, the Government will be prepared to assist in providing paid organisers, where required in the opinion of the State War Councils. Each State War Council is being communicated with in the terms of the above resolutions, and we look to them to see that the municipalities and other local governing bodies are impressed with the necessity of taking immediate action on the lines indicated. The present results from the recruiting campaign now in progress indicate that a thorough systematic and energetic programme such as has been laid down in these resolutions is absolutely essential and necessary if Australia is to provide the men which the Government thinks it is capable of providing. It is of the utmost importance that these men should be recruited as early as possible, so as to have the greatest number we possibly can get ready for the campaign in the European spring. We, therefore, appeal to the various local governing bodies not to delay in this matter, but as soon as they get the material in the shape of replies back from those who have been appealed to, they will at once commence to organise and carry out an energetic postal canvass as indicated, to be followed by personal representation where found necessary. I am confident that if the scheme is taken up energetically and whole-heartedly we shall easily achieve the ideal we are aiming at."

NEW ZEALAND CONGRATULATIONS.

WELLINGTON, Thursday.

Speaking of Australia's offer of 50,000 additional men for the front, Mr. Massey said: We have received no communication on the subject either from the Imperial Government or the Government of the Commonwealth. We congratulate Australia on her most recent offer, and sincerely hope the Government of the Commonwealth will be successful in finding the men they are asking for.

THE ANZAC BREED.

VALUE OF AUSTRALIAN TROOPS.

LETTER FROM GENERAL RYRIE.

An interesting letter has been received by Mrs. Wharton Kirke, of Manly, from Brigadier-General Ryrie, congratulating her upon being the originator of Australia Day.

The General says: "We are badly in need of more Australians here. We would sooner have a thousand Australian boys than 5000 of any other troops. I am commanding a section of defence here, and we are getting very low in numbers. They go away at the rate of about 25 a day, killed, wounded, and sick. We are hanging on waiting for reinforcements. There must be 200,000 of the enemy in front of us, strongly entrenched, with heaps of barbed wire in front of their positions."

Continuing, the General says: "I have implicit confidence in my men, and am not in the least bit anxious," and concludes with the remark that he does not regard life in the trenches as a hardship.

Three of Mrs. Wharton Kirke's sons are, it may be added, in Gallipoli.

SERVIA'S HEROIC ARMY.

THE ALLIES' NOTE.

GORIZIA.

ITALIAN PROGRESS.

According to the latest telegrams received in London the situation in Servia is most serious.

The Servian moral, however, has not been affected by the reverses, and the strategic situation is not beyond redemption. The Government has been removed to Scutari (Albania).

Reni (in Russia, on the left bank of the Danube), has, according to German semi-official reports, been transformed into a huge military camp. Two hundred thousand Russians are ready to move at a moment's notice.

When interviewed in London, the Servian Minister for War said that France and England were preparing surprises in the Balkans.

The Allies have presented a Note to Greece, demanding assurances for the security of the allied forces in Macedonia. Reuter's correspondent in Athens says it is generally believed that Greece will completely accept the demands.

A Turkish communique reports violent fighting on the right wing at Sedd-ul-Bahr, and violent bomb fighting in the centre.

A Rome official report says that the Italians have occupied the Calvario crest, west of Gorizia (26 miles north-west of Trieste). The Austrians have evacuated Rovereto (14 miles southward of Trient), and Mori (five miles south-west of Rovereto).

A Rotterdam message says there are persistent reports that the German battle-cruiser Derfflinger was mined and sunk in the Baltic.

BRITAIN'S FINANCES.

SLIPPERY PATH AVOIDED.

LONDON, Nov. 25.

Lord Inchcape addressing the Institute of Bankers said the loan from the United States had been the best method for restoring the rates of exchange, but it was only a palliative. The restoration of a favourable trade balance was the only cure, therefore it was highly important our exports should be maintained, rendering services to neutral countries, and thus attracting money to Britain.

Recruiters, he said, were unavoidably denuding factories, farms, an ships, but reasonable give and take would enable Britain to pull through and lick the Germans. We had avoided the slippery path taken by Germany, where every successive loan meant a freshly inflated currency, resulting in increased prices. The exhausted and defeated nation would be compelled at the conclusion of the war to face the task of redeeming securities and notes.

He hoped the response of British people to the urgent appeal for economy would enable Britain to continue the path of financial rectitude. The daily expenditure of £5,000,000 means that the normal annual expenditure was used up every six weeks.

Concluding, he said: "I believe to-day is the darkest hour before the dawn. It may be three, six, nine, or possibly twelve months, but it is as certain as sunrise that Germany will be crushed, and the world's peace secured for another century."

BRITISH GENERAL STAFF

PRIME MINISTER'S STATEMENT.

LONDON, Nov. 25.

Mr. Asquith announced in the House of Commons that steps are being taken by additions and redistribution to increase the effectiveness of the General Staff. It was not desirable to give particulars. It was not considered advisable to place the Anglo-French forces on the western front under a supreme commander.

GERMAN SUBMARINES.

SUPPOSED SUPPLY SHIP.

ROME, Nov. 24.

The military authorities in Naples have sequestered the Greek boat Epiros, which was loaded with 120 barrels of benzine. It is believed the boat has been supplying German submarines.

GALLIPOLI.

VIOLENT FIGHTING.

AN ENEMY REPORT.

LONDON, Nov. 25.

A Turkish communique says:—We captured an English aeroplane, which was shot down, and the pilot taken prisoner.

There is violent fighting on the right wing at Sedd-ul-Bahr, and violent bomb-fighting in the centre.

BULLY BEEF AND SICKNESS.

Mr. J. Cathcart Wason, M.P., in a letter to the "Daily Chronicle," asserts that the bully beef supplied at Gallipoli is uneatable until cooked and partially washed. The New Zealanders who m e it a point of honour not to complain, say that it is responsible for much of the stomach trouble.

Mr. W. H. Forster (Financial Secretary to the War Office), questioned in the House of Commons, stated that he had tasted the beef and found it excellent. He was making inquiries.

Mr. Wason suggested that Lord Plunket and Lord Islington should be asked to report.

AUSTRALIA'S SHARE.

NEWSPAPER COMMENT.

LONDON, Nov. 25.

The newspapers give prominence to Australia's decision to raise an additional fifty thousand troops.

MAGNIFICENT FIGHTERS.

Mr. Ashmead Bartlett, in the course of a lecture in the Queen's Hall, said it was a thousand pities the Australians, who were magnificent fighters, were not concentrated in France, where they could play a big part in an important attack in the future. We really could hit the Germans in France and Flanders.

THE ITALIANS.

ADVANCE ON GORIZIA.

AUSTRIANS EVACUATE ROVERETO.

ROME, Nov. 24.

It is officially stated that the Italians have occupied the Calvario Crest, west of Gorizia (26 miles north-west of Trieste).

The Austrians have evacuated Rovereto (14 miles southward of Trient), and Mori (five miles south-west of Rovereto).

Our continuous offensive on the Carso front was brilliantly crowned by assault ing and capturing a deep line of trenches on the fourth summit of Monte San Michele, also a church at San Marino. Many were taken prisoner.

AUSTRIAN REPORTS.

A Vienna communique says:—The bridgehead at Gorizia was again subjected to heavy artillery and minethrowers' fire, but there were no infantry attacks. The fighting on both sides of Monte San Michele was most severe. Strong enemy forces penetrated our position north of the mountain on Tuesday afternoon, but were repulsed after fluctuating severe hand-to-hand fighting. An attack at San Martino was repulsed with heavy Italian losses.

THE DERFFLINGER.

MINED AND SUNK.

A ROTTERDAM REPORT.

ROTTERDAM, Nov. 25.

There are persistent reports that the German battle-cruiser Derfflinger was mined and sunk in the Baltic, thirty-three of the crew being drowned.

SMELTING WORKS.

EFFORTS TO ESTABLISH.

AN EMPIRE PROPOSITION.

LONDON, Nov. 24.

An important deputation from the London Chamber of Commerce, Australian merchants, and other organisations in London, waited on Mr. Bonar Law (Secretary of State for the Colonies) and Mr. Runciman (President of the Board of Trade), and asked for assistance for the smelting industry.

The deputation included Messrs. Tredwen (merchants), Keating (mining), Johnson (English manufactures), Sir John McCall (Tasmania), and J. G. Jenkins (South Australia).

The speakers submitted a resolution, recently passed by the London Chamber of Commerce, urging the Government to grant a bonus fo not less than 20 years on spelter produced at works in Great Britain from ores produced in the Empire, and to increase the price to £23 per ton, when the monthly average falls below £23, or as an alternative to guarantee the capital invested.

Members of the deputation emphasised the position of the mining industry on the Barrier and in Tasmania, and urged the importance of keeping smelting in the Empire. There were smelters in Wales, North England, and Scotland, which would be enlarged if a bonus were given. It was proposed to erect smelters in Britain, with a capacity to treat the whole of the Australian output. At present Britain treats 50,000 tons, but consumes 250,000 tons.

Mr. Bonar Law gave a favourable reply. The Cabinet was anxious to confine the work to the Empire. The question had been considered in various forms for a long time, and the Government was anxious to help. He invited the deputation to submit a concerted scheme.

The deputation expressed pleasure with Mr. Bonar Law's reply, and another interview will shortly take place, when it is considered probable a scheme will materialise.

MERCHANT SHIPPING.

LONDON, Nov. 24.

Arrivals: At Marseilles, Khyber, s (left Sydney Oct. 16); at Caleta Colosa, Alden, s (left Newcastle Oct. 13).

Departure: For Sydney, Essex, s.

MISCELLANEOUS.

LONDON, Nov. 25.

Mr. Gerard, American Ambassador in Berlin, has secured the release of Sir Edward Goschen's son, who is a lieutenant, and was wounded early in the war.

THE BALKANS.

GRAVE SITUATION.

ALLIES' NOTE TO GREECE

THE RUSSIAN ARMY.

LONDON, Nov. 25.

The latest telegrams show that the situation in Servia is most serious. The Government has been removed to Scutari (Albania).

The Servians have lost their hold on the historic Kossovo Plain, where Sultan Murat I. overwhelmed the Servians in 1389. Fighting, however, continues on the Kossovo Plain, in which the Bulgarians claim to have captured eight quick-firers and taken many prisoners.

[The Sultan Murat I. entered Servia in 1389, and a decisive battle took place on the Plain of Kossovo on June 15, 1389. The Sultan perished by the hand of a Servian knight, Milosh Obilitich, but the Turks were victorious. Prince Lazar was taken prisoner and beheaded.]

The Servian victory at Leskovatz (southward of Nish) was only a partial success, and did not result in stopping the enemy's advance. It was followed by sanguinary battles between the Servian rear-guards and Bulgarian van-guards north of Monastir, neither side giving nor asking quarter.

Official Servian accounts of the fighting state that the forces are intact and the commissariat is working well under French supervision. The Servian morale has not been affected by the reverses, and the strategic situation is not beyond redemption.

PREPARING SURPRISES.

The Servians continue their defensive in defiles on the mountains in order to tire their adversaries and permit of the Allies concentrating. They are still retaining the way of retreat into Albania.

The Servians are attempting to pierce the Bulgarian front towards Uskub in the hope that the British and French advance in the direction of Veles will necessitate the retreat of the Bulgarians from the western part of New Servia.

The Salonica correspondent of the "Paris Journal" telegraphs that General Boyovitch has decided to maintain a mere curtain of troops against the Austro-Germans, hurling his 80,000 against 120,000 Bulgars, and is guarding the defiles of the Kachanik Pass in order to junction with the Allies.

The Servian Minister for War, interviewed at Salonica, said there will still be 200,000 troops after 75,000 had been killed or wounded and twenty-thousand taken prisoner. The only deficiency was in heavy artillery. Italy's participation was encountering difficulties owing to the divergent views regarding Albania. The Minister added that France and England were preparing surprises in the Balkans.

KING CONSTANTINE'S ATTITUDE.

M. Stavridi, Greek Consul-General in London, returned to London last night from Athens. When interviewed, he remarked: "Several members of the Greek Cabinet told me that Greece was bound to come in with the Allies if only sufficient allied troops were available on the spot. King Constantine's wish to see Lord Kitchener was entirely spontaneous, the King saying, 'I am not much of a diplomatist. I am a soldier, and to talk matters over with another soldier like Lord Kitchener would help matters.'"

The Consul-General added: "It is a mistake to think that King Constantine is unfriendly towards England. He was most anxious to see Lord Kitchener."

RUSSIAN CONTINGENT.

German semi-official reports confirm the previous semi-official statement that 200,000 Russians have concentrated to assist Servia. Reni (in Russia, on the left bank of the Danube) has been transformed into a huge military camp. The harbour is full of barges, containing completely-equipped troops, ready to move at a moment's notice across the Danube. Traffic from Reni to Galatz has been suspended.

"TIMES" EXPERT'S OPINION.

Colonel Repington, the "Times" military correspondent, deprecates an offensive in the Balkans, where, he says, we would lose 50 per cent. through sickness and exposure.

THE ALLIES' NOTE.

Reuter's correspondent in Athens says the Allies' Note was presented yesterday, and was discussed at the luncheon given by the King to M. Denys-Cochin. King Constantine announced that the Note, which was friendly in tone, demanded confirmation of Greece's assurances relating to the troops of the Allies. He added that it would be favourably received. There was no time limit, but the Note asked for the speediest reply possible.

It is generally believed that Greece will completely accept the demands.

An Athens message states that the Greek Cabinet has considered the Entente's demarche.

After the Cabinet rose, some of the Ministers said the situation was clearing, inasmuch as the Entente's demands, as now defined, were found to be much less comminatory than was generally believed. The Entente demands assurances for the security of the Allied forces in Macedonia, assurances which the Government never refused to give.

The Athens correspondent of the "Echo de Paris" says that the partial demobilisation of the Greek army is talked about in Government circles. Greece's financial circumstances have become very difficult.

The Athens correspondent of the "Petit Parisien" says that in the course of an interview, the Premier, M. Scouloudis, stated that Greece was neutral and would remain neutral, and notwithstanding pressure from any quarter, Greece would preserve in regard to the Entente, and France in particular, a benevolent neutrality. There never would be a finger raised by Greece against the troops of the Entente.

The London "Daily Telegraph's" Paris correspondent says that telegrams from Athens state the Greek Government has unconditionally consented to continue to grant all facilities at Salonica to the Allies. In the event of the Allies retiring into Greek territory, Greece will withdraw her troops from regions which the Allies may occupy.

Reuter's Athens correspondent says the Government's written reply to the Entente's Note accepts the demand regarding disarming the Allied forces and liberty of action on Greek territory, with a view to their security, and railway and telegraph facilities. It makes reserves concerning further examination of certain details. The declaration that the parts of Greece occupied by the Allies will be restituted in due course, and any justifiable demand for indemnities will be paid, has favourably impressed the Government regarding the Entente's friendly disposition. Greek steamers detained at Malta have been released.

SERVIAN COMMUNIQUE.

A Servian communique says: Sharp fighting has occurred between the Mlava and the Morava. All enemy attacks were repulsed. Two strong attacks were repulsed at Brailvitza. Stubborn fighting continues west of Kraljevo, on the left bank of the Nichava. The Bulgarians' extreme southern front was everywhere repulsed, and the enemy fled towards Istib. We gained successes in the region of Vlassina and Vranje.

A SECRET MEMORANDUM.

The Milan "Corriere Della Sera" publishes an interview with M. Venizelos, who said his conviction that the Entente will finally win was unshaken. Greece's safety lay in the hands of those commanding the sea.

He was now able, he added, to disclose a secret memorandum to King Constantine in January relating to the Dardanelles. He pointed out that Greece would have gained enormous compensations in Asia Minor for limited military assistance. He pledged to send one division, and believed the Entente would have been satisfied with the co-operation of the Greek fleet.

M. Venizelos added that when he informed the King he had mobilised the army to assist Servia, and had also secured Anglo-French assistance, the King replied that he did not desire foreign troops to tread Greek soil.

ROUMANIA.

A Paris wireless says that Roumania has refused an Austrian request to permit gunboats to navigate the Danube, so as to reach the Black Sea.

ENEMY REPORT.

A German wireless says:—We have taken Prishtina (south-west of Nish), and the Austrians Mitrovitza (north-west of Prishtina).

RECRUITING.

IMPROPER SPEECHES.

LORD DERBY REPLIES.

LONDON, Nov. 24.

Lord Derby, who is in charge of the recruiting campaign in Britain, addressing a meeting in the Stock Exchange, said he disliked to think that the House of Lords needed a censor, but there were two speeches that ought to have been censored. He could give the lie direct to Lord St. David's accusations against headquarters. There was not a word of truth in them. He could sum up Lord St. David's speech in a few words: "No gentleman would have said it; no gentleman will believe it."

Referring to Lord Ribblesdale's speech, Lord Derby said: "A man who gives information to the enemy goes by an ugly name, and the name should be given just as much to the speech delivered in the House of Lords as to the man who risks his life to give information to the enemy. We have a right to ask Lord Ribblesdale where he got the information which he said was common knowledge. I am in the War Office, and did not know it. I don't think you will find people who do."

Concluding, Lord Derby said: Recruits are coming in in large numbers, but they must come in larger numbers in the next three weeks, if the voluntary system is to be unassailable.

LORD ST. DAVIDS EXPLAINS.

Lord St. Davids made a personal explanation in the House of Lords to-day regarding his reference to the British Headquarters. The ladies he referred to as visitors at the British Headquarters in Flanders, he said, were above reproach, but he did not consider it decent to regard war as a sort of peep show. He deprecated reading into his speech what he had not meant.

The Marquis of Crewe said he was glad Lord St. Davids had qualified his speech. He had only himself to blame if harsh things had been said about it.

MR. ASQUITH'S HOPE.

Speaking in the House of Commons, Mr. Asquith said the Government would not hesitate to adopt the most effective measures to impress on the community the need for the most rigid economy. There was every reason to hope it would not be necessary to legislate in order to obtain sufficient recruits.

BAGHDAD.

BRITISH ADVANCE.

It is officially stated that General Townshend's division on the 22nd, captured Otesiphon, 18 miles from Baghdad.

There were 2000 British casualties.

The Colonial Office reports:—After a night march from Zeur, General Townshend's division attacked a Turkish division at Otesiphon. After severe fighting throughout the day, the position was captured, with 800 prisoners, and large quantities of arms and equipment. General Townshend's force and general headquarters bivouacked on the captured position. The Turks delivered heavy counter-attacks during the night of the 23rd, which were successfully repulsed, but want of water on the 24th necessitated our retirement to the river three to four miles below Otesiphon.

UNITED STATES.

THREATENED OUTRAGES

GUARDS IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.

Special guards of detectives have been engaged in Washington in consequence of rumours of threatened outrages, including the destruction of the capitol. The explosion months ago made the authorities nervous.

RIOTS IN CLEVELAND.

Further riots have occurred at Cleveland, Ohio. Many were injured. The riots originated because a factory was used for the production of motor cars for the Allies.

SUPPLIES FOR GERMANS.

The United States Secretary of State (Mr. R. Lansing) holds that Captain Boy-Ed (German Naval Attache) is not amenable to American law because he used German money to subsidise American or German steamers which aided German warships to raid the Allied commerce on the high seas. Mr. Lansing points out that no proofs are forthcoming that Captain Boy-Ed conspired with anybody. His connection with the case is merely incidental.

Further evidence against the Hamburg-American directors showed that whole fleets of steamers were engaged in helping the German warships at many ports in the United States, both on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts. Coal and food were supplied on a lavish scale.

PERSIA.

GENDARMERIE OUTRAGE.

LONDON, Nov. 24.

The Foreign Office reports that on the 10th Persian gendarmerie seized the Consul and Superintendent of the Indo-European telegraphs, also the European staff of the Imperial Bank in Shiraz. All were deported to the neighbourhood of Ahram, where they are apparently in charge of Herr Wassmuss. The bank building was seized, and all private property confiscated.

The Government had also been informed that gendarmerie in northern Persia had revolted under Swedish officers. They hold Kum in German interests. They cut the telegraph lines, and robbed British and Russian residents, while gendarmerie, under Swedish officers, attacked Hamadan.

NEWSPAPER COMMENT.

USED BY THE ENEMY.

Sir J. A. Simon (Home Secretary), questioned in the House of Commons concerning the article in the "Russkoye Slovo," which blamed the Northcliffe press for diplomatic failures in the Balkans, thanked Mr. Terrell for calling attention to "this striking illustration of the advantage the enemy seemed to gain from a section of British newspaper comment," and added that the matter was under consideration.

Sir J. A. Simon, in reply to further questions, quoted the "Russkoye Slovo's" article.

The "Times," in commenting on Sir J. A. Simon's statement, publishes M. Sazonoff's and M. Krivoshein's expression of approval of the "Times" war editorials. Even the Czar, says the "Times," sent his compliments in connection with the "Times" military articles.

WAR NOTES.

THE SERVIAN CAMPAIGN.

Light is thrown this morning upon the confusion that has recently arisen concerning the positions occupied by the northern armies in Servia. Some days we have received reports of fighting taking place on ground over which the Austro-Germans had advanced some time before, and no intimation had come through in the meantime of the invaders having retraced their steps; and on other days operations have been reported from certain localities the position of which has been such that if the Servians were really at that moment fighting there they must be absolutely surrounded by the enemy. The light we speak of comes through the Servian communique published this morning. It speaks of fighting between the Morava and the Mlava rivers in the district west of Kraljevo, on the Nichava river, and in the Vlassina and Vranje regions. Now, the area between the Morava and the Mlava lies in the extreme north of Servia; Kraljevo is now far to the north of the known Austro-German line; the Nichava flows into the Morava from the east—not west—at Nish; the Vlassina district is also on the Bulgarian side of Nish, and Vranje is a railway station near the Bulgarian border, which has been in the hands of the enemy since the early days of Ferdinand's intervention. Thus it will be seen that it is practically impossible for fighting to be taking place in any of these localities now. It would mean that the Servians had retired only a little way from the Danube in the north-east; that they still occupied a large tract of territory east of the Morava; that the Bulgarians were not in possession of Nish; and that the enemy had not control of the through railway to Constantinople.

DELAYED COMMUNIQUES.

The fact of the matter is this Servian communique, though it may be strictly accurate as far as the position went when it was written, is dealing with events that took place weeks ago, and, for some reason or other, it has been held back from publication. Other Servian communiques received earlier than this one have obviously dealt with later operations; but there can now be no telling as to which are up to date, and which are not. In any case, looking back over the past week or so, the official Servian despatches seem to be consistently behind even the reliable unofficial news, and they are for the most part also behind the enemy communiques. This apparently accounts for the confusion in regard to the northern sphere of operations. It probably means, for instance, that the recent official report of a Servian success in the Leskovatz region—which on the face of it was puzzling enough—was dealing with operations many days old, and that, after all, we will not hear of any considerable section of the Servian armies being caught in the great enveloping movement of the enemy. As a matter of fact, this morning's news, which tells of the Austro-German occupation of Mitrovitza and Prishtina, suggests pretty clearly that the great bulk of the Servians are to the south-westward of the line between those two towns, and that the main effort on the part of our little ally at present is to drive down in a south-eastward direction towards Uskub, in the hope that the Anglo-French troops will shortly commence to advance in a north-westerly direction, so that, between them, they will force the Bulgars to evacuate Western Servia, and the whole allied forces will link up. It is unfortunate, from our point of view, that the Servian official despatches are being delayed. It may be due solely to the unfortunate fact that the Servian Government at present is something of a perambulating affair, and things cannot, in the circumstances, be made to run with clockwork smoothness, but it also may be done with a definite intention to delay publication. In either case it makes it extremely difficult to follow the operations from day to day, and it inevitably casts some suspicion upon the relation of the Servian news to the moment when it does make its appearance.

THE DERFFLINGER REPORT.

On Wednesday an Amsterdam cable stated it had been reported that "one of Germany's newest Dreadnoughts" had struck a mine and sunk in the Baltic, and that 33 of the crew were drowned. Now this morning comes a Rotterdam message to the effect that there are persistent reports there that the battle-cruiser Derfflinger was sunk by a mine, and 33 of her crew were drowned. So it begins to look as though there were some fire behind the smoke. It would be difficult to get really authentic confirmation of such an incident as that indicated. The German Admiralty would, naturally, make every possible effort to hush the thing up. If a Russian ship were responsible for the sinking of the battle-cruiser it would, of course, be impossible to keep it quiet; but, as a mine was the instrument of destruction, and the incident probably occurred with no enemy onlookers, the Germans would be justified in refraining from proclaiming the affair to the world at large. In such a case our only news regarding the matter would come through neutral travellers, who had by some means come to learn of the disaster while in Germany. If the Derfflinger has actually gone to the bottom then there is every reason for gratification on our part. Although she is not now the very newest German battle-cruiser—two others, the Lutzow and the Salamis having recently passed into the fleet—still she was the latest vessel of this type at the outbreak of the war. As a matter of fact, she was actually undergoing her trials when hostilities opened. She has a displacement of 26,200 tons, a speed of somewhere about 26 knots, and carries eight 12-inch guns. She is certainly one of the very finest Dreadnoughts in the German fleet, though in the matter of armament she is outclassed by contemporary British battle-cruisers. Readers will perhaps remember that the Derfflinger opened her acquaintance with British warships in the Dogger Bank action, and the warmth of their greeting so overwhelmed her that she had considerable difficulty in making her way back home.

LATE WAR NEWS.

GREECE ACCEDES.

TO ALLIES' DEMANDS.

LONDON, Nov. 25.

The Greek Government has delivered a reply to the Note presented by the Quadruple Entente. Greece accedes to the demands, and gives an essential guarantee.

A Reuter's Agency message from New York says it is officially announced in Athens that Greece has cordially agreed to meet the demands of the Allies.

DAMAGING PRESS COMMENTS.

Those who have been following the campaign conducted by the Northcliffe group of papers against the British Government will be interested to learn that official attention has been called to the recent Russian protests in the matter, and that the Secretary of State for Home Affairs has announced that the Government is giving the subject consideration. The protest, it will be remembered, was voiced by the Petrograd paper "Russkoe Slavo," the gist of an article from which was recently reprinted in the London "Daily Chronicle." The "Russkoe Slavo" declared that the Russian newspapers were giving a heavy responsibility on the Northcliffe press for the failure of the diplomacy of the Entente in the Balkans. After the "Times" and "Daily Mail's" quarrel with the British Government, it pointed out, they systematically began to blacken the military and diplomatic measures and foretell the failure of the Allies. "The Germans," said the Russian paper, "had made wide use of this campaign for their own propaganda in Greece, Roumania, and Bulgaria. Wolff's Agency disseminated Colonel Repington's articles in the 'Times' with a view to proving that the English recognised the deficiency of their military organisation, and papers in Roumania and Greece were filled with the 'Daily Mail's' and 'Times'' comments, published at the German expense." The Home Secretary, referring to the "Russkoe Slavo's" article, stated that it afforded "a striking illustration of the advantage the enemy seemed to gain from the comments of a section of the British press." The curious thing about it is that the British Government should have had to be told by the Russian press before it "took into consideration" certain activities within armstretch distance of itself that were, on frequent occasions, manifestly working to the detriment of Britain's interests and those of her Allies. Freedom of the press is a thing to be jealously guarded in all British communities; but few would object to the Northcliffe group being given an official hint that at a time like this the Empire must give place to purely political or personal interests.

INOCULATION AGAINST TYPHOID.

There is every reason to hope that when the end of the war is reached it will be found that as the result of the protective inoculation against typhoid the number of deaths from this disease, which has proved a terrible scourge in some campaigns, has been exceedingly small. It will be remembered that, as far as our own army is concerned, the latest official returns, which were reported to Parliament some time ago, were very satisfactory, and it may be anticipated that in the near future any objections to inoculation that may have existed among the fighting forces will have disappeared. According to details published soon after the outbreak of war, and now requoted in the "Naval and Military Record," about 93 per cent. of the British garrison of India had been protected by inoculation, and typhoid fever, which used to cause from 300 to 600 deaths annually, was in 1913 responsible for less than 20 deaths. Equally convincing, if further proof of the efficacy of inoculation were needed, is to be found in the experience in connection with the American army. There the inoculation was gradual, beginning at the end of 1910, in which year there had been 198 cases of typhoid. By the end of 1911 70 cases had occurred. The number fell to four in 1913 and seven in 1914, and for the first six months of this year only one case of typhoid had been reported in the American army.

THE ARMY.

NEW INSPECTOR-GENERAL.

BRIGADIER-GENERAL M'CAY.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

Brigadier-General J. W. M'Cay has been appointed Inspector-General of the Australian Imperial Forces in Australia.

In announcing the appointment the Minister for Defence (Senator Pearce) said that Brigadier-General M'Cay has partially recovered from the wounds which necessitated his being invalided home, and was very anxious to get to work again until such time as he was able to return to the front.

"I consider him," said Senator Pearce, "the most suitable man for the position. He will go round and see that the training and all that sort of thing is being carried on in the proper manner. He will take up his duties next week, and will visit all the camps in the different States."

STATE STEAMERS.

KANGAROO'S PURCHASE.

PERTH, Thursday.

The Legislative Council last night was asked by the Colonial Secretary not to strike out the whole of the £200,000 for State steamers in the Loan Bill. The amount of £200,000 was struck out as moved by Mr. Colebatch, but in the place of £5000, as proposed, it was decided by 14 to 6 to insert £145,000, the amount already paid for the Kangaroo.

The Council then recast the Assembly's Hotel Closing Referendum Bill's hotel trading hours from 9 in the morning to 9 in the evening.

The Legislative Assembly, on the Premier's motion, accepted the Council's State steamer reduction in the Loan Bill.

CUSTOMS HOUSE

PREMISES TO BE REBUILT.

In connection with the proposed rebuilding of the Customs House, the various departments there have received notice to vacate their offices by December 31 next.

It is proposed to house the different departments in separate buildings in the city, owing to the authorities being unable to obtain one building suitable to accommodate all of them.

This is likely to cause inconvenience, as matters have frequently to be referred from one department to another, and the business of shipping firms is not likely to be facilitated if the different departments are scattered about the city.

WAR COUNCIL.

BATHURST, Thursday.

A public meeting has decided on the formation of a branch of the War Council to cover the Lyndhurst Shire, with meetings to be held alternately in Blayney, Carcoar, and Millthorpe.

PRIVATE PRATT.

Private Frank Pratt, whose death from wounds was announced yesterday, was the eldest son of Mr. Frank Pratt, of Goldsborough, Mort, and Co., Limited. He was 20 years of age.

RECRUITING.

PREMIER'S STATEMENT.

"COMPARATIVE FAILURE."

FIXTURES FOR TO-DAY.

12.15 to 1 p.m.—Sydney and Waterloo Glass Bottle Works, Dowling-street, Waterloo, combined meeting. Speakers: Q.M.S. O'Brien (Gallipoli), Driver G. H. Puckett (Gallipoli), Private R. T. Ainslie (Gallipoli). 8 p.m.—Wollongong—Speakers: Captain Cohen, Q.M.S. Tickner, D.C.M.

An announcement of significance was made in the Legislative Assembly last night by the Premier regarding the recent recruiting campaign in the State.

Mr. Cochran directed a question to the Premier as to whether any information had been received from the Minister for Defence regarding the methods to be adopted to procure the additional 50,000 men the Federal Government intended sending to the front.

Mr. Fern (who appeared in khaki) requested the Premier to tell the House whether the last recruiting campaign in the State was a success or a failure. If it was a failure, he wanted to know if the Government intended undertaking any new idea for the improvement of recruiting in the future.

Mr. Holman: I am getting the final figures of the recruiting campaign instituted some weeks ago prepared for the use of the State War Council. I don't think there need be any doubt that the campaign must be regarded as, comparatively speaking, a failure. I think members and the public generally will find that no suggested method has been left untried. The objectionable presence of politicians, which was construed in certain quarters for the slowness of the recruiting, has been kept to a minimum this time. Every suggestion that seemed to present any practicability was acted upon, but in spite of all the measure of success is only partial. That being so, the State War Council naturally awaits some indications of the views of the Federal Council and the Federal Government before we commit ourselves to any action. I don't doubt these facts are fully evident to the Federal War Council, and to the Prime Minister and his colleagues, and I hope they are preparing for the adoption of new methods for raising the forces which are absolutely necessary if we are to perform our fair share in the war.

Mr. Fitzpatrick referred to the Prime Minister's statement that in the raising of the new men the voluntary system would be observed, and asked the Premier if it was not his opinion that no matter what new methods were introduced the voluntary system would bring forth no better results than in the past campaigns?

Mr. Holman: "My own opinion is well known. I agree that it is primarily a matter for the Federal Government to deal with. I will not commit myself to the admission that the usefulness of the voluntary system has ended until I know what proposals are made for increasing its usefulness."

WAREHOUSEMEN.

MEETING IN TOWN HALL.

Marching to the music of the bagpipes, the men employed in the warehouse of Paterson, Laing, and Bruce, Ltd., arrived at the Town Hall at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon to attend the meeting arranged by the recruiting committee. They were followed by other contingents from softgoods warehouses, and when the meeting was opened by Mr. J. T. Hitchman at 4.15 the main hall was well filled with an audience which listened with close attention to the appeals made by the speakers.

The following houses were represented:—Alcock Bros., Ltd.; Henry Bull and Co., Ltd.; W. A. McArthur, Ltd.; Paterson, Laing, and Bruce, Ltd.; Petersen, Boesen, and Co., Ltd.; Robert Reid and Co., Ltd.; Sargood Bros., Pickles and Co., David Storey and Co., Websters, and Hooper and Harrison. One hundred cadets from the Sydney Grammar School, under Captain Jackson, formed a guard of honour around the hall, and on the platform were a number of wounded soldiers, returned from the front.

A SOLDIER POLITICIAN.

An enthusiastic reception was given to Mr. Carmichael, who was introduced by the chairman as "the politician who is now a soldier." His appeal was specially directed to those amongst the audience who were rifle reservists, and in a few words he described the scheme whereby he hopes to gather together 1000 riflemen and lead them to the recruiting office one month hence.

Captain Hitchens, of Gilgandra, was also introduced to the audience. A man of action rather than words, he acknowledged the applause with a military salute, that perhaps spoke more strongly than any words could have done.

HARD GOODS FOR THE ENEMY.

There would be no softgoods to deliver to the Turks, said Professor McIntyre. It was a time when each man must look at the facts fairly and squarely, and realise that it was up to him to come to the help of the nation in the hour of her need. (Applause.) "Let us not imagine that victory is ours," said the Professor. "Victory must be won, may be through a torrent of blood and sacrifice; but victory will only be ours when we have made it ours. I hope that it will never be said that Australia was the first country in the empire where the willing enlistment of her manhood failed. Every day the war is lengthened, human lives are lost; every day the war is shortened, human lives are saved. Pray God the day will soon come, when upon the world the Angel of Peace will return again, and the tyrant that mars peace will pass to his own reward." (Applause.)

"It is for you men," was the speaker's final appeal, "who are of military age, to show that though you come from the softgoods warehouses, for your enemy you have only the hard goods that are presented at the point of the bayonet." (Prolonged applause.)

THE FIRST RECRUITS.

"I want you to show," said Sergeant-major Lee, "that you are prepared to take your stand with us in the fight for right and liberty. Who is going to lead the way?" Two men from the body of the hall responded to the appeal, and their appearance on the platform was the signal for a fresh outburst of cheering. Corporal McQueen followed Mr. Lee, and made a stirring appeal to men of military age to come forward. Any young man without encumbrances, he said, who heard the call but did not heed it, constituted himself a traitor to the empire. The lads in the trenches wanted a rest, and those who volunteered now would be doing something of which they would be proud in the years to come. (Applause.)

Twelve recruits were secured at the meeting, which closed with a vote of thanks to the chairman, moved by Sir Wm. McMillan.

ENLISTMENTS.

At Victoria Barracks yesterday 41 men volunteered, of whom five were rejected; at the Town Hall depot, out of 43 who offered their services 29 were accepted; and at the Board of Health depot 39 men were accepted. Eighty-six men who had previously enlisted went into camp from Victoria Barracks yesterday.

Following are the figures of country enlistments from Monday to Wednesday:—Goulburn 15, Armidale 27, Narrabri 11, Dubbo 9, Cootamundra 25, Lithgow 12, Newcastle 27. Total 126.

Prior to his departure for the front Private Alan Taylor was, at the residence of Mr. Greentree, Haberfield, presented with a Bible, wristlet watch, and cigar-holder by his relations and friends.

Sergeant Frank R. C. Small, who is leaving for the front shortly, has been presented with a wristlet watch by his fellow workers in the Lands Department.

WHEAT.

GOVERNMENT'S HANDLING SCHEME.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

In the course of a further reference to the wheat scheme to-day the Prime Minister said that he had received advices that the South African business was exceptionally good, and that the arrangements with regard to the United Kingdom and Europe generally were proceeding in a highly satisfactory manner. In the course of a few days he hoped to be able to complete arrangements for the shipment of large quantities of December-January wheat.

Mr. Hughes also stated that Mr. Hagelthorn and himself had been in further communication with the chairman of the Associated Banks (Mr. O. M. Williams) and the governor of the Commonwealth Bank (Mr. Denison Miller), regarding the financing of the scheme. Mr. Williams had been in consultation with his colleagues of the Associated Banks with regard to the proposals made by him (Mr. Hughes) and Mr. Hagelthorn on Wednesday. It is expected that the matter will be definitely settled to-morrow.

WAGGA, Thursday.

At a large meeting of district farmers and others in the wheat centre of Gobbagumbalin last night the wheat scheme was discussed, and the opinion was unanimously expressed that the farmers were not getting a fair deal.

WOUNDED.

SOLDIERS RETURN.

KANOWNA ARRIVES.

STORIES FROM GALLIPOLI.

The first regular hospital ship to visit Sydney—the Kanowna—arrived yesterday morning with a further lot of returned wounded and invalided soldiers, and berthed at Woolloomooloo. The Queenslanders, numbering between 30 and 40, were taken to the Soldiers' Club, in George-street, and entertained there, returning later to the hospital ship to await the arrival of a further batch of soldiers for the northern State who are to arrive to-day. The Kanowna will then proceed to Brisbane. The officers and men belonging to New South Wales, to the number of 123, were taken out to No. 4 Military Hospital at Randwick, most of them by motor cars, which had been placed at the disposal of the Red Cross Society. The more seriously injured were conveyed to the hospital by ambulances. A number of nurses also arrived by the ship.

The Kanowna is completely fitted up as a hospital ship, and it is said that there was no room for complaint in any respect. Painted white, with a broad green band, and the Red Cross conspicuous on the hull, and with the Red Cross flag flying from the foremast, the ship was a fine sight as she came up the stream and berthed at the wharf. The vessel came from London, via Malta, Alexandria, and Suez, and brought out to Australia about 400 officers and men. Lieutenant-Colonel Brockway was the officer in charge, and he spoke highly of the assistance afforded by the Red Cross Society. He also expressed his appreciation of the courtesy and consideration shown by the master, Captain W. Smith, and the other officers of the ship, the loyal support accorded to him by the medical and nursing staff, and the excellent conduct of the wounded and convalescent men on board.

The Governor-General and Lady Helen Munro Ferguson went on board and inspected the ship, and chatted with the officers and men. Their Excellencies expressed themselves as highly pleased with the arrangements on the ship.

The girls of the V.A.D., with the Red Cross on their arms, were in attendance as usual, and each of the men was handed a packet of cigarettes on coming down the gangway. Plenty of motor cars were in waiting to take the officers and men away, and as the returned soldiers passed through the streets they were cheered very heartily, especially by a large contingent of soldiers in the Domain, below the Art Gallery.

An interesting meeting was that between Major Richardson, M.C., who returned yesterday, and Captain Kane, who had returned earlier. They had not seen each other since they went into action together at Gallipoli on the historic 25th of April.

Among those on board were Lieutenant Little, of Queensland, and his wife, who was formerly his nurse. Lieutenant Little lost both eyes and portion of his right arm on May 29 as the result of a bomb exploding in his hand. The romantic story of the wounded lieutenant and the nurse who is now his wife has already been told.

AT RANDWICK HOSPITAL.

The arrangements made by Lieut.-Colonel G. Lane Mullins, commanding officer at No. 4 General Hospital, at Randwick, for the reception of the returning men, were most complete. When the men arrived at the institution, all of those who could walk—and there were only 11 out of the 117 who came back who could not do so—passed through the building to wards which had been set aside for their reception, and after being examined by the doctors they were free to see their relations or friends, who were provided with chairs and tables in a large open space at the rear of the building. On former occasions the soldiers when they arrived were not permitted to see their acquaintances within the hospital grounds, but profiting by past experience, Lieut.-Colonel Lane Mullins decided to make the alteration, which was highly appreciated by those waiting for the soldiers.

The physicians connected with the institution (Lieut.-Colonel Jarvie Hood and Majors Fairfax, Coggins, and Hamilton Marshall), and the surgeons (Lieut.-Colonel Sir Herbert Maitland, Lieut.-Colonel Crawford Robertson, and Majors O'Gorman Hughes, and R. B. Wade), Major F. E. Wall (registrar), and Captain Norrie (senior resident medical officer), were assisted by Captains Zions, Aspinall, Elliott, and Joyce, in examining the men as they arrived. Matron Veenman had, besides her regular staff of nurses, the assistance of about 40 voluntary aids from the St. Vincent's and Burwood branches of the Red Cross Society, in charge of Miss Enid Bayly. These ladies also dispensed refreshments to the returned soldiers and their friends.

Of the returned men 53 were medical cases, and 64 required the attention of the surgical staff.

AT THE SOLDIERS' CLUB.

The Queensland men, numbering about 25, and six of the nurses who returned with them, were driven in motor cars from the ship to the Soldiers' Club in George-street. They were heartily welcomed there, and passed an hour or two very pleasantly.

In the absence of the honorary secretary (Dr. Mary Booth), the men were received by Miss Booth and the hon. treasurer (Mr. F. G. Sargood). They fraternised with other returned soldiers, and either sat in little groups telling stories and comparing experiences, or else joined in the games of billiards, chess, or draughts that are played unceasingly from morning till night. Shortly after 12 o'clock they were entertained at luncheon, provided by the Red Cross Society. About a dozen girls from the Neutral Bay voluntary aid detachment, all attired in neat uniforms, attended the tables, under the direction of Miss Evans, Mrs. James Ashton, Mr. H. Y. Braddon, and Mr. J. O. Fairfax, of the Red Cross executive, Mr. F. G. Sargood (hon. treasurer of the Soldiers' Club), and Miss Begg, assisted to entertain the men, and just as they were finishing lunch the Acting State Commandant (Colonel Ramaciotti), accompanied by Major Edwards, dropped in and chatted cheerily with the soldiers, the nurses, and everyone else, and expressed his appreciation of the arrangements that had been made at the club. On behalf of the men, Private Miller, of the 9th Battalion, returned thanks for the kindness that had been extended to the returned soldiers by everyone.

In the afternoon the men were taken to South Head, and at 4 o'clock tea was provided for them in Centennial Park by Miss Storey. They arrived back at the ship at 5 o'clock.

TALES OF BATTLE.

MAJOR C. R. RICHARDSON, M.C.

BRAVE TROOPS.

Out at the Randwick Hospital a representative of the "Herald" found Major C. R. Richardson, M.C., of the 2nd Battalion, sitting on a deck chair, surrounded by relations and friends. And every minute or two some new friend found him out—some wounded soldier who was with him in the historic landing on Gallipoli, and returned by an earlier boat. And Major Richardson held out his left hand and said, "My word, but I'm glad to see you boys again." "And we're glad to see you, major," they said.

Major Richardson, who was one of the first to land on Gallipoli, and had his right forearm torn away by a sniper's bullet in the dusk of the evening of April 25—"I only lasted 14 hours," he remarked regretfully—turned to the interviewer and said: "They would have followed me to hell if I had asked them—and, by George, I would go anywhere with them! The men I had with me were absolutely heroes, every one of them. They played the game to a man. I do not think there are any other troops in the world who would have accomplished what they did. One saw how necessary was individual initiative in that first advance, and what personality means. The heroic conduct of the wounded was wonderful—the tenacity with which they held on in the firing line after being wounded. As for the Turks, I can only say they are the cleanest fighters you could meet."

After being wounded himself, Major Richardson was taken to Alexandria, and was a patient under the care of Dr. Morrison, in the Deaconesses' Hospital. "There were German nurses there," he said, "and among the doctors were a Roumanian, a Servian, and a Greek. From there I was taken to Southampton, and I next found myself in a hospital in Manchester. Afterwards I spent some time in a convalescent home. I now have six months' leave, though it may be 12 months before I am allowed to go on active service again.

"While in England I had many opportunities of motoring about and visiting the various training camps, and I was very much struck by the way the men are housed and the quality of their food. I was also impressed by the excellent behaviour of the men. The authorities are dealing very rigidly with all breaches of discipline, and the men are playing the game as they ought to. If a man deserves punishment, however, he gets it pretty hard. Discipline is absolutely necessary. I went through Aldershot, and was down at Salisbury Plain, and the impression I got everywhere was of the best. But there is a lack of officers. Hundreds of Australians have gone home and have succeeded in getting commissions.

"I visited a number of hospitals in England, and talked to the men, especially those men of my own battalion, and I found them all happy. That is one of the great things about the Australians—their willingness to undergo fatigue and all sorts of hardships at the front, their cheerfulness when lying wounded in hospital. Our men are being very well treated in England. The way the women of England are behaving is wonderful. In one hospital—Londonderry House—Lady Londonderry and her friends, among them Lady Frederick Blackwood, were waiting on the men—bringing their meals to them, and even 'washing up.' One cannot speak too highly of these women of England; and I know it is the same in Australia."

Discussing the question of recruiting, Major Richardson said he favoured conscription, not because it necessarily dragged a man to war, but because it organised the country. "It is necessary, I think, in England," he said, "though one cannot help feeling proud of the wonderful response that has been made to Lord Kitchener's appeal under our voluntary system.

"There is one thing I would like to add," said Major Richardson. "Although I am not a teetotaller, I regard drink as the curse of the army. It causes men to lose their self-respect, and I can safely say drink is responsible for 80 per cent. of the crime. I cannot speak too strongly on this point. Coming over on our ship we gave the men no more than a pint a day, and had no crime. As for prohibiting men from drinking altogether on troopships, I don't agree with that idea—it gives the men a grievance. Treat the men as men; you cannot alter their nature; and they want a drink now and then. But let us have moderation, for it is certain that the crime and the sickness in the army are chiefly due to drink."

Major Richardson is only 26 years of age, but he is a soldier, every inch of him. A son of Mr. Russell Richardson, he was educated at the Armidale Grammar School. The soldier's life appealed to him, and he decided to adopt it as a profession. He began his military career at the age of 18, and he left Australia with the rank of captain, being promoted to the rank of major on the field. For the valour he displayed he was awarded the Military Cross.

A CHAPLAIN'S VIEWS.

There was an Australian chaplain in Egypt, who preached to Colonel Ryrie's Light Horse in the beginning of May last from the text "Let us run with patience the race that is set before us." The Light Horse had been camped there for months, and were tired, very tired, of it. They chafed under the monotony of the thing. They wanted to be off and fight with their comrades on Gallipoli. Their patience had departed long ago, and the only text that appealed to them at that time was, "How long, O Lord, how long?" Then the wounded began to arrive at Cairo—the wounded heroes of the famous landing on April 25. That settled it; the Light Horse volunteered as infantrymen, and there was no denying them any longer. So they became the "Lost Horsemen," and went to fight at Anzac.

The chaplain who preached on patience went with them, and yesterday he returned to Sydney. It was the Presbyterian chaplain, Captain Keith Miller, of Inverell. Stricken down with enteric, he was sent to hospital, and now he is on three months' furlough.

"I don't know that I can add much to what has already been told you," he said to a "Herald" representative yesterday. "I was with Brigadier-General Ryrie's brigade, and the story of the part the Light Horse has played in the war has been splendidly told by 'Trooper Bluegum' in the 'Sydney Morning Herald.'

"If you ask me what is the chief characteristic of the Australian soldier, I say that it is his wonderful adaptability to circumstances. It matters not what comes, he is ready to meet it, and if the officers are shot down, as so many have been, and the men are thrown on their own resources, their initiative, their self-reliance, and their adaptability to the situation are wonderful to see. It is hard to imagine a finer soldier than the Australian. Nothing daunts him. In fact, the harder the objective is, the more he likes it. Though a charge means certain death, he will not flinch from it. I have seen marvellous things done. It has been an experience one can never forget. And one of the things I shall not forget is the heroic work of the stretcher-bearers."

Asked for an expression of opinion as to the wisdom of withdrawing from Gallipoli, Captain Miller said: "I hope the idea will not be entertained. We should never withdraw, after all that our men have done and suffered. Besides, I doubt if we would succeed in getting the half of our men off. It would be a terribly costly business, I'm afraid. However, Lord Kitchener has just spent a couple of days at Suvla Bay, and he will now be in a position to sum up the situation. I would be greatly surprised if he should favour a withdrawal of the troops."

THE SO-CALLED "SPORTS."

Private James Smith, of Chinchilla, Queensland, who was shot in the leg in the Lonesome Pine fight on August 6, holds a very high opinion of the Turks as marksmen. He explained that pieces of iron piping were driven through the parapets of the Australians' trenches, and the men fired through them but the marksmanship of the Turks was so accurate that they could put bullets through the 3-inch tubing at from 150 to 200 yards. "Nothing was safe that they could see," he continued. "When we made a great charge on the Lonesome Pine trenches, and got the whole five lines, I was in a communication trench which we had captured, but my leg was seen by a Turk, and he put an expanding bullet into it. The result was a compound fracture of the bone."

Private Smith had seen "Murphy," the famous donkey, and also another one, which was also famous, for, to use his own words, "he was a regular 'deer,' and we thought the world of him." When Beachy Bill or Asiatic Annie—big guns used by the Turks—were fired this donkey would back into the first dug-out he came across, regardless of who was in it, officer or private, or else he would gallop back to the beach.

The men here who are holding back and not helping the men at the front were scathingly denounced by Private Smith. "We would have had the whole of the peninsula before this," he said, "if the required men had seen fit to offer their services. It is nothing short of a disgrace to see the loafers and so-called sports still hanging back when they must know the call is imperative. Will you believe me when I say that the married men are doing more than the single? How men can stand at the street corners and see their mates being knocked about out there beats me. It would be a fair thing for the men at the front if conscription were brought in here. The men there are not having a fair go."

HEROIC STRETCHER-BEARERS.

Private D. Gallagher, of the 9th Battalion, spoke in high terms of the work performed at Gallipoli by the Red Cross men. "The stretcher-bearers are the bravest of the brave," he said. "I saw innumerable acts of bravery performed by them. Often they have to go out between the two lines, and it hurts to see them being shot down. The Turks are fair fighters, and I don't think they shot the Red Cross men purposely, but there are so many bullets flying about that they can't help being hit. They never hesitate to go out under fire. The battalion doctor leads the way, and the stretcher-bearers are quick to follow him."

DANGEROUS BATHING.

According to Pte. Mangan, of the 9th Battalion, soldiers are not now allowed to bathe during the day time at Anzac Beach. "The Turks used to wait until there was a crowd of the boys in," he said, "and then they'd land a couple of shells in the middle of them. The boys would come out of the water for a while, but they were soon back again, so the authorities stopped them from bathing in the day time."

CITY ELECTIONS.

The nominations for the City Council elections, which take place on Wednesday next, are to close at noon to-day. There will probably be walks-over in Lang and one or two other wards.

ANTI-GERMAN LEAGUE.

MOSMAN BRANCH.

"THE ENEMY IN OUR MIDST."

The Mosman Anti-German League held a public meeting at the Mosman Town Hall last night. The audience was by no means large, but enthusiasm ran high. The president, Alderman A. D. Walker, presided. Also present were Sir Joseph Carruthers, Mr. P. Colquhoun, M.L.A., and Alderman Keirle, Mayor of Manly.

The following resolutions were unanimously agreed on:—"That the importation of all goods manufactured in Germany, Austria, or other enemy countries be prohibited, any such goods be confiscated, and importers heavily fined; that goods manufactured by enemy subjects in neutral countries be also prohibited."

"That all persons of enemy birth employed in the public, naval, or military services be at once dismissed."

"We pledge ourselves to abstain from purchasing goods of enemy origin, and will give preference to goods produced by Britain and her allies."

A spirited speech was delivered by Sir Joseph Carruthers. He said:—"The position of the war is so serious that it should compel the attention of every thinking man. It is no use being optimistic and blind. Neither is it right to be a pessimist and a coward. What we want to get right home to our minds is the once fact, viz., that we haven't even started to win yet.

"If we are to win—and I for one say there is no alternative to that but our giving up our lives and the lives of all we hold dear—then we must look facts fairly and squarely in the face, and reason them out. Why have we been losing so far in Belgium, in France, in the Balkans, and in Russia? Not because we haven't the men or the money, but simply because we have underrated the enemy, and overrated ourselves. We have left all the fighting to the soldiers and the nation, or, at any rate, the British nation has not backed up its soldiers, and fought the German as he should be fought.

"Half the German preparations to win this war are made by its invisible army of spies and agents. Half the success of Germany up to the present has come from its diplomacy and its work outside of its army.

"Why are we not awake to the fact that the German is an intelligent, unscrupulous foe, with a fund of knowledge and a system of organisation that make him the most dangerous man on earth. He is brave, it is true, but he is callous and cruel. He is a born schemer, and his word only binds him when it suits him. He is educated above his fellow men, but he has with his educated mind absolutely no heart. He is a patriot, and loves his country, whilst many in our Empire are selfish and unpatriotic.

All our defeats and reverses during the last fifteen months have arisen because our rulers and our people have not and will not realise what the German really is. Let me show you by a few facts.

Belgium is to-day a hell upon earth for its own people. The populace has gone through an inferno of fire, pillage, rapine, and massacre, and Belgium has lost all except its soul, which, thank God, still survives. Why is this so? Simply because Belgium, England, and France believed in the honour of a German people that guaranteed the neutrality of an almost defenceless nation. We know now that the German has no code of honour that includes keeping his word. After Belgium the word of a German is worthless.

Take Russia: She has almost been defeated because of the treachery of the German full breed and half breed within her own borders. The story of Russia's terrible defeats during the last eight months is a history of treachery and conspiracy engineered by the Germans within her own borders who have rewarded the hospitality of that country by betraying her, fomenting strikes and disorders, burning arsenals, destroying munitions factories, and bribing and debauching generals and officers. Russia has learnt a bitter lesson, and now it is purging itself of the German canker, and is getting rid of the enemy in its own midst.

The lesson of Russia is that you can't trust a German in your own midst; he is a danger all the time, and is only safe when he is caged.

Take the lesson of America and the revelations disclosed when the man Archibald was seized with the secret papers of the German and Austrian Ambassadors on him. These papers show that money was being lavishly spent to foment strikes in munition factories and to stir up hostility in the press. America has had incendiarism, assassination, bombs on ships, strikes, and other outrages, all engineered by German agents and with German money.

The story of the Lusitania and of a dozen other ships shows that the German respects no rule of war, but will kill and murder helpless women and children of any country, and will laugh at their agonies in death.

The story of Armenia is not merely the record of the Unspeakable Turk. We always knew the Turk to be "beyond the pale." The Turk dare not have massacred and wiped out 2,000,000 unarmed Armenian men, women, and children unless Germany had agreed to the inhuman murders.

The souls of millions of tortured men, women, and children wait at the gates of the next world to accuse the German race of their crimes against God and man.

The German Emperor and the German nation have for years prepared themselves for the war. They let loose the dogs of war upon civilisation, and, as if the war were not bad enough, they have engaged in systematic murder and massacre of the unarmed and innocent civilian population.

Servia is being wiped out before our eyes. It is only one of a series of tragedies, the horror and pathos of which paralyses the brain and nerve of the civilised world. When the story comes to be told of what is going on to-day in Servia, where the Germans and the Bulgarians are leaving nothing save a trail of blood and of battered humanity behind it, there will be a thrill of horror go through the world that will reverberate through the ages as history is read. Get it into your minds clearly that the German—the enemy who wants to beat us—is a perjurer, a violator of hospitality, a murderer, and an assassin of everything that civilisation holds dear.

Have we fought this enemy as he ought to have been fought? I say no, a thousand times no! So far he has been winning. He has outmanoeuvred us, beaten us in diplomacy (for he is a master in the art of lying), and in his policy of defiance. Facing an enemy such as this one it is criminal folly, nay, more, it is suicidal, to shilly-shally with half measures and with flabby statesmanship. The German should be outlawed. He knows no law except what suits him, and he should be treated as he really is. Against this phalanx of enemies who face us there should be no voluntary recruiting, no haphazard army-making, but the whole Empire should be put on a war footing, and every loyal man ordered—not begged—to do his level best to save not only himself, but the whole Empire from coming under the heel of the assassins now let loose upon the world. Our own house should be put in order. We ought to go down on our knees and pray God to give us another Cromwell who will send our Parliaments and our petty politicians to the rightabout, and with firm and resolute hand do the work before our Empire as it ought to be done.

The enemy in our midst should be dealt with. There should be no shaking hands with a German whilst this war is going on. The hand of every German is stained with blood—the blood of our own kindred of innocent women and children. Until these stains are removed—if they can be—and expiation made, I hold no man true to the call of humanity who takes the hands of a German in his.

Mr. Colquhoun, M.L.A., and Messrs. Keirle, Walker, and Gilchrist also spoke.

STOREMEN'S STRIKE.

WOOL SALES DISCONTINUED.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

The strike of 700 members of the Federated Storemen and Packers' Union was continued to-day, and no attempt was made by either side to settle the trouble. In the afternoon about 300 members of the Carters and Drivers' Union, under instructions from their union, declined to handle grain, tallow, wool, skin, or hides and the result was that large consignments of goods were left on the wharfs, railway station, and at other depots. The whole of the 32 stores in Melbourne are closed. About 50 tally clerks, members of the Federated Clerks' Union, who are employed on the wharfs, decided that no work would be performed in connection with any goods intended for grain or wool stores that might arrive by steamer. The other unions directly affected by the strike are the Federated Meat Industry Employees, the Waterside Workers, Tanners and Leather Dressers, Victorian Railway Employees, Textile Workers and the Fellmongers. Should the strike continue many of the members of these unions will be thrown out of employment, owing to skins, hides, and wool lying in various stores. A shortage of material for the fellmongers would be serious at the present time, as large quantities of leather are now required to equip the members of the expeditionary forces. One serious result of the strike is the suspension of the wool sales in Melbourne and Geelong, which was decided on to-day.

STATE SESSION.

WHEAT SCHEME.

ESTIMATES CONSIDERED.

In the Legislative Assembly last night the Premier made an important announcement regarding the comparative failure of the recent recruiting campaign, which is reported in another column. The House further considered the Estimates, those of the Department of Agriculture being first dealt with.

WHEAT ESTIMATE.

The Minister for Agriculture stated in reply to Mr. Fitzpatrick that, as a result of the recent dry spell, the official estimate of the wheat yield for the State had been reduced by 5,000,000 bushels.

PORTLAND STRIKE.

Mr. Fitzpatrick asked the Minister for Labour and Industry whether he was doing anything to terminate the strike that was in full swing at Portland, which, as a result, was at a standstill, both industrially and commercially.

Mr. Estell said that, as far as his department was concerned, it had done all it possibly could to try to get a conference between the parties, so as to bring about a settlement of the dispute. (Opposition laughter.)

Mr. Wade: You always do all you can, and without result.

Mr. Estell said that, as to taking any action against the men, he did not propose to take any at the present time, but the department was doing all it could to bring about an amicable settlement.

STATE AS LANDLORD.

Mr. Cochran asked Mr. Cann whether he would, as representing the Government, inform the Housing Board that the harassing of workers occupying Government premises on The Rocks, who were in arrears of rent, should cease immediately. He cited the case of a worker who had occupied "a palatial hovel" for 20 years, and who, because he was in arrears £9, which had slowly accumulated during the war, had been given peremptory notice to quit on Monday next.

Mr. Cann: I am not aware, and I cannot undertake to give peremptory orders that Crown tenants are not to pay rent.

Mr. Cochran (ironically): Chuck them all out.

Mr. Cann: We cannot possibly administer the Housing Board scheme or the The Rocks resumed area unless the tenants who occupy Crown tenements are prepared to pay rent like anybody else.

UNEMPLOYED IN SYDNEY.

Mr. Cochran asked the Minister for Works if he would give orders that the large number of unemployed men in Sydney should get temporary employment to tide them over the Christmas season.

Mr. Cann, in reply, said that he would be pleased to double the work in his department to help unemployment, but he doubted if there were many out of work, because he had had a report from the Department of Labour and Industry to the effect that there was a scarcity of labour in Sydney.

WHEAT HANDLING SCHEME.

Questioned by Mr. Waddell regarding the arrangements in connection with the wheat handling scheme, the Minister for Agriculture said that he had had the whole of the millers represented at a conference during the day. The details were not complete, but to-morrow he thought that almost every miller in New South Wales would be a Government agent.

GUARANTEED PRICE OF WHEAT.

The Minister for Agriculture, in reply to Mr. Haynes, said that the guaranteed price of 4s was for wheat at country stations. In the wheat acquisition each State would fix its own standard.

EXPERIMENTAL FARMS.

In answer to a question by Mr. Haynes, the Minister for Agriculture said that 19 experimental farms, with a total area of 27,117 acres, had been established by the Government. The area of the Nyngan Demonstration Farm was 6428 acres.

AN ABSCONDING GERMAN.

Mr. Haynes asked if any further information had been obtained regarding the German named Strauss who had absconded from his bail of £2000, which was granted by a magistrate in Sydney.

The Attorney-General pointed out that the matter was entirely in the hands of the Federal authorities.

SOLDIER LEGISLATORS' MEMORIAL.

It was announced that the permanent memorial to Lieut.-Colonel George Frederick Braund, V.D., and Sergeant Edward Rennix Larkin would be unveiled in the House at 11.30 a.m. on Tuesday next.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE.

ADMINISTRATION CRITICISM.

In committee Mr. Perry opened the debate on the estimates for the Department of Agriculture—total £244,567.

Mr. Perry criticised departmental policy regarding dairy farming, incidentally remarking that, in this and other industries, the Government had not stood by the producers. The man on the land received very little consideration. The officers and experts of the department had too much power, and too much attention was given to what appeared in the newspapers. The men who had been writing about butter and wheat in the "Sydney Morning Herald" must be rank socialists. (Laughter.) He could not understand how the "Herald" allowed such articles to appear. The writers, it seemed to him, knew as little about what they were writing about as the average member of Parliament knew what he was talking about. (Laughter.) He was not referring to himself. (Renewed laughter.)

Mr. Mark Morton complained that the department had gone to great expense, introducing an inferior brand of cattle into the State farms.

Mr. Ball, in dealing with the wheat acquisition scheme, said the Government was hand in hand with a big combine, and the farmers knew it. He contended that the shipping charges were excessive. It was for the Minister to show how the shipping charges were made up—charges which would put about £150,000 into the pockets of the combine. If the Government exported 40,000,000 bushels at 3½d per bushel rate the profits would amount to more than £200,000. The shipping agents would be paid almost as much as the Railway Commissioners. In these profits the farmers would have no share.

Mr. Cusack commended the wheat scheme as an excellent one.

Mr. Haynes contended that the farmers would be justified in refusing to surrender their wheat to a gigantic combine with which the Government was in league. The farmers should stick to their guns and refuse to pay more than 2d a bushel for shipping wheat to the English market.

The Minister for Agriculture (Mr. Grahame) said that the interests of the farmers were well covered under the agreement with the Government. The whole responsibility rested on the shipping agent from the time the farmer handed over the wheat until it was sold in London. That being so, the charge of 3½d per bushel was not excessive. If the Government scheme had not been brought forward the farmers would have been unable on January 1 to get more than 2s per bushel for their wheat. The first instalment it was proposed to pay the farmer was more than the total price the farmers got in years past. The Government had enough wheat secured to carry them on till March, and he did not care whether the farmers struck or not. It was admitted by leading farmers that if the Government had not evolved this scheme the farmers would have been in the hands of the four big buying firms after January 1.

"As far as the Government's scheme is concerned," said Mr. Grahame, "it will be necessary for the farmers who want to come in to make application to the Government to take the opportunity to come in. We have as much wheat as the railways can ship during the first two months of the year, and if the farmers do not now make application they cannot expect the Government to give them any other application."

The vote was agreed to.

The vote, Executive and Legislative, £32,753 was agreed to without debate.

The proposed vote, £1,378,258, Chief Secretary and Minister for Public Health, was debated.

Mr. J. Storey complained that police in certain districts were not given regular beats to patrol, irregularity in this regard not being in the interests of crime suppression. The Minister, Mr. Black, said that 170 constables had gone to the front, detracting from the efficiency of the force, and one of the first things he did was to stop the granting of leave for this purpose, as all the best single constables were enlisting. The places of those who had gone to the front had not been filled.

The hospital vote was under discussion at an early hour this morning.

LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

LIQUOR BILL.

Mr. Robson presented petitions from the Salvation Army, from the Rev. Henry Howard, of West Maitland, and members of the Methodist Church, West Maitland, in favour of the closing of hotels at an earlier hour than 10 p.m.

PUBLIC SERVICE (TEMPORARY OFFICERS) BILL.

This bill was read the third time.

DARLING HARBOUR-ROZELLE-GLEBE DEVIATION.

In reply to Sir Allen Taylor, the Vice-President of the Executive Council said that the question of providing funds for the last connecting link in the above railway work would be considered in connection with the Loan Estimates. The Commissioner for Railways estimated that the work would take about two years to complete.

DAIRY INDUSTRY BILL.

This bill was passed through committee, and the third reading was fixed for Tuesday next.

EIGHT HOURS BILL.

The Vice-President of the Executive Council, in moving the second reading of this bill, said it involved a social question of the greatest magnitude. It was one which would affect a large number of workers. The general deterioration of the race was inevitable in the case of long hours, as was seen in the East. He proposed to show that if the provisions of the bill were passed no loss would accrue to any industry in the State, nor would it lead to any diminutions of our products. That had, he believed been already the experience of certain manufacturers of the State. There was little doubt that socially the change in the law would be an advantage to a large section of the working classes, who would have greater opportunities for mental improvement, and the enjoyment of domestic happiness in their own homes. It would also ensure an improvement in the health of the workers, and furnish better results to their employers, while there was no reason to fear that the experiment would fail from an economic point of view. They had also to consider the matter from another point of view, and that was the preservation and longevity of human life. This consideration, in the face of the present terrible war, was not one to be overlooked. (Hear, hear.)

Continuing his advocacy of the measure, Mr. Fitzgerald said a universal eight-hours' day was one of the dreams of the Chartists, and it had been the ideal of organised industry ever since. The principle would operate in the interests of the employers as much as the employees, because it gave a more efficient and more contented service.

The debate was adjourned till next week.

LIQUOR AMENDMENT BILL.

LICENSED VICTUALLERS NOT TO BLAME.

The Vice-President, Mr. Fitzgerald, moved the second reading of the Liquor Amendment Bill. He said that so far as public opinion had been ascertained, it was opposed to any change in the direction of still further restricting the sale of alcoholic liquor. In saying this he was referring to the votes polled in connection with the local option ballots. "I have come under criticism in the press," he said, "because of the answer I gave to the representatives of the liquor trades that no Parliament should hastily interfere with interests which had been created under Acts of Parliament. These people have come in and invested their money in the same way as is done in any other enterprise. The laws were passed, and under those laws these people have invested their money. I say that it is not the laws, but the system which is wrong, because under the system which has grown up, we have divorced the true functions of the licensed victuallers from one another. This system has made of the hotels purely drinking houses. But there is the law and the system, and I need hardly remind honourable members that the industry which has grown up is enormously valuable."

Mr. Fitzgerald quoted figures to show that the Customs and Excise duties for New South Wales for 1914 had produced a revenue of £1,928,000, just on two millions sterling. The mean population of the State was estimated at 1,862,000, so that this revenue equalled about 24s per head of the population. "Some persons," he went on, "think it is quite open to them to advocate that the trade should be stopped altogether. I don't agree with them. Like most normal men, I like a glass of alcoholic liquor. I am very fond of a glass of beer, but I am sorry that one cannot purchase here beer of the same low alcoholic strength as in Europe. The people of this country injure themselves by drinking liquors of too high a percentage of alcohol. In France, Germany, Italy, and Japan, people drink with just as much pleasure as they do here. Yet the beer brewed there has a strength of but 2¼ per cent., which, I am informed is actually less than that contained in the ordinary stone bottle of ginger beer sold in this country. I have been backward and forward through Europe four times, and I have seen but three drunken men, and that was very late at night. Drunkenness in a public beer garden on the Continent, one never sees. I say that drunkenness is not the fault of those engaged in the trade, but the fault of our laws and our system, and we have no right to punish men and women who have invested their money in an industry which our laws have created.

"I know," he continued, "that the hue and cry is particularly strong just now, and that it has been intensified by the fact that soldiers in uniform have been about the streets in a state of intoxication. If shutting up the hotels holus bolus to-morrow would cure that I would be prepared to give it a vote. But I know that it won't. Shutting up the hotels will not do away with the desire of the citizens for alcohol. The only cure, I say, is to dispense beverages of a lower alcoholic strength. Why should the overwhelming temperate majority be penalised because a few are incapable of using alcohol in moderation? I say that the soldiers themselves are treated in such a way as to be forced into drunkenness. This miserable system of dry canteens in the camps broke down three or four years ago, and was reported against by the military authorities. I know that the hotelkeepers have done their utmost to try and prevent drunkenness occurring on their premises. But there are many ways of getting drunk beside standing at a bar. Therefore all the stigma that has been placed upon a law-abiding body of citizens is not deserved. We have diverted the liquor and the functions of the licensed victualler from what they were when they were a comfort to travellers. There is but small risk of drunkenness when liquor is taken with food. I am sure that if the extremists of both sides could get together, some method could be devised, without injustice to anybody, that would place us on a level of sobriety with the countries of Europe. I know that many noble men and noble women try to redeem the victims of the drink traffic. At the same time I think there is a great deal in the saying of Mr. Johnson, of America, that more drink because they are poor, than are poor because they drink. With regard to the soldiers, I do say that excesses could be cured if the foolish and fatuous system of having nothing but temperance drinks in the camps were done away with. There ought to be a wet canteen.

Mr. Pilcher: Why should the whole community be upset, because some soldiers get drunk? Why don't the military authorities see that they don't get drunk?

Mr. Fitzgerald: Precisely. But I say that the only solution of the whole trouble is to have a beer of much lower alcoholic strength.

On the motion of Mr. Robson, the debate was adjourned till next week.

ANTI-SHOOTING BILL.

PERTH, Thursday.

The Legislative Council to-day passed the Anti-Shooting Bill to operate to December, 1916.

SHOOTING ACCIDENT.

WAGGA, Thursday.

Private Bert Power, son of Mr. George Power, of Tarcutta-road, who is on short leave of absence, was out shooting in company with some friends a few miles from town. He was carrying a loaded gun at full cock under his arm, when he tripped, and the weapon exploded, the contents of the charge being received in the right foot. His friends conveyed him to Wagga hospital, where it was found necessary to amputate two toes.

ARMY NURSES' HOLIDAY FUND.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Amongst the many war needs to be considered, one of the foremost is a due consideration for that army of heroines, the war nurses, many of whom will be returning from time to time to recuperate their energies, nerves, and health, after their arduous duties in a trying climate. Most of these will doubtless be welcomed to their own homes, but there are others whose homes are too distant, or who require special treatment or climate; and who may be unwilling to be a charge on friends. A committee has been formed under the aegis of the Australasian Trained Nurses' Association to inaugurate a fund for the purpose of enabling returned army nurses to secure suitable holiday quarters for rest and recreation, and subscriptions are invited to this fund. Already a sum of £15 15s has been handed in to the treasurer, who will be glad to receive further contributions. The first donors were "A Manly Friend" £5 5s, Mrs. Blain £5 5s, and Dr. St. J. W. Dansey, £5 5s.

We are, etc., St. W. DANSEY, president A.T.N.A.; EDWIN B. GILES, hon. treasurer; B. F. CARTER, V. F. W. WILKINSON, joint hon. secretaries Nurses' Holiday Fund.

WAR FINANCE.

TAXATION VERSUS LOANS.

MR. HOLMAN'S VIEWS.

The fortnightly luncheon of the Millions Club was held at Baumann's Cafe yesterday, the president, Mr. A. Rickard, occupied the chair.

The chairman announced that a telegram had been sent to the Prime Minister (Mr. Hughes) applauding the decision to raise an additional force for active service.

The Premier (Mr. Holman) was unable to attend. He submitted, however, a memorandum to the council, in which he dealt with the Australian financial problem arising out of the war. He stated that it divided itself into two parts:—(1) The problem as it affected the general community; and (2) as it affected the Government. The question before the general community was that of re-establishing balances when the exports of Australia were largely diminished. The problem before the Government—the Federal and the State Governments—was that of financing the war and meeting special war expenditure. War expenditure must be met either out of increased taxation, or out of loans. All considerations of sound finance united in urging that as large a share as possible should be met from increased taxation, and as little as possible from loans. Looked at with the eye of economic analysis, the ultimate purpose of all war finance was to take workmen (with the capital necessary for their effective employment) out of certain industries, where they had been making articles of consumption for a peaceful community, and to transfer them into other industries, where they would make munitions and other stores for warlike purposes.

"If the financier calls for new supplies of warlike commodities to an amount indicated by a given sum," the memorandum continued, "and at the same time the demand for the commodities of peace is diminished by the same sum, productive activity will adjust itself to the altered conditions by the transfer of labour and capital. If, however, the financier sets up the new demand for warlike commodities, but the old demand for peaceful commodities remains undiminished, there is then a competition between the two. Neither can be really satisfied by the productive capacity of the nation. A situation occurs in which prices rise and rise feverishly. Large increases of activity occur for a while, to be followed by a corresponding reaction when the fictitious and temporary character of the additional demand has had time to manifest itself. These two alternative courses, in my opinion, represent the effect of (1) attempting to meet unprecedented war expenditure out of additional taxation; and (2) attempting to meet it out of loans. An income tax of £100 a year, taken out of the pocket of a citizen necessarily means that the citizen's power to spend on the ordinary commodities is to that extent decreased. At the same moment the spending power of the Government on warlike necessities is to that extent increased. The one exactly balances the other. There is no artificial inflation of purchasing power. There is consequently no derangement of prices, no crisis, and no subsequent reaction or collapse.

"To raise £100 of loan money, with which to purchase shot and shell, leaving each citizen for the moment in undisturbed control of the purchasing power which he previously exercised, is to leave the individual citizen still demanding boots, hats, etc., to be supplied by the ordinary productive activities of the community, whilst the Government, in addition, demands £100 worth of warlike stores. It will be said that the £100 loan, being obtained from citizens, is itself a diminution of their purchasing power. This, however, is not so. A Government loan is not obtained from that portion of the income of citizens which they spend ordinarily upon their requirements, but from that portion which ordinarily would be invested in enhancing production, that is to say, that portion which is saved and set aside as part of the savings of the community, to become the capital of the community.

"To pay for war expenditure out of loan money is thus to eat up the capital of the community. To pay for it out of taxation is, as far as possible, to spend only the income of the community. These it seems to me are the economic principles which must guide all considerations of war finance. That they cannot be applied rigidly is obvious. That both loans and taxation must be resorted to is equally obvious. But it cannot be too definitely insisted upon that the expenditure of loan money upon gunpowder is a financial operation of an entirely different character to that of investing loan money in railways or other financially reproductive public works.

"No economies of the individual are of any value except those which are compensated for by corresponding expenditure on the part of the Government. The enforced economy caused by taxation is thus compensated for necessarily. Voluntary economies on the part of the individual, which represent a diminution of his own demand, may be accompanied by a corresponding increase of demand for warlike stores if the capital accumulated by his economy is supplied on loan to the Government. But if the citizen spends less and the Government does not spend more, there is merely a shrinkage in the general body of demand, which adds the evil of partial employment to the other evils which war carries in its train.

"I have dealt in this memorandum in an entirely abstract way with the propositions I have set forth. But it appears to me that concrete illustrations for all of them can be found amongst our own experience during the war."

The Attorney-General (Mr. Hall) gave a short resume of the expenditure entailed by the war, and spoke in an optimistic vein of Australia's resources.

Mr. T. Waddell, M.L.A., gave an interesting account of the effect of the issuing of paper money, and cited examples of the disastrous result of the too lavish national use of the "note."

Mr. Meredith Atkinson also dealt with the subject of paper money.

ROUTE MARCHES.

The Acting Commandant has made available the services of Staff-Sergeant-Major Matthews, of the Narrabri Camp, as drill instructor for the march from the northwest. Sergeant-Major Lee, of the Gilgandra march, will act as recruiting campaigner. His particular duty will be to organise and address recruiting rallies along the line of march. Mr. R. Cameron, president of the Namoi Shire Council, will accompany the march as honorary captain. It is proposed to adopt a distinctive badge for the men from the northwest.

The Waratahs went into camp at the Nowra Showground to-day. Captain Blow is in charge, and 19 recruits were enrolled. Lieut. Hordern and Sergt.-Major Anderson are also in attendance.

The Commandant states that recruits taking part in route marches will be paid from the time they are accepted, provided they pass as medically fit on arrival at and before admission to Liverpool.

RIFLE RESERVE THOUSAND.

The proposal to raise a thousand recruits from the rifle reserve companies, which was put forward by Mr. Carmichael, has had a good kick-off. While the first recruit came from Burwood, the Manly rifle reserve has the distinction of being the first company to guarantee a section of 16 men. Following upon this the Metropolitan Rifle Club, whose headquarters are at Rawson-chambers, Rawson-place, has taken up the scheme with enthusiasm, and has promised to raise a platoon of four sections, that is, 64 men. The Metropolitan Rifle Club is one of the most complete organisations in the movement, and at a special meeting of the committee held last night, it was agreed to co-operate to the utmost in the rifle reserve thousand. If the defence authorities are prepared to take the rifle reserve thousand over as a battalion, the Metropolitan Rifle Club has undertaken to assist in providing supernumeraries such as stretcher-bearers, ambulance men, etc. Mr. Carmichael stated last night that every captain and secretary of the metropolitan clubs had been invited to attend a meeting early next week so that the campaign might be carried on with the assistance of the men most closely in touch with the movement. The following week he intended taking up the campaign in the country.

HIGH COMMISSIONER.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

Mr. Fisher, the High Commissioner Designate, leaves for London by the Omrah on December 22 to take up his duties as High Commissioner in succession to Sir George Reid, whose retirement will take place about a fortnight before Mr. Fisher's arrival. It is understood that Mr. Fisher is only receiving the salary attaching to the post, which is at the rate of £3000 a year, and that the allowance for representation expenses, which is £2000 a year, will not start until he takes up his duties in London.

PARLIAMENT.

CHRISTMAS ADJOURNMENT.

The State Labour party is desirous of pushing on with its programme, and there is consequently to be no prorogation after the two Houses do what work they can this year.

The Houses will be asked by the Government to engage in extra sittings from next week till the middle of December, with a view to rising on December 16. The Government proposes then to adjourn the Houses till early in March. The effect of the Houses being adjourned to a particular day takes it practically out of the hands of the Government to extend the recess as long as it might think fit. The invariable practice has been for a Government to prorogue Parliament, and by proclamations from time to time to extend the recess as it thought proper. Caucus has, however, set its face against this practice, and has insisted on the Houses being merely adjourned, and this course the Government has agreed to.

Ever since the war broke out there has been difference amongst members of the caucus as to whether contentious legislation should be proceeded with, but latterly the section in favour of concentrating the Governmental energies of the State upon war problems only has been overborne by the more clamant section.

LATE CAPT. S. L. LUCAS-TOOTH.

PARTICULARS OF THE WILL.

Probate of the will of the late Captain Selwyn Lucas Lucas-Tooth, of the 3rd Battalion of the Royal Lancashire Fusiliers, who was killed in action at Ypres, in Belgium, on October 20, 1914, was granted in England on September 14 last to his only surviving brother, Sir Archibald Leonard Lucas Lucas-Tooth, Baronet, and to Mr. David Geddie, accountant in the London office of the Bank of New South Wales, the executors and trustees.

Yesterday a reseal was granted by the New South Wales Registrar of Probates to Mr. George J. Cohen, of Messrs. David Cohen and Co., Ltd., of Sydney, and to Mr. H. F. Maxwell, of Messrs. McCarthy and Maxwell, solicitors, of Sydney, under a power of attorney from the executors.

By his last will, executed on March 16, 1909, deceased, after a bequest of his jewellery and other personal effects to his wife, Everild Blanche Marion Lucas-Tooth, bequeathed all his real estate, and the residue of his personal estate, to his trustees upon trust, as to all real estate given to him by his father, Sir Robert Lucas Lucas-Tooth (since deceased), for the person who should, at the testator's death, be entitled to the Baronetcy. As to the residue of his estate, the trustees are in their discretion to sell and convert, and, after payment of his funeral expenses and debts, etc., and a legacy of £100 to each of his executors, to invest the balance as directed. In case his residuary estate should not exceed in value the sum of £100,000, the trustees are directed to pay the income of a moiety thereof to his wife during her life, and after her death for all his children who, being sons, attain the age of 21 years, or being daughters, attain that age or marry under that age; and if no child of his should live to attain a vested interest in such moiety, then to the person holding the baronetcy, and to pay the income of the other moiety to his wife as long as she should remain unmarried, and after her death or second marriage upon similar trusts as were declared regarding the first-named moiety.

In case the residuary estate should exceed in value the sum of £100,000, deceased directed the trustees to retain investments and securities to that value, and to hold the same to the extent of £50,000 upon the trusts concerning the first moiety in case it did not exceed in value the sum of £100,000, and to the extent of the other £50,000 upon the trusts concerning the other moiety in case it did not exceed in value the sum of £100,000, and to hold any surplus over and above £100,000 upon trust for the person who should at his death be entitled to the baronetcy.

The net value of the New South Wales estate is sworn at £167,129 15s 9d, of which £43,039 1s 6d represents realty, and £93,965 19s 6d shares in public companies, chiefly in Tooth and Company, Limited, and the Colonial Sugar Refining Co., Limited. The net value of the English estate was sworn at £2751 12s 8d.

Deceased left a widow and a daughter, who is now six years of age.

BUTCHERS' CARTS.

COMPETITION QUESTION.

At a recent deputation to the Chief Secretary and Minister for Public Health by the Master Butchers' Association, exception was taken to the running of "cutting carts" in the metropolitan area by certain butchers, on the grounds that there were sufficient retail shops to supply all consumers and that the meat was handled under conditions that would not be tolerated in the shops, and was exposed to contamination by flies and dust.

Mr. Black is in receipt of a report from the Director-General of Public Health, which shows that as a result of inspections made by Pure Food officers in no less than 20 municipalities the carts were found to be clean and satisfactory, and that the meat was kept practically free from flies and dust. In the 20 municipalities visited 30 carts were supplying over 2000 customers in sparsely populated areas, and as in these areas many homes were over two miles distant from the nearest butcher's shop, the carts were found to be a great convenience.

CIVIL AMBULANCE.

The annual meeting of the Civil Ambulance and Transport Corps was held in the rooms of the British Medical Association last night, the president, Sir Thomas Anderson Stuart, being in the chair.

The work of the ambulance men during the year shows an increase over that of 1914, the number of calls received being 3021, and the total mileage covered in connection with these was 41,402 miles, an increase of 317 cases and 1502 miles.

Financially the corps has had a bad year, and had it not been for the grant of £500 from the Government in May the work would have been at a standstill. There is a deficit of £729 12s 6d for the year, and the committee hopes that the Government will approve of an amount being placed on the estimates to enable the work to be carried on.

BREAD MONOPOLY.

MR. HALL'S BILL.

A bill to create a Government bread monopoly in the metropolitan area, that is, from Sydney to Parramatta, will shortly be submitted by Mr. Hall for the consideration of the State Labour Caucus. Before the Attorney-General's measure reaches caucus, however, it will pass through the crucible of an inquiry by a special committee appointed by the party to report to a meeting on its main features.

The special committee which will deal with the bill is to give particular attention to the financial and constitutional aspects of it. Mr. Hall proposes that thirty of the bakery businesses with large runs should be resumed, compensation to be paid as subsequently determined. The cost of resuming these large private concerns, equipping a large central establishment, and providing a fleet of motor lorries, is put down roughly at £400,000. The committee which has been appointed has been empowered to make any investigations it deems desirable so as to enable it to advise the caucus whether Mr. Hall's estimate of the cost of the whole undertaking has been fairly estimated.

The constitutional side of the committee's inquiries will involve the question of the fate of the smaller bakery businesses that are not resumed. The bill will provide that they be not interfered with at present. It has been represented to the several meetings at which the scheme was discussed that the big State bakery will be able to undersell private bakers to the extent of a penny per 2lb loaf, and it will only be a matter of time therefore before the small concerns are wiped out. The bill will contain provisions aimed at protecting the State bakery from competition beyond what already may exist at the time it begins operations. The big bakers that it is proposed to buy out will be bound not to engage further in the same trade within the metropolitan area, and, further, the bill will contain a clause making it illegal for any more bakeries to be established to come into business conflict with the Government scheme. It is the provisions of this prohibitive character that the committee will consider, with a view to deciding whether they are within the competence of the State legislature to enact, especially now that certain trade and commerce powers are proposed to be transferred to the Commonwealth. The bearing of the Transfer of Powers Bill on the matter will be dealt with by the committee.

MR. GARDINER.

NEWCASTLE, Thursday.

Mr. A. R. Gardiner, member for Newcastle, has received further support in the stand which he took in Parliament House last Friday morning. The electorate branch of the Political Labour League has passed the following resolutions.

"That this meeting of the Newcastle P.L.L. desires to record our admiration and appreciation of the action of Mr. A. R. Gardiner, M.P., in bringing under the notice of Parliament and the people of the State the difference in the treatment meted out to highly and poorly paid employees in the Public Service. We recognise he is one of the mouthpieces of the public, and must act conscientiously in the best interests of the State. We deprecate the action of the Premier in giving the lie to Mr. Gardiner and threatening to have him expelled from the party.

"That this meeting pledges its support to Mr. Gardiner as long as he continues to voice and support the interests of the workers and adheres to the Labour platform."

The Federated Ironworkers' Union held a meeting last night, and passed a motion expressing confidence in Mr. A. R. Gardiner, M.L.A., and approving of the stand he took last week against the Premier.

COUNCIL UPHOLDS MEMBER'S ACTION.

The Mayor of Stockton, Alderman Ball, at the last meeting of the council, drew attention to the attack made by the Premier on Mr. Gardiner last week, and recommends that the council express their appreciation of Mr. Gardiner's conduct. The council then passed the following motion:—

"That this council express to Mr. Gardiner, M.P., our highest appreciation of his action in the matter recently before Parliament, and our sympathy with him in the unwarranted attack made upon him by the Premier, and to assure him of our continued confidence in him, and also our strong support in doing his duty."

SYDNEY MADRIGAL SOCIETY

The Sydney Madrigal and Chamber Music Society celebrated in rich-throated melody the last concert of their season at the Conservatorium Hall last night, when the singers faced their task with so much zest, and the quartet players were in such fine cue, that an evening of charmful gaiety resulted. This impression was due to the latter part of the programme, beginning with Orlando di Lasso's merrily tender "Matona, Lovely Maiden," which, after three centuries, possesses an archly tender charm as personal to all young lovers as if it had been written yesterday! The choir came up to every expectation under Mr. W. Arundel Orchard's baton, and the soft staccato of their "Dong, dong, dong, derry, derry, dong," once more vastly caught the fancy of the audience, who insisted upon a repetition.

The new numbers included Bantock's "Awake, Awake," a finely rendered part-song, demanding a great deal of singing, and remarkable for the poignant solemnity of the musical treatment of the second strophe in contrast with the alert vigour of the first, which gladly hails the dawn. Brahms' "The Dirge of Darthula," upon the death of Colla's daughter, opening with a simple expression of sorrow, was in six-part harmony, which presented some wonderfully touching chords at the words "Never, oh, never," and, after a passing burst of sunshine at the allusions to spring, came once more within the shadow of a deeply-mourned mortality. A classic atmosphere pervaded this fine piece of music. Another addition to the repertoire was forthcoming in "Ye Nightingales, so Pleasant and so Gay" (Orlando di Lasso), characterised by the full and swelling harmonies with their fine modulations in which that old Italian master delighted. These were rolled out with tuneful resonance and well directed light and shade by the singers. Mr. Orchard repeated Elgar's "Deep in My Soul," an exceptionally difficult and lovely part-song, with a recurring theme for the basses with the effect of a solo, and the whole delivered with frequent pianissimos, in which the harmonies reached the ear like an intimate murmur.

The first chamber music piece was the Beethoven "Trio in C Minor for Violin, 'Cello, and Piano" (Op. 1, No. 3), very sympathetically rendered by Messrs. F. Mowat Carter, Bryce Carter, and Frank Hutchens. The infinite grace of the variations in the Andante, in which the happy conversation of the three instruments was spontaneously interchanged, and the captivating finale, in which the piano is repeatedly allotted a sparkling descending passage, should be especially mentioned. These artists were joined by Mr. S. Vost Janssen (viola) for the Lento and Finale of Dvorak's "Quartet in E flat major." The melting beauty of the opening theme for 'cello at once arrested attention at the hands of Mr. Bryce Carter, and it may be added that all concerned played with fine taste this genial music, winning recalls of overwhelming enthusiasm.

A new soprano, Millicent Jennings, an artist originally from Christchurch, New Zealand, but recently trained in London by Mme. Amy Sherwin, made a successful debut. The newcomer, who possesses a full soprano voice of "fruity" timbre, as some connoisseurs describe that quality, sang the old Italian air, "Star Vicino," and the aria "Do you know, my Sweet?" addressed by Mme. Butterfly to her child, followed by "The Lass with the Delicate Air" as encore. The artist still further improved her position with the audience in two dainty 18th century songs from the French, the Pastorelle "Aminte," and "Bergere Legere;" and then revealed a vein of quiet humour and a clear enunciation in the Somerset Folk Song, "Oh No, John," which was warmly encored. Miss Doris Easson was the accompanist.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT CLERKS.

The annual conference of the Local Government Clerks' Association was continued yesterday at the School of Arts. Mr. J. Garlick, officer in charge of local government, delivered an address on the law relating to town planning, and Mr. Meredith Atkinson dealt with the subject of "The War and the Citizen." Mr. J. L. Sutton dealt with wages boards and their application to municipal employees. Mr. A. C. Marshall spoke on the system of votes and cost of works. Time and wages sheets was handled by Mr. J. Glassop, while Mr. G. Davis gave advice in the "Modernisation of Methods." A paper read by Mr. C. M. Reeves on the "Development of Local Government" contained an interesting outline of the progress of municipal life in New South Wales since its introduction in the 'Forties.

The annual dinner of the association was held in the evening at Baumann's Cafe. Mr. J. G. Hinsby, president, was in the chair.

Mr. Mercer Hudson proposed "The State Parliament."

The Minister for Education (Mr. Griffith) said that the Government had decided that it would not be wise to introduce both the Local Government and Greater Sydney bills this session, but would put the Local Government bill through before the House adjourned, and in the last session Parliament would pass the Greater Sydney bill.

Mr. J. D. Fitzgerald, M.L.C., proposed the Clerks' Association, and Mr. Jonas responded.

Mr. Stevenson submitted "The Visitors."

Mr. Garlick, in reply, said that the association had year by year passed a resolution that clerks in office prior to 1907 should be given a certificate without examination. Up to the present the department had not acceded to the request, but Mr. Griffith intended to embody such a clause in the Local Government bill.

TEMPORARY COMMISSIONS.

Action is to be taken by the military authorities to replace all officers seconded from militia and senior cadet units by the appointment of applicants to temporary commissions for the duration of the war. In this connection, in addition to candidates who are eligible under existing regulations, persons who are over 40 but under 45 years of age may be recommended for such commissions if considered suitable, the age limit thus being increased by five years.

MEAT EXPORT.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

A deputation of Victoria meat exporting firms interviewed the Minister for Customs (Mr. Tudor) to-day and gave him an assurance of their willingness to sell the classes of meat which they desired to export to local wholesale butchers at the same prices at which it was placed f.o.b. ship.

The Minister informed the members of the deputation that if they were willing to comply with those conditions there was no objection to the export of the meat.

The deputation stated that it did not pay at present prices to buy for export, but as there was a small supply in cold storage permission was wanted to export it if necessary. It was admitted that, while the statement was made less than four weeks ago that there would probably be a minimum exportable surplus of 250,000 carcases up to a maximum of 500,000, it was now quite possible that there would not be an exportable surplus of 50,000.

BUTTER.

SHORTAGE THREATENED.

SERIOUS OUTLOOK.

New South Wales is face to face with another butter famine.

For weeks past there has been no rain on the North Coast, and bush fires have been raging throughout the dairying districts. Butter production has in consequence been seriously interfered with, and so great has been the falling off in the quantity coming forward that yesterday some Sussex-street agents were unable to fill their customers' requirements. One or two houses were short only a few boxes, but others were unable to supply more than 80 per cent. of their orders.

Should rain fall in the dairying districts during the next few days the position may be considerably relieved, but should the drought continue the outlook is extremely gloomy, as the other States are very little better situated as regards the output of butter than we are. In Victoria the demand far exceeds the supply, and only yesterday it was found necessary to advance quotations for the best brands to 145/ per cwt, a rise of 5/. Queensland, like parts of New South Wales, is suffering from a severe drought, and the Labour Government in power there has announced that the wholesale price of butter will to-day be increased 9/4 per cwt, thus making the value of the best brands 149/4 per cwt.

AN APPEAL CASE.

LONDON, Nov. 24.

The Judicial Committee of the Privy Council has reserved judgment in the case of the Union Insurance Society of Canton versus George Wills and Company, of Western Australia.

BOXING.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.

Sam McVea out-fought Sam Langford in a 10-rounds bout. Langford led only in two rounds.

COMMODITIES COMMISSION.

The Necessary Commodities Commission sat yesterday considering its judgment on the claims by farmers under the Wheat Acquisition Act.

Next Tuesday morning the Commission will consider applications for an increase in the price of butter.

The Attorney-General yesterday made available the following prices for plum puddings, recommended by the Necessary Commodities Commission:—

Plum puddings, in tins, manufactured in factories in Australasia:—In the counties of Cumberland and Northumberland: Wholesale—1lb size, 14/6 per doz.; 2lb size, 22/3 per doz.; 3lb size, 37/9 per doz. Retail—1lb size, 1/6 each; 2lb size, 2/2 each, 3lb size, 3/7 each. In other sizes than those mentioned, at the rate of 1/1 per lb. Outside the counties of Cumberland and Northumberland—The above prices, with actual cost of carriage added.

MISS ALICE NAYLER'S CONCERT.

An invitation vocal recital was given by Miss Alice Nayler before a large audience at St. James's Hall last night. Miss Nayler is a soprano from the studio of Madame Christian. Perhaps her best effort was Arthur Cognard's "Ariadne's Lament," which she rendered in fine style. Mr. Malcolm M'Eachern was at his best in his initial effort in the second half of the programme, Lohr's "Pagan." Mr. M'Eachern was equally enjoyable in several humorous solos. Other assisting artists were students of the Garcia School of Music, who rendered Delibes' "The Wood Nymphs" and Macfarren's "You Stole My Love" with taste. Mr. W. J. Grieves (violinist) skilfully played Goldmark's "Air." One and all the artists were encored. Mr. W. H. Fletcher was the accompanist.

LATE SHIPPING.

The steamer Kulambangra, which arrived from the Solomon Islands yesterday, brought 335 tons of copra, 11 tons of ivory nuts, 16 tons of shell, and 150 bunches of bananas.

Atua, s (Union Co.), left Moum at 6.30 a.m. yesterday for Sydney.

MONETARY AND COMMERCIAL.

STOCKS AND SHARES.

A fair amount of business was transacted yesterday at varying values. Most of the sales were booked at unaltered rates. In four instances the transactions were slightly firmer, but in three cases fractional declines were recorded.

The variations in values were as follows:—

RISE.		FALL.
War Loan	5/	N.S.W. Fresh Food and Ice	/3
Howard Smith (ord.)	/3	Great Williams	/6
Mick Simmons	/3	Bank of Australasia	10/
Bank of N.S.W.	5/

STOCK EXCHANGE SALES.

The following sales were reported:—

Morning: Bank of Australasia, £111/10/; Australian Bank of Commerce shares, 11/9; J. D. Williams, 10/9; Mick Simmons, 21/; Howard Smith (ord.), 25/6; Newcastle Gas "A," 50/.

Noon: Bank of New South Wales, £38/10/; Mercantile Mutual, 20/; Colonial Sugar (Fiji and New Zealand), £21; British Tobacco, 35/.

Afternoon: New South Wales Fresh Food and Ice, 22/6; Henry Jones, 22/; 4½ per cent. War Loan, £101 5/.

INTERSTATE EXCHANGES.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

To-day's sales were: War Bonds, £101 5/; Goldsbrough Mort, [illegible]; Dunlop Rubber, [illegible]; Sydney Ice, ex rights (paid lots), [illegible]; Broken Hill South Dev., £10 10/.

FINANCIAL.

STATE SAVINGS BANKS OF AUSTRALIA.

The Commissioners of the Government Savings Bank of New South Wales, Moore-street, Sydney, have supplied us with the following figures of the State Savings Banks of the Commonwealth for the month of October, 1915. They point out that the figures do not include the business of the Savings Bank Department of the Commonwealth Bank.

STATEMENT FOR THE MONTH OF OCTOBER, 1915.

Deposits	£4,808,500
Payments	4,679,027
Increase for month	£129,473
Depositors' balance at October 31	£82,768,008
Accounts opened	28,391
Accounts closed	24,096
	£4,295
No. of depositors at October 31	2,018,223

WAR LOAN INSTALMENT.

"Modest Investor" makes a good point, as follows:—

Sir,—May I ask you to draw attention to an annoying little matter connected with the payment of the final instalment in the Federal war loan. The date for this payment has been fixed for November 30, and non-payment on that date carries liability to forfeiture of previous payment. Those modest investors who find it necessary to draw money from the Federal Savings Bank to make their payment will have to make their withdrawals on November 30, thereby sacrificing one month's interest, interest only being added on the first of each month. Upon inquiry I was told that there was no straight way out of this little matter, but one suggestion was made that the savings bank book, with an order to pay, should be handed into the loan office on November 30, too late to be collected that night. Another, that payment of the instalment should not be made until December 1, when they might be let off with payment of one day's interest. Should such small subterfuges be necessary in dealing with a Government, or, indeed, with any reputable institution?

CO-OPERATIVE ASSURANCE COMPANY.

The fourth annual meeting of the above company was held yesterday, Mr. G. Mason Allard presiding, and Dr. Walter R. Graham being present, together with the acting general secretary (Mr. T. H. Hicks) and a considerable number of shareholders. An apology was received from Mr. George S. Littlejohn.

The chairman moved the adoption of the report and balance-sheet, which was seconded by the managing director, Mr. J. S. Inch, and unanimously adopted. Messrs. G. Mason Allard and J. T. Ralston, the retiring directors, were re-elected. Messrs. F. J. Smith and Johnson, the retiring auditors, were also re-elected.

"SECURED" CREDITOR.

"A.B.C." (Bathurst) writes:—

Sir,—I shall be glad if you will let me know what creditors are secured creditors in respect to the returns required to be filled up when lodging application for bankruptcy by debtor.

Under the Bankruptcy Act a "secured" creditor is defined as "a person holding a mortgage, charge, or lien on the property of the debtor, or any part thereof."

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

The wool sales closed yesterday, with prices at the best rates of the season, with competition general and very keen.

Wool submitted amounted to 7785 bales, and sales, including private transaction, numbered 8650 bales.

FEDERAL INCOME TAX.

STATE STOCKS.

Puzzled asks:—

A resident in Australia holds some State Government stocks in England. These stocks are inscribed at Bank of England, were bought or subscribed in England, were originally issued "free of local taxation." The income is paid in England; it necessarily remains and is used in England for English purposes; it pays English income tax; it has not come to Australia. This income, being drawn and used in England, and never received here, is it subject to Federal income tax? If it is, the doubled-banked taxation will be so heavy that the stocks will have to be sold and proceeds placed in English securities clear of Australian taxes. Has not the fact that these loans were originally issued in London "free of local taxation" some bearing on this point?

If the resident returns to England to live, he will certainly not be liable to pay Federal tax, any more than do the thousands of English holders of these stocks.

A RECENT PARTNERSHIP.

Furniture puts a case thus:—

Commenced partnership in May, 1915, and registered same June 1, 1915. No record of work in progress or stock in hand on June 30, so that it would be impossible to say exactly how we stood on that date. A balance-sheet is being prepared for the six months ended October, 1915. Could this be utilised in making a return, covering the period up to June 30?

Send in a return based on balance-sheet for six months.

TRUSTEE OF TWO ESTATES.

Wandella writes:—

I am trustee of two estates (those of the father and mother of the two beneficiaries who take equally). Whose joint incomes amount to about £190 annually, and the income from neither estate reaches £156. (1) Have I to return the income either jointly or separately? (2) The total income of neither beneficiary reaches £156, have they to make returns? The beneficiaries are in England, and have been for upwards of two and a half years, but are expected to return after the war. [illegible] their absence from the Commonwealth make any difference?

(1) As trustee you make two returns, one for each estate separately. (2) the beneficiaries or their representatives must make returns, as they [illegible], and pay tax on the whole of their income.

SALE OF BUSINESS.

R.M. declares:—

(a) A business is sold and owner makes a profit on the sale. Is this amount of profit entered under part "B," second item, or under which heading should it appear?

(b) May commission paid an agent for the sale be deducted under part "B," deduction No. 8.

(1) The profit is an accretion of capital, and is not included in income. (2) Necessarily the commission does not appear as a deduction.

SUPPORTING A STEP-SON.

A subscriber wants to know:—

Am I entitled to a deduction of £13 for one step-son under 16 years of age whom I have to support?

Yes.

MISCELLANEOUS.

R.C.D.—A return should be furnished. As your wife owns the house no allowance on that account is included in your return.

W. McL. (Marrickville).—You should furnish a return.

British.—You do not include the interest of your daughters' money.

Puzzled (Glebe), also Doubtful, Engineer, and G. R. M.—No return is required.

COMMERCIAL.

THE MARKETS.

The expected increase in the price of guttering, ridging, and downpiping was made yesterday, following on additions to the price of plain galvanised iron. The increase in the subsidiary lines is a little over 6 per cent., the discount off list being reduced from 22½ per cent. to 17½ per cent. A fair amount of business was done in galvanised iron, the major portion of it speculative. The storekeepers are watching the spelter market, and are still laying in stocks of all galvanised material, believing that still higher rates will rule. Fuses generally were higher, while blasting powder sold at /9. Bar iron was up a £1 a ton, and shoeing iron was also advanced by the same amount. For ton lots of wire nails 7½ per cent. on list was quoted, and for less 10 per cent. Australian cement was not quoted. Imported brands were worth 21/ to 22/, according to quantity.

Following a reduction in the price of spot pipes amounting to £1 per ton, private cables stated that Blundell Spence's linseed oil had been reduced a ½d a gallon in all positions, prompt shipment selling at 2/8 naked, f.o.b., December shipment 2/8½, and January to April 2/9½. Whitelead was on a satisfactory basis, as far as the importers were concerned, Champion's in cwt packages selling at £49/10/. Turpentine was firm, Pinetree being obtainable at 3/10 and Pratt's at 3/11. Parcels of the former were worth 3/9. Considering the small amount of building in progress, a fair business was done in paints.

The grocery market was much hampered by the latest announcement of the Necessary Commodities Commission, that all alterations in price must be given notice amounting to seven days. Australian currants were quite out of first hands, and there were few in second hands. Some importation of Greek currants was reported. Sales of imported lots equal to three-crown were made at /8 net and at /8½ ordinary terms. Lexias and sultanas were in fair supply at the prices which were made in January, and which came into force in April. A Gazette notice with regard to the price of plum puddings is expected to-day. Tref. sardines were nominally at 11/. Practically, they were off the market. All English, Norwegian, and French fish were scarce. Eastern produce was steady at late rates.

There was again no movement in jute fabrics. Cornsacks in all positions were available at 8/1½ net to rails. There was a small inquiry for branbags at from 7/9 to 7/10 net. Woolpacks were nominally quoted at 3/ net.

THE PRICE OF TEA.

"Expert" writes:—

Referring to the reference in your paper re the increased cost of living, it seems to me that the Necessary Commodities Commission do not protect the public against the storekeeper. Take tea as an example. The Commission has lately been inquiring why the wholesale price of tea should not be reduced. I contend the wholesale price of proprietary brands is not the vital question. What ought to be done is to fix the profit of the storekeeper. A grocer can pay 10d per lb for tea in bulk, and sell it for 2/, or any price he likes to charge. Consequently the grocer pushes his own tea first; but if customers demand a proprietary line he pushes the one that shows the most profit. No one can blame him; but it is unfair to allow the grocer to get larger profits from the public than ordinary trading profits, and at the same time expect the wholesaler to work for less than a fair profit.

The amount of wool manifested to arrive at Darling Harbour yesterday was 5340 bales.

BREADSTUFFS.

There was no further change in the position of the local wheat market yesterday. The new Government scheme is expected to come into operation on December 1, and until then the only buyers are the local millers. There was a small demand yesterday for grain for immediate delivery at from 4/4 to 4/5 a bushel, on trucks, Sydney. For prompt trucking 4/3 Sydney was the best price offered.

Flour was quoted at £11/17/6, bran at £4, and pollard at £6/10/ a ton.

PERMISSION TO EXPORT WHEAT.

The Collector of Customs advises that wheat may be exported from the Commonwealth, without restriction, to the United Kingdom, allied countries in Europe, and to South Africa, provided shipment is made in vessels controlled by the chartering agents of the Commonwealth, namely, Messrs. Gibbs, Bright, and Co., and Messrs. Elder, Smith, and Co.

Exporters should make, in respect of each shipment, formal application to the Collector of Customs for permission to ship.

At Darling Harbour yesterday 2797 tons of wheat and 56 tons of flour were manifested to arrive.

LONDON MARKET CABLES.

METALS.

LONDON, Nov. 24.

Closing quotations to-day were:—

Copper: Spot £80/7/6 to £80/12/6 per ton (12/6 down); at three months, £80/15/ to £81 per ton (12/6 down).

Tin.—Spot £166/5/ to £166/15/ per ton (£2/10/ down); at three months, £165/5/ to £165/15/ per ton (£2/5/ down).

Lead.—Spot, £27 per ton (15/ down).

SILVER.

Bar silver was quoted to-day at /26½ per ounce standard, an advance of ⅛d.

The advance is owing to small supplies and a continued inquiry here for the Continent and India.

WHEAT.

The Wheat Board has secured offices in the Baltic, the occupation of the premises completing the organisation. The demand is quiet, and satisfactory prices could be obtained if early shipment were guaranteed, but buyers are apathetic for distant shipment. Bluestem and Walla Walla steamer cargo about to load is quoted at 44/6 per quarter.

LINSEED OIL AND TURPENTINE.

Linseed oil, spot pipes, is selling at £32 per ton, equal to 2/6.85 per gallon, a fall of £1 per ton, or .96d per gallon.

Turpentine is worth 43/9 per cwt, an advance of 1½d.

TALLOW.

RISE OF THREE SHILLINGS.

At to-day's sales tallow advanced 2s per cwt. 976 casks were offered and 872 were sold. Prices:—Mutton, fine 52/6, medium 50/; beef, fine 51/6, medium 50/. There was an excited demand.

INTERSTATE MARKETS.

ADELAIDE, Thursday.

Wheat is quiet; growers' lots, 4/1½ to 4/3; parcels, 4/2 to 4/3 f.o.b. outports; 4/4 to 4/5 at Port Adelaide. Flour, £12. New season's bran, 1/. Pollard, 1/5 to 1/5½. Oats are firm for immediate supplies, 2/4 to 2/6, neglected forward. Barley is coming forward more freely, prime malting around 3/6, Cape ly to 2/. Chaff, £5/7/6 on trucks at Mile End, bags included; cornsacks, 8/6 to 8/9, November. Branbags, 1/6. Butter, 1/3½ to 1/4½ for factory; 1/1½ to 1/2½ dairy and separator, 1/ to 1/1 stores. Eggs, 1/2½. Cheese, /8½ to /9½. Honey, /4½ to /5. Bacon, 1/3 to 1/3½; hams, 1/4½ to 1/5½.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

In wheat there were moderate purchases from South Australia, equal to about 4/9½ Melbourne; Victorian sold to 4/9. Flour, £11. Bran quiet at £4/10/. Pollard is in good demand but scarce at £7. Oats are quiet and easier in tone. Chaff about 5/5, Japan /10½. Maize firm, red 5/5; white sold at 5/1. Chaff is easier owing to increased arrivals at £5/10/ to £5/15/. Straw is scarce at £5/10/ to £6; Tasmanian, £6 to £6/10/. Potatoes are firm, old practically cleared up. A few lots of seed sold at about £10. New Brighton Carmens are firmer at £11/10/ to £12. Onions are quiet; Globes, £4 to £4/10/. Silverskins, £2 to £2/10/; brown Spanish about £3. Butter is firm at 145/, with enquiries from the Queensland Government. Eggs are firm at 1/4 to 1/4½. Cheese is steady; prime medium, new /9, loaf /9½. Cornsacks are stagnant at 8/. Branbags are steady at 1/. Galvanised plain iron advanced to a basis of £31 for 22 and 24 gauge. Galvanised spouting is easier.

MELBOURNE FRUIT MARKET.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

In the Queen Victoria Market to-day apples sold from 15/ to 18/ per case; almonds and walnuts from /10 to 1/ per lb; apricots, /2 to /4 per lb; cherries, from /2 to /5 per lb; oranges, from 16/ to 20/ per case; lemons, from 10/ to 12/ per case; cherry plums, from 5/ to 7/ per case.

PRODUCE.

DAIRY.

ANOTHER BUTTER FAMINE.

Another butter famine is upon the people of New South Wales. For days, almost weeks past, the production on the North Coast has been rapidly falling off, until yesterday agents found that there was not nearly sufficient butter available to fill Sydney's requirements. Some houses were able to supply about 50 per cent of their customers, but there were other firms who had to decline fully 20 per cent. of their orders. The position in the other butter-producing States of the Commonwealth is also acute, and private telegrams from the Capital cities announce that prices are advancing. In Melbourne, the quotation for choice brands has been increased by 5/ per cwt, and now stands at 145/, while in Brisbane a proclamation has been issued stating that from to-day the wholesale price of first brands shall be 149/4 per cwt; a rise of 1d per lb, and 9/4 per cwt. The season in Queensland is an exceptionally bad one. The total outturn of all the factories in the Northern State last week amounted to only 4304 boxes, compared with 12,800 boxes during the same period last year. In New Zealand, the prospects for a favourable season are bright. The North Island has had almost too much rain, while the conditions in the South have materially improved. There is very little buying on British account, although prices vary from /14½ to /14¾ net f.o.b. from November shipment. Secondary qualities are neglected owing to the heavy supplies available.

There was no change in the cheese market. Supplies were to be had in all quarters at /10 per lb. The outlook in the British markets is much brighter, and buyers in New Zealand are prepared to pay close to 8d per lb. usual export terms, for shipments of large sizes during the next few months.

Eggs met with a steady demand, and values were maintained at about the previous day's levels. There was very little margin between the prices asked for the best eggs and the worst eggs. New-laid samples were worth from 1/4 to 1/5, while river consignments were not to be had under 1/3½ a dozen. For parcels from the railway and South Coast, 1/3½ to 1/4 was wanted. Duck eggs were dull, and the best suburban brands could have been secured at 1/3 and 1/4 a dozen.

Stocks of honey were light, and holders of choice western refused business under /5 and /5½ per lb. Inferior quality honey was sold at from /2½ to /4 per lb.

The approach of Christmas is naturally bringing with it an improved inquiry for poultry, and values are very firm.

Bacon moved out freely at full rates.

FORAGE AND GRAIN.

The market was almost bare of potatoes, but small shipments should be available from the Clarence River and Victoria to-day. Monday's consignments from the Clarence were cleared at £15 a ton.

Onions were quiet. Globes were offered at £5/10/, and Old Brown Spanish at from £4 to £5 a ton. Silverskins in bags were to be had at from £3/10/, and in cases at £4/10/ a ton.

There was a good demand for yellow maize, and flat African commanded from 5/7 to 5/9 a bushel. Round grain was to be had at from 5/6 to 5/7. White maize was not nearly so valuable as yellow, and was sold at from 5/5 to 5/6 a bushel.

Owing to the high price of maize, oats attracted increased attention, and a substantial business was done at full late rates.

There is at the moment a severe drought in Queensland, and as a result heavy orders for chaff for immediate shipment are coming to hand from Brisbane. The best samples are quoted at from £5 to £5/15/ a ton.

RAILWAY MARKET.

The market at the Railway produce auction yesterday advanced another 1d on the preceding day's late ruling. The quality generally was good, with firm lots selling from 5/6 to 5/9 per cwt. Although prices were up, and the demand was good throughout, it lacked the activity of Wednesday. There was an unusually large attendance of buyers present. Three consignments of prime quality oaten chaff realised 6/ per cwt.

At the conclusion of the sale, 183 bags of wheat, the product of 55 acres, and three patriotic flags, both sent by Mr. Phillips, of Cope and Phillips, Calala Farm, Curlewis, were auctioned on account of the Australia Day Fund. The wheat realised 4/5 per bushel, while the flags, of which two were sold and resold, finally brought £2 10s. It might be added that Messrs. Cope and Phillips were the only farmers in New South Wales to send a truck of fat sheep on account of the War Food Fund last year.

Produce placed in position for sale:—Hay, straw chaff, 80; grain, 7; potatoes, 1.

Manifested to arrive:—Hay, straw chaff, 95; grain, 49; potatoes, 22.

Oaten Chaff.—Menzies, Brundah (16447), 6/; do. (2994), 6/; do. (7278), 6/; Jones, Emu Plains (4457), 5/8 per cwt.

VEGETABLE MARKET.

Conditions at the Vegetable Market yesterday were slightly firmer for all descriptions, with root lines unchanged at the preceding day's ruling rates. Although prices for potatoes were without alteration, a good demand existed. Large shipments of Victorian and Tasmanian peas are expected to arrive to-day.

Quotations were:—

Cabbages, 6d to 6/6; vegetable marrows, 4/ to 6/6; lettuce, 1/6 to 2/ per dozen; carrots, 2/ to 2/6; parsley, 3/ to 3/6; white turnips, 1/6 to 2/6; beetroot, 1/ to 1/6; watercress, 1/ to 1/9; mint, 1/; herbs, 1/; spinach, 1/6 to 2/6; eschalots, 1/ to 1/6; rhubarb, 3/ to 3/6; parsnips, 2/6 to 3/6; celery, 3/ to 4/; radishes, /9 to 1/; asparagus, 6/ to 9/, choice 12/ per dozen bunches; onions, local, Silverskins 6/ to 10/, brown Spanish, 4/ to 6/; Melbourne whites, 6/ to 10/ per cwt; French beans, local, 3/ to 4/ per bushel; peas, Victorian, 2/6 to 5/, Tasmanian 2/6 to 6/, local 4/ to 7/6 per bushel; potatoes, Tasmanian Redskins 15/, Bismarcks (new) 21/; West Australian Up-to-dates 18/; New Zealand, 13/ to 16/; American Burbanks, 15/ per cwt, 17/ per case of 100lb; local, new 18/ to 20/, old 12/ to 14/, Early Rose to 20/, Up-to-dates to 24/ per cwt; tomatoes, local, 4/ to 6/6 per half-bushel case; chillies, 7/ to 8/ per box; cucumbers, 4/ to 4/6 per dozen, 12/ to 20/ per bushel-case.

FRUIT MARKET.

ORANGES DEARER—CHERRIES CHEAPER.

There was a strong demand for oranges, and prices were dearer. Choice samples commanded from 19/ to 20/ a case, while even for the smallest samples from 7/ to 9/ was wanted. On the other hand, cherries were cheaper. Choice lots were sold at from 6/6 to 8/ a quarter-bushel case.

Quotations were:—

The quotations for local fruit do not include cases.

Lemons. Local: Choice 15/ to 16/, medium 9/ to 11/, small 7/ to 9/; Victorian, 12/ to 14/ a bushel-case; American, 22/6.

GEELONG.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

Wool sales were held in Geelong to-day, when 10,000 bales were submitted. The inclusion of many choice clips, both merino and crossbred, lent particular interest to the auctions, and under keen competition the sale passed off with spirit. The market remains unchanged.

NEW ZEALAND.

AUCKLAND, Thursday.

Extreme prices were realised at the first wool sale this season. American buyers practically dominated the market. Prices showed an advance of 1d to 1½d over southern sales. The highest price for greasy wool was 21d.

STATION PRODUCE SALES.

The Sydney Wool Selling Brokers' Association reports:—

Tallow.—The better qualities advanced 40/ to 50/ per ton, while lower grades were quite 30/ per ton higher. Quotations:—Prime, £41/10/ to £42/ per ton; exceptional lines, to £42/10/; good, £40 to £41; medium, £38/10/ to £39/15/; inferior, £32 to £36; broken parcels, £30 to £33/10/.

COAL MINERS.

The delegate board of the Illawarra district of the Australasian Coal and Shale Employees' Federation has considered the proposed terms of agreement arrived at at the compulsory conference held at Melbourne, and decided to recommend the members to accept the proposals.

"A great deal of dissatisfaction was expressed at the meagre increases offered," said Mr. Willis, miners' general secretary, "and were it not for the grave international crisis now existing the terms would have been unanimously rejected."

QUOTATIONS BRIGHTER.

BUSINESS RESTRICTED.

SELLERS HOLDING FIRM.

Business was again on restricted lines yesterday. This, however, did not betoken a listless or slack market, for the limited sale record was due more to the firmness of sellers than to the slackness of buyers. Having had to face sagging values for some time past, scrip-holders took advantage of the better buying movement that set in on Wednesday to mark up their prices. Hence the spectacle of buyers, though offering fractionally better rates, seeing sellers always on the retreat. The result was a hardening market in the face of inactivity.

This apparent anomaly was unusually pronounced yesterday, so an analysis of the quotations at the noon and afternoon calls, whilst reassuring to scrip-holders, was not so to the commission book of operators. Possibly an explanation lay in the fact that the Wallaroo and Moonta, B.H. Souths, and B.H. North had declared acceptable dividends. There was also the firm prices ruling for lead and silver, and the announcement that the Indian Government was wanting the latter metal. Whatever were the true causes, the fact remains that the quotations in every section, but more particularly Barriers, were calculated to put scrip-holders in better heart than they have been lately.

A splendid sample of silver-lead ore was on view yesterday at the office of Mr. A. B. M'Gregor, 82 Pitt-street, secretary of the Peaks Silver and Lead Mining Company of Yerranderie. It was struck in the eastern crosscut from the shaft, and represented first-class ore 18in wide, measured from the footwall, with second-class ore extending beyond to the hanging wall, which has not yet been reached. The discovery is a very important one, for it clearly proves the continuity of Bartlett's lode right through the Yerranderie field, also that it carries rich values such as existed and still exist in Bartlett's mine, also the Colon Peaks, the Yerranderie, and the New Burragorang mines.

The first-grade ore cut by the Peaks silver mine assayed: Silver 90oz and lead 85.60 per cent.; the second-grade, the width of which is not yet known, 68.6oz silver and 17 per cent. lead; whilst the third assay returned 224.6oz silver, 36.5 per cent. lead, and 4.2 per cent. copper. The big value for silver in this assay was due to the presence of fahlore—the richest in existence. The value of the first-grade ore would be something like £25 per ton, and of the seconds £10. The ore was followed down from the surface on an indicator vein that underlaid from 25 to 32 degrees from the vertical.

At 700ft, a crosscut was put in 230ft, when the 18in of solid ore was cut on the footwall. The latter has all the characteristics of the footwall existing in the Colon Peaks, Bartlett's mine, Yerranderie, and New Burragorang mines—i.e., remarkable regularity and smoothness—hence the manager of the Peaks silver mine is convinced he is on the true lode of the Yerranderie, Colon Peaks, Bartlett's, and New Burragorang mines. If the ore body maintains its present width in the large amount of virgin ground overground, and continues any height or depth, as it did in the adjacent properties, the shareholders of the Peaks silver proposition are going to be rewarded for years of consistent development work.

MINING NOTES.

The St. Mungo Copper Mining Company (Q.) has declared a dividend of 6d per share, payable on December 16.

The Bonnie Dundee Gold-mining Company (C.T.) reports a crushing of 444 tons of ore for 733oz gold. The result is incomplete.

MINING IN THE STATE.

BATHURST, Thursday.

At Rowley's Reef mine (Hill End) the water has been pumped out to the 500ft level, and the old workings found in excellent condition. The old crosscut is in 300ft east on this level, in which work was formerly done on Paxton's Reef. In the drive south on this the dish prospects show fine colour, and lead to the expectation of something better later on. At the Hawkins' Hill Reward the mill is going continuously, with results well up to those of the previous months.

A RICH SILVER MINE.

DIVIDENDS DECLARED £1,755,000.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

The directors of the Broken Hill South Silver Mining Company have declared a dividend of 6s per share, payable on December 22. This will absorb £60,000, and will make the distribution of the company £1,755,000—equal to £8/15/6 per share.

HOMEBUSH STOCK MARKET.

SHEEP.

Upwards of 47,472 sheep, including lambs, were listed for yesterday's sales, from 146 consignors, but only 42,046 were penned, a total of 77,323 head for the week. All the sheep had not arrived by the opening of the market. The consignments included six drafts of 1000 to 1200, 13 from 600 to 950, with the usual large proportion of small lots, the bulk ranging from 90 to 300 head. The weather was fine and hot. The sheep were mainly shorn and short wools, with a sprinkling of woolly. Merinos considerably preponderated. There, however, was a fair representation of crossbreds. All descriptions were forward, and most of the woolly carried burry skins. The merinos included a rather larger proportion of prime and occasional pens of extra prime. Although there was a sprinkling of medium and poor sorts, there was a very fair representation of good useful quality wethers and ewes, including a few lines from the Murrumbidgee. The crossbreds ranged from odd pens of inferior to occasional pens of extra prime, the bulk being good to prime. It was a rather better selection than of late in both merinos and crossbreds.

There was a large attendance of buyers, including Victorians, as well as the usual metropolitan, suburban, and country trade. As the supply of prime appeared to be well within requirements competition was free and values firm for the better qualities, while the more useful trade descriptions were barely so strong. As sales progressed the tone improved, and values were occasionally firmer for the better qualities. Young crossbreds suitable for returning to the country were generally in strong demand at high rates.

Included in the principal sales of shorn and shortwool merinos was a draft from J. Ross (Wilbriggie) to 22/6 for wethers and 18/7 for ewes; from the Whitney Pastoral Company (Carcoar) wethers to 21/4; G. E. Beaumont (Young), to 22/; Colly Creek estate (Willow Tree), to 21/; D. McDonald (Carrathool), to 21/4; and hoggets, W. D. Smith (Combara), to 21/10. A line of merino ewes from J. Watson (Merah) to 20/3, and the A.A. Co. (Willow Tree) to 20/1. Among the shorn and short-wool crossbreds were lines of wethers from J. A. Garry (Scott's Siding) to 26/, — Montgomery (Cowra) to 25/, estate late R. M. Fitzgerald (Craboon) to 24/10, Bowman Bros. (Craboon) to 25/, M. Robinson (Wyalong) to 27/10, and merino wethers to 23/7. A draft from Beazley Bros. (Grenfell) to 27/6 for crossbred wethers and 26/4 for ewes. A line of ewes from A. F. and L. Manchee (Binneguy) to 27/8, T. M. Mann (Merah) to 26/9, and W. Tout (Edgeroi) to 24/. A draft of 612 woolly crossbred wethers from S. H. Willmott (Quirindi) to 29/9, avg 27/8.

Quotations.—Prime shorn and short-wool merino w 20/ to 21/6, extra prime 22/6 to 25/6; good shorn and short-wool merino w and h, 17/ to 18/6; medium shorn and short-wool merino w and h, 12/6 to 15/; prime shorn and short-wool merino e 15/6 to 17/; extra prime, 18/6 to 20/6; good shorn and short-wool merino e 12/6 to 14/, inferior 9/ to 11/; prime shorn and short-wool crossbred w and h 21/ to 23/, extra prime and heavy 25/ to 28/, good shorn and short-wool crossbred w and h 17/ to 18/6; medium shorn and short-wool, 14/6 to 16/; prime shorn and short-wool crossbred e 20/ to 22/, extra prime 24/ to 27/8; good shorn and short-wool crossbred e, 16/6 to 18/; medium shorn and short-wool crossbred e, 13/ to 15/.

LAMBS.

WITHOUT MATERIAL ALTERATION.

A good supply was penned, mainly suckers, with a fair proportion of woolly and a sprinkling of shorn lambs. Although crossbreds preponderated, there was a considerable showing of merinos. The pennings included a moderate representation of prime, and occasional pens of extra prime, the bulk comprising fair to good useful trade descriptions. Most of the woolly carried very burry skins. Buyers included a few graziers. The demand was somewhat irregular. At times, competition was keen, and values very firm, and occasionally dull, with a weaker tone. Values generally were on a par with the rulings of Monday last till towards the close, when they were weaker.

Included in the principal sales were a draft of crossbreds from J. W. Morrow (Wallendbeen) to 21/11, R. Cameron (Wee Waa) to 20/5; of crossbred suckers, P. Cummings, junr. (Cubbaroo Siding) to 20/3, and R. N. Ferguson (Gular) to 19/7.

Quotations: Prime suckers, 17/6 to 19/6; extra prime suckers, 20/6 to 22/; good suckers, 14/ to 15/6; medium suckers, 11/6 to 13/, inferior 8/6 to 10/; prime woolly lambs, 19/ to 20/6, extra prime 21/6 to 23/; good woolly lambs, 16/ to 17/6; medium woolly lambs, 11/ to 13/6.

CATTLE.

GENERALLY LOWER VALUES.

A full supply was in view for yesterday's sales. Out of 2187 listed from 99 consignors, 2139 head were yarded, a total of 3718 for the week. The consignments came mainly from the northern, north-western, and Hunter River districts, with a sprinkling from the west, and odd lots from the south. All descriptions were forward, the yardings including odd extra prime heavy bullocks, and occasional yards of useful quality heavy workers, and comprised a very fair proportion of good to prime handy weight bullocks and steers, suited to the summer trade. The cows and heifers included a moderate representation of prime and odd yards of extra prime, mainly comprising, however, medium and useful trade quality. There was also a sprinkling of young light and rough sorts. The yarding generally was a fair to good one.

There was only a moderate attendance of buyers at the opening, and as the supply seemed ample for trade requirements, values were generally 10/ to 15/ per head lower during the early and middle sales. During the later sales the tone improved on good to prime handy weight bullocks and steers, also good to prime cows. In places there was very little alteration on choice light descriptions, and on medium sorts; while at times heavy bullocks were 20/ per head lower.

Included in the principal sales was a line of five bullocks from P. Ferguson (Gular) to £28, avg £20/9/2; Buttabone Pastoral Company (Warren), 62 bullocks to £17/18, avg £15/12/1, and 28 cows to £16, avg £12/6/11; Capel Estate (Barraba), 23 bullocks and steers to £17/10/, avg £16/6/6; E. Smith (Dungog), 28 bullocks to £16/6/, avg £14/12/; J. R. Clark (Breeza), 9 bullocks to £19/10/, avg £19/5/; B. Waters (Tullamore), 11 bullocks to £18/11, avg £17/2/; J. Brown (Currabubula), 9 bullocks at £18/4/; J. McDonald (Camurra), 54 bullocks to £15/15/, averaging £13/9/4.

Quotations: Yards of prime medium weight bullocks, £16/10/ to £19; odd extra prime heavy bullocks to £28; yards of prime handy weight bullocks and steers, £15 to £16/10/; yards of prime light bullocks and steers, £13 to £14/10/; yards of good bullocks and steers, £11 to £12; yards of good light steers, £9 to £10; yards of medium and light bullocks and steers, £7/10/ to £8/10/; yards of light steers, £5/10/ to £6/10/; yards of prime cows and heifers, £11 to £12/10/; yards of extra prime cows and heifers, £13 to £14, odd beasts to £16/10/; yards of good cows and heifers, £9 to £10; yards of medium cows and heifers, £7 to £8; yards of inferior £4/10/ to £6. Best light beef, 44/ to 46/, good light beef 38/ to 40/, medium beef, 32/ to 34/ per 100lb.

AUSTRALIAN WEATHER.

THE "HERALD" MAP.

The pressure system on Wednesday's chart, which engaged more than ordinary interest, was the immense "high," the influence of which pervaded almost the whole of Australia, and as a consequence fine weather ruled generally.

The movements of such extensive and energetic "highs" are worth following during the dry spells, for, although their presence over the continent are associated in the main with fine weather, yet a marked southward surge usually permits monsoonal conditions to assert themselves in the tropics.

Unfortunately, however, this "high" has lost in barometric values (or slumped) and retrogressed, but still retaining its central position to the south of the continent. It is now to the south of Albany.

Generally speaking, although the "dips" in the isobars over Queensland appeared more pronounced on Thursday morning than on Wednesday, there is still lacking that effective co-operation of "high" and "low" pressures which invariably results (when present) in definite weather conditions.

Present indications favour fine weather generally, with moderate temperatures, excepting for isolated shower tendencies on the seaboard. Squally north-east wind on coast, westerly inland.

Ocean Forecast.—Winds freshening from the west and south-west over and south from the Straits. Rough weather over the South Island of New Zealand.

SPORTING.

THE TURF.

Entries close at 4 p.m. to-day, with the secretary, Mr. Edwin Woodbury, for the half-dozen events on the card for the meeting of the Wyong Park Racing Club, on the 2nd prox., and for which 270 sovs prize-money has been provided.

The work on the "magpie" grass track at Randwick yesterday morning was interesting. Eric and Cooringoora disposed a mile and a furlong in 2m 3s. Fend moved freely over five furlongs, and Plenty put in a strong round. Ukuweela and The Fortune Hunter ran a mile in 1m 52s. A seven-furlong spin was done by Onazer in 1m 37½s. Cagou went at half pace, and Colugo spurted a smart half-mile. A five-furlongs spin was run by Barnstormer in 1m 8s. Danum went steadily over three-quarters of a mile. Taunter ran half-a-mile smartly. The Mogul was not extended over six furlongs. Three Star and Brilliants ran half-a-mile freely along the back. Marvos occupied 1m 10s in getting over five furlongs. Elystan spurted half-a-mile in 52s. The tan track was good going. La Penna ran six furlongs in 1m 20s, and a furlong further was run by Frasca and Prinus in 1m 34½s. Useful pacing was done by The Christian Brother. Ickle Lass and Little ran six furlongs in 1m 18s. Giru spurted, and Grail went strongly over six furlongs, as did Sir Vive. Chid and Narivo put three-quarters of a mile past in 1m 18s. Flippant spurted, and Canzone did steady work. Gobble ran a mile in 1m 53s. Royal Time cut out six furlongs in 1m 22½s. Strong work was done by Hopfield, Tullia, Herringbone, Sea Pink, Gigandra, Merimee, Secret Service, Caesium, and Truxton King.

The South Coast Pony Racing Club holds a race meeting on the Wollongong racecourse on the 6th prox., and 160 sovs prize-money has been provided, distributed over six events, the best endowed of which is the Wollongong Handicap of 45 sovs. Nominations must be in the hands of the secretary, Mr. Geo. W. Kilduff, at the office of the club, Royal Arcade, Pitt-street, before 5 p.m. on Monday next.

AUSTRALIAN JOCKEY CLUB.

The monthly meeting of the A.J.C. committee was held yesterday afternoon.

The appeal of R. S. White against the decision of the stipendiary stewards acting for the Boolaroo Race Club on October 30, "warning him off" during their pleasure, was upheld.

The appeal of Charles Gilmore against the decision of the stipendiary stewards, acting for the Cessnock Jockey Club, in disqualifying himself as owner and the b m Simcal, for 12 months, was dismissed.

The appeal of R. Price against the decision of the Northern Rivers District Racing Association in dismissing his appeal against the decision of the stipendiary stewards acting for the Lismore Licensed Victuallers' Race Club, in disqualifying himself as owner and the br g Boy Scout for 12 months from September 1, was dismissed; and the appeal of the jockey Seabrook, in the same case, was similarly disposed of.

The entry of Scoutmaster for the A.J.C. Summer Cup was rejected.

A cheque for £137 13s 3d, the proceeds of a patriotic race meeting, held under the management of the Burren Junction Amateur Turf Club, was, at the request of that institution, ordered to be forwarded to Mr. Adrian Knox in Egypt, and a further sum of £1500 of the money devoted by the A.J.C. to patriotic purposes, was also forwarded to Mr. Knox for disbursement.

The constitution and regulations of the Broken Hill registration board was approved of as amended.

Mr. W. C. Kitson was appointed to act as steward at the Gilgunnia Race Club's meeting on January 1.

The disqualifications incurred by R. Price, J. Phoenix, R. Clark, and the horse Treasure, under rule 10, were removed.

MENANGLE PARK RACING CLUB.

FLYING WELTER STARTS FROM WRONG POST.

THE RACE RE-RUN.

SALVE WINS PARK HANDICAP.

The Menangle Park Racing Club's meeting was run off yesterday in fine but hot weather, and the track showed signs of the protracted drought. There was a very good attendance. The settlement of the last race—the Flying Welter Handicap, 6 furlongs—caused some consternation. Immediately the numbers of the placed horses were hoisted there was a great stampede for the first train back to town; but it was discovered that the race had been started from the 7-furlong post, instead of the 6 furlong. The time—1m 31s—was the first indication of the error, and the stewards at once decided that the race must be re-run. A large number who had found seats in the train returned to the course, and the ringmen commenced operations on the second run. Bets were not declared off on the first flutter, and the result made very little difference to backers or bookmakers, as Barracoonda won both, starting each time at 2 to 1. Place bettors, however, will suffer, as Casada ran second in the first run, and Prince Mimer second over the proper distance.

The placings and betting over the first and second runs were as follow:—First 7 furlongs: Barracoonda, 1; Casada, 2; Caius, 3. Betting: 5 to 2 on Caius, 2 to 1 v Barracoonda, 15 to 1 v Casada, 25 to 1 v Prince Mimer. Won by a head. Time, 1m 31s. Second run: Barracoonda, 1; Prince Mimer, 2; Caius, 3. Betting: Even money on Caius, 2 to 1 v Barracoonda, 4 to 1 v Casada, 20 to 1 v Prince Mimer. Won by six lengths. Time, 1m 20s.

FELL DOWN A WELL.

SOLDIER'S DEATH.

INVERELL, Thursday.

Private Selby M. Brown, son of Mr. James Brown, of Ross Hill, who met with an accident in camp, and was home on sick leave, was lowered down a well 100 feet deep, at Mount Russell, to inspect a pump which was not working satisfactorily. Whilst being hauled up again, and about 40 feet from the surface, the windlass became loose on the spindle, allowing Brown to fall to the bottom. His mate, L. Church, after giving the alarm, descended on the rope, and found Brown at the bottom in six feet of water, apparently quite dead. A subsequent medical examination showed that his neck had been broken.

'BUS ACCIDENT.

SOLDIERS INJURED.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

While proceeding to the Bendigo military camp late last night a motor 'bus overturned, and seven soldiers and two civilians were injured. The injured men were:—George Daldson, injury to spine and severe shock; C. Baxter, fracture of pelvis and severe shock; Sergeant Boyle, fractured pelvis; Lance-corporal Williams, slight concussion of the brain; Private Phair, splintered tibia; Private Rich, abrasions and shock; Corporal Wheeler, abrasions, severe jarring of neck, and shock; Private Arbon, cut over one eye and abrasions. The 'bus had its hood torn off, one wheel bent, and the woodwork on one side smashed. The engine was not damaged.

LABOUR AND EARLY CLOSING.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—As I am the soldier in khaki referred to as "one of the turbulent spirits all through the meeting" at the Trades Hall on Monday night, I ask to be allowed to make a few remarks concerning that unique meeting. I have been a Labour unionist for 20 years, and was a selected Labour candidate for the Tenterfield constituency a few years ago. I have recently returned from the Dardanelles, and, being in favour of a referendum of the people on all momentous public questions, I attended the meeting at the Trades Hall. That meeting was organised by a self-constituted committee without any locus standi as regards the general opinion of the trade unionists or P.L.L. members, to declare a mandate to the Government in respect to a referendum for closing hotels at 6 o'clock. What I, and others, objected to was the decision of the few star chamber persons to admit only those to the meeting who previously had signed a card agreeing to their proposals. Why was it necessary to hold a meeting at all in those circumstances? Any person may be open to conviction regarding a referendum for the purpose, but may first desire to have a debate on the subject. The meeting comprised about 50 adherents to the "secret conclave," and about 30 others, who wished to discuss the right of a small number of persons to voice the opinions of such a huge organisation as the P.L.L. and trade unions. The disturbance which took place was due to the demand of the other unionists present for freedom of discussion on a matter that evidently was intended to involve (in the eyes of the public, at any rate) the whole of the Labour organisations. Those who refused to sign the cards had all kinds of innuendoes hurled at them—nominees of hotelkeepers, etc. A more idiotic attempt to cause the general public to believe that the Labour organisation as a body are in favour of any action in the direction indicated would hardly be thought possible.

I am, etc.,
R. R. WHEREAT.
Nov. 25.

DO YOU BELIEVE IN HANGING?

We do—and we back up our belief by selling lots of things that make the act of hanging more effective. Yes, we believe in and as we know the ladies are with us—especially whenever Christmas heaves in sight—we've added to our list of hangers things our fair friends will be needin' to

HANGING UP OUR COATS AND HATS, IN HANGING PICTURES ON THE WALL

HANG THE CURTAINS TO THE WINDOWS,

for the goodwill season that is drawing nigh. They follow on, at

NOCK AND KIRBY'S NOTED LOW PRICES.

HAT AND COAT HOOKS.—Something everybody needs, and here they are at everybody's price:

CHOICE CHINA.

DELIGHTFUL EXAMPLES AT BEARD, WATSON'S.

SPECIALLY SHOWING THIS WEEK, ROYAL DOULTON ROUGE FLAMBE VASES.

No achievement of the modern Potter has excelled the re-discovery of the secrets of production of the old Chinese Flambe.

The series now on view in our China Gallery have forms which leave nothing to be desired, whilst the beauty of the mottling has a delicacy and a richness beyond description. We quote the following from our large stocks.—

Rouge Flambe Prunus Tea Set of 21 pieces. The tones of colour combined with the design make this Set one of an entirely distinctive note. The charm of the old Chinese Prunus is enhanced by its brilliant setting.

Set containing: 6 Tea Cups and Saucers, 6 Plates, 1 Sugar Bowl, 1 Cream Jug, 1 Cake Plate.

Set as above .... £12/12/.

Rouge Flambe Prunus Coffee Set to match above, containing: 6 Cups and Saucers, 1 Coffee Pot, 1 Round Tray.

Set as above .... £9/9/.

JARDINIERE, in bold and striking example of the Potter's Art, the Trees and Field Flowers in Black forming an harmonious contrast to the rich full Ruby groundwork. Height 11in. .... Price £9/9/ each.

GLOBE SHAPE VASE, with Marine view. The ships, boats, and water animated and full of movement. Height 6½in. .... Price £2/17/6 each.

VASE of an uncommon Square Shape, in mottled Flambe, a unique example. For perfection of glaze and for exquisite colouring this piece easily rivals the finest Chinese. Height 10in. .... Price £4/4/ each.

BOWL, in a deeper Rouge Flambe tone; dainty in form, the hand-painted desert scene on the interior of the Bowl adding to its beauty. Diameter 10in. .... Price, £3/10/ each.

MINIATURE PIECES forming charming Cabinet specimens, at 5/6, 7/6, 10/6, 15/6, 21/ each.

May we forward our Booklet of Art and Utility China?

IN the whole range of dainty, delectable foods that appeal to the palate in these hot Summer Days there is nothing to compare with ARNOTT'S "SAO" BISCUITS.

These crisp, flaky crackers are so enticing and so satisfying, Light, Dainty, and Delicious—their appetising flavour lends enjoyment to any meal.

So easy to prepare, and so good to partake of at any time.

A perfect repast for lunch, afternoon tea, or supper—splendid for outdoor functions.

With fresh butter they ARE a treat.

ALL THOSE IN FAVOUR—SA-O!

PAINLESS DENTISTRY.

My Dental Practice is an exemplification of the truth of that axiom—"A Satisfied Customer is the best Advertisement."

Thousands who have lived in fear of the Dentist have been recommended to me by other thousands, who have tested my painless methods, and found every claim filled to the hilt.

I do not hurt—and will pay anyone £10 who finds a patient of mine who has experienced pain during an extraction.

Further, I will place £5 on the table, which sum is yours if you feel the slightest pain whilst I extract.

The Keynote of my Dental Service is Gentleness.

I do not prick the gums. I do not leave them swollen, but perfectly healthy.

Any number of teeth can be extracted in one sitting, because pain is eliminated. The heart is not affected. Then, too, by means of a special apparatus—the only one in Sydney—I am able to drill and fill your most tender tooth without causing pain.

In short, so tender and sympathetic is the treatment that women of 80 and children of 8 have alike had teeth painlessly extracted at my hands.

OPEN TILL 6 P.M. DAILY (SATS. INCLUDED), AND UNTIL 9 P.M. FRIDAYS.

THE ABUNDANCE OF THE MARKETS TO CHOOSE FROM AT SNOW'S.

History is said to repeat itself, and, perhaps, some day we shall have another King who, like Peter the First of Portugal, will forbid his subjects to buy or sell except for Cash on pain of death.

Buying only those things that you can pay for is a Good Rule, anyway, and, although Debt does not mean Death nowadays, it often is the end of a man's freedom.

SNOW'S

is a Cash Store. We reap all the advantages that come to the Store that pays Cash for all it buys. And you harvest in turn the benefits of a system which carries no expensive Credit Accounting.

WHAT ABOUT BATHING COSTUMES?

Women choosing at Snow's to-day can make their selection from all the popular styles and colourings.
LADIES' BATHING COSTUMES in Cotton and Wool, made in Canadian 2-piece style, in Brown, Navy, Black, and Grey, edged with White, Red, or Sky. 3 sizes, 6/6, 6/11; also in Russian Styles, 7/6, 7/11.
PURE WOOL BATHING COSTUMES, in Canadian and Russian 2-piece styles, Saxe, Navy, Brown, Grey, V. Rose, and Black, 9/11.

BATHING CAPS.

Here are Mother Hubbard Styles in a large variety of colourings, thoroughly proofed and watertight, 1/11½, 2/6, 2/11.
There are also Plain Round Shapes at 11½d, 1/3.
ST. MARGARET OR HANDKERCHIEF CAPS look very becoming, in Reds, Helios, Browns, Navys, Blacks, 2/6, 2/11.

KIMONOS.

For Beach or House Wear. Made in Snow's Specialty Factory, so we can vouch for their quality, fine finish, and fulness.

PITT-STREET HORDERNS

LIKE TO PAY A LITTLE MORE FOR

FIRST CHOICE JAP. SILKS,

because it is worth while. First Choice in Jap. Silks means the right to overhaul a factory's product and select the pieces most free from flaws or unevenness—in a word, the BEST. Of course we pay for the privilege, but if we, therefore, make a little smaller profit, it is "Worth While," in the grip it gives us of the better class trade and the confidence of our customers in the Pitt-street Hordern Quality. Even the cheapest of these is a First Choice Jap.:—

20 inch White Jap. Silks, 6½d, 7½d, per yard.
